ROOSEVELT SECRET PACTS HIT

STALIN'S PURGES DESTROY RULING BODY OF SOVIET

Only 18 of 71 Party Chiefs Left.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 1.—Dictator Josef Stalin's purges have eliminated a majority of the members of the central executive committee, the governing body of the communist party.

Josef Stalin.

As a result, the committee's preliminary meeting, usually conducted two weeks before the opening of the communist party congress in Moscow, will not be held this year because a quorum no longer exists.

It also was announced today that abandonment of the party's periodical mass purges of its membership has been proposed for consideration by the congress, which opens March 10.

[The central executive committee of the communist party, which shapes the policy of the soviet government, is chosen by the communist party congress, members of which are elected in provincial and local party conventions. The system has no parallel in the United States, although the method of naming the executive committee is somewhat similar to that followed in choosing members of the national committees of our political parties.]

Of the seventy-one members of the central executive committee, only eighteen are at liberty, according to records of the Baltic bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Nine members were shot during the last two years of Stalin's purges. One committed suicide, four died natural deaths, and thirty-seven disappeared in GPU [secret police] prisons after being arrested. Two members are in disgrace, having been ousted from their party posts.

Of the sixty-eight alternate members of the committee, sixteen have been shot, one committed suicide, one died a natural death, and forty-two have disappeared, leaving only eight at liberty. Stalin even purged the highest organ of the party, the politbureau [political bureau], which is selected by the executive committee and is the highest governing body of Russia. Two of the ten members of the politbureau and all three of its alternate members were shot.

Treason Purges Unaffected.

The proposal to abolish mass dismissals of party members will not affect the blood purges of traitors and other so-called enemies of the people. The program was proposed by André Shdanov, commissar of propaganda. The newspaper Pravda said it has been accepted by the surviving members of the politbureau.

Proposed changes also would assure party members from arrest and persecution. Shdanov said that reprisals against members would be confined to expulsion, and that arrests would be ordered only under special circumstances.

Restrictions upon party membership also would be relaxed by Commissar Shdanov's proposals. Candidates for membership would be accepted after one year's probation. The period of party service hitherto required for appointment to higher posts would be reduced from twelve to five years and for lower posts from ten to seven and in some cases four years.

Seek to Rebuild Morale.

Shdanov explained that the proposals were intended to restore the party's morale, which has been shaken by the purging of alleged traitors and wreckers. The party is reported to have lost more than half of its members since the last congress, which was held in January, 1934. Today it has approximately a million members, many of whom, according to Shdanov, are not paying their dues.

The last congress celebrated the completion of the second five year plan. The approaching session will discuss the third five year program. According to the soviet constitution, the party is required to convene every two years. The present congress, according to this rule, should have met in 1936.

Committee Approves New Dies Quiz

G. O. P. ECONOMY DRIVE ADVANCES ON TWO FRONTS

Four State Bureaus Face House Quiz.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The economy campaign started by Republicans in the Illinois legislature drove ahead on two fronts today.

It was also learned that sentiment for sharp reductions in the swollen state budget is growing among leaders in the Democratic administration.

Developments indicated:

1. A Republican demand for investigation of four state departments. Targets are likely to be the division of highways, the department of finance, the commerce commission, and the board in charge of construction of armories.

2. Lump sum appropriations in the budget will be attacked in the house appropriations committee next week. G. O. P. leaders will demand to be shown how previous lump sums were spent.

Boyle Promises Help.

Representative James P. Boyle [D., Chicago], who will introduce the administration's appropriation bills, said he will coöperate in the economy drive. Boyle is close to both Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner and was chairman of the appropriations committee until the G. O. P. won control in November.

The inquiry into the four state departments may be proposed in the house next week. Some of these divisions were mentioned in charges of pay roll padding made in Democratic primary campaigns in the last two years.

Joint Committee Favored.

Of three possible methods of starting the inquiry, it is expected that the house will favor one creating a joint senate-house committee for the job. Then the investigation would be bipartisan and its findings could gain more support in the senate, still controled by Democrats.

The committee's powers would be determined by the resolution asking its appointment. The quiz could, of course, include state departments other than those mentioned.

In digging into the big lump sums in the budget, the appropriations committee will be upsetting a practice of many years, a system termed "slipshod" by Arnold P. Benson, Republican senate floor leader. The practice has been to provide hundreds of thousands of dollars for "office expenses" and "operation," which leaves state executives free to spend the money in many ways.

"We want to open up these prize packages and find out what's in them," said Hugh Green of Jacksonville, chairman of the house committee on appropriations.

"One of the best ways to do this will be to get the vouchers showing how the last lump sum appropriations were spent. That will give us an idea as to how much money can be saved."

Early Fight on Lump Sums.

Green said this plan of unmasking the lump sums will be placed in operation next week. His committee will then receive the first of the department appropriation bills, that for the state auditor's office.

Here are some of the state auditor's lump sums: office expenses, $120,000; travel, $190,000; contingencies, $15,000; examination of books and accounts of state departments, $150,000, totaling $185,300 more than previous appropriations.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago], long an energetic critic of easy spending, will be active in this fight.

Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, visited Springfield regarding tax matters.

"Lump sum appropriations are always considered unsound practice," this expert said.

The attitude of Boyle today was considered a good omen for the effort to cut spending. Besides having been head of the appropriations committee, he was on the budgetary commission.

"The Democrats are just as eager as the Republicans to run the state government economically," Representative Boyle said. "We are not going to vote for a cent that is not needed."

ANOTHER APPEASEMENT EFFORT

Bare Extortion Threat; Police Trap Suspect

Policemen of the detective bureau laid a trap last night and captured a man who, they said, had threatened to pour acid on a woman and her two children unless they paid him $2,134.

Russell O. Davis.

The intended victims of the alleged extortion plot were Mrs. Ruth Friedlund Nilsson of 5900 Sheridan road and her son and daughter by a previous marriage. They are Betty Friedlund, 13 years old, and John Friedlund, 10. Their father, who was divorced from Mrs. Nilsson several months ago, is Attorney J. Arthur Friedlund.

Mrs. Nilsson is the daughter of the late Edwin M. Colvin, a former president of the W. F. Hall Printing company.

Extortion Note Received.

On Jan. 13 an extortion note was received by Mrs. Nilsson, now the wife of Goodwin Nilsson, a professional golfer. The note said acid would be tossed on her and the children unless the money were paid.

"If you are willing to deal with me, park your car on Sheridan road for ten minutes at 9 o'clock p. m.," the note stated.

Mrs. Nilsson consulted her former husband. He instructed her to appear to comply. He also informed Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, who assigned ten men to handle the case. They have been working ceaselessly since.

The agreed signal was given. The extortionist then telephoned Mrs. Nilsson and informed her she should give the money to a messenger boy.

Soon afterward a messenger arrived. His orders were to take the package to an office of his company on Sheridan road. He did so.

Extortionist Calls Again.

No claim for the package was made, but the extortionist called again to say that he was satisfied. He also secretly left a bottle of sulphuric acid at Attorney Friedlund's present home at 507 Roscoe street as proof of his determination.

Yesterday he reported that another messenger would call last night. When a delivery boy arrived at the Nilsson house Detectives James Zegar and Thomas Brown seized him. He said he was to meet at Thorndale and Winthrop avenues the man who had sent him.

Brown took the boy's jacket and his bicycle and met the man. He attempted to flee, but was caught. He confessed to Brown and Sergt. Andrew Aitkin.

"My name is Russell O. Davis," he said. "I am 28 years old and out of work. I needed the money so I could try to effect a reconciliation with my wife. I thought Mrs. Nilsson would pay."

Davis insisted the money he had asked was a debt owed him by Mrs. Nilsson's father, but police said this was untrue.

POLICE HUNT BURGLAR WHO USES SMALL BOY AS HIS ASSISTANT

A large man and an exceedingly thin boy were leaving Charles Anderson's bungalow at 5324 Dakin street last night when Anderson and his wife drove up.

Anderson let Mrs. Anderson out at the sidewalk. "I'll drive around to the back," he said. "You go on in."

The man with the boy spoke up: "I wouldn't do that mister. The snow's too deep back there."

Anderson, a retired butter and egg merchant, thanked him for his advice and parked in front. When he and Mrs. Anderson went inside their house they discovered why the man might have been anxious to prevent their becoming suspicious of him.

The house had been ransacked. Jewelry worth $300 and $24 in cash had been taken.

The kitchen door had been unlocked from the inside. A narrow pane of glass had been removed.

Jefferson Park police went out looking for a large man and a slender boy, explaining:

The man evidently takes the boy along to assist in burglaries. The man helps the boy in through openings too small for an adult. Once inside by virtue of his thinness, the boy unlocks the door and admits the man, who loots the place. The police believe the two are father and son.

Mr. Groundhog Needs a Shovel to Peek at Sky

Mr. Groundhog, if he can find a snow shovel and a pair of mittens, will dig out of his burrow today and take a walk. If the sun is shining and he can see his shadow he'll scurry back underground, because there will be six more weeks of winter. If it's a cloudy day he'll stretch a bit and start housecleaning for an early spring.

That's the tradition. It works out often enough so that a good many folks believe it. The groundhogs themselves don't care.

Only Five Dark Days.

Forecaster H. A. Downs said yesterday afternoon that it was 3 to 1 the Mr. Groundhog who lives in Chicago wouldn't see his shadow. But last night the forecaster wasn't so sure. The outlook was for generally fair weather, but with a minimum of sunshine. So Mr. Groundhog will have to be careful about what hour of the day he appears.

On a percentage basis, the figures are all in favor of Mr. Groundhog seeing his shadow and taking a six weeks' nap. For in the last twenty-eight years the sun has failed to shine on only five Groundhog days.

Right on All Cloudy Days.

Mr. Groundhog was right on every one of the five cloudy days—which were in 1915, 1924, 1926, 1932, and 1935—according to weather bureau records. He was right 12 out of the other 23 times. Putting them together this gives him a total of 28 chances, 17 hits, and 11 misses.

The winter thus far has been milder and dryer than usual, according to the weather bureau summary for December and January. Mean temperature has averaged 4.2 degrees above normal, while precipitation has averaged .54 of an inch less than usual.

ORDER WHIPPING POST FOR QUAKE RUMOR MONGERS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Chilean government today prepared to spend 2,500,000,000 pesos [$125,000,000] to repair the havoc of last week's earthquakes.

At Concepcion the government decreed that persons found guilty of starting rumors and exaggerated reports of earthquake casualties would be whipped publicly to the beat of drums. Punishment was set at 100 lashes for persons starting especially exaggerated rumors.

Rebuke Envoy of New Deal for Abusive Talk

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Over the stormy protests of several congressmen known for their radical leanings, the house rules committee today decided to report favorably on a resolution extending the life of the committee on un-American activities. The resolution will be brought up in the house Friday and approved overwhelmingly, according to all indications. It contemplates an appropriation of $100,000 to carry on the inquiry. The committee took no formal vote.

Rep. Eugene Cox. Ranking member of rules committee halts Kent Keller's abuse of Dies.

At two hearings today, several representatives acted as spokesmen for the Roosevelt administration, which opposes continuance of the investigation headed by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.]. The witnesses abused Dies and members of his committee until admonished by members of the rules committee before which they were appearing.

Keller Denies Copying Pamphlet.

Representative Kent Keller [D., Ill.] criticized the Dies committee for listening to testimony which, he said, defeated Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan in his campaign for reëlection.

Keller protested loudly when asked about the charges of Dies that a striking similarity exists between a speech made by Keller and an article contained in a pamphlet distributed by the communist party. The speech and the pamphlet both assailed the Dies committee.

"I never saw that pamphlet in my life," declared Keller.

"I'll let the members of this committee read the pamphlet and the speech and decide that for themselves," Dies remarked.

Reprimanded for Abusive Talk.

Keller then became so abusive of Dies that Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.], ranking member of the rules committee, admonished Keller.

"Please lift your discussion above the level on which you have been maintaining it," Cox told Keller. "I don't wonder at your indignation at an indication that you plagiarized from a communist paper, but abuse has no place in your testimony."

Representative L. D. Geyer [D., Cal.] told the rules committee that the Dies committee had been "thoroughly discredited" in his state. The committee hearings produced evidence that several Democratic candidates in California were communists or had communistic connections.

Favors Secret Hearings.

"I also have been called a communist," he remarked. "I favor turning the investigation over to the La Follette Civil Liberties committee. And I don't think there should be open hearings. They should be held in executive session."

"Do you happen to know," asked Cox, "that the La Follette committee employs a confessed communist as an investigator?"

Geyer said he didn't know.

Representative Caroline O'Day [D., N. Y.], friend of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, also appeared to advise transfer of the inquiry to the La Follette committee.

Representative John D. Dingell [D., Mich.] also protested against the reappointment of Dies to the committee. But Speaker William B. Bankhead announced that all present members of the committee will be reappointed.

150 YEARS LATE, BAY STATE FINDS IT HAS RIGHTS

Boston, Mass., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Leverett Saltonstall today asked the legislature to ratify the first ten amendments to the federal constitution, the "bill of rights" adopted 150 years ago to safeguard American civil liberties.

Massachusetts wrote a model constitution containing its own bill of rights, but never ratified the federal guarantee. Connecticut and Georgia also did not ratify.

Gov. Saltonstall suggested the legislature take this action in a resolution on March 4, birthday of the federal bill of rights.

SENATORS VIEW U. S. ALLIANCES AS ROAD TO WAR

Demand Facts About Stabilization Fund.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The increasing distrust in congress of President Roosevelt's mysterious dealings with Great Britain and France exploded on the senate floor today with a chorus of demands to lift the veil of secrecy and let the American people know how far they have been carried on the road to war.

Senator Clark.

The administration's secret efforts to assist the British and French aerial armament programs, unsuspected by the public until an American military bomber crashed at Los Angeles with a French agent aboard last Jan. 23, were denounced by senate isolationists as a repetition of the course that led the United States into the world war.

Call for Publication.

Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] and Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.], members of the military affairs committee, served notice that they would demand publication of the record of the committee investigation that grew out of the Los Angeles plane crash.

The five Republican members of the committee agreed at a conference to support a motion which Senator Clark will make at a meeting of the committee Thursday to publish the record of the investigation to date. They also will demand open hearings hereafter.

As a part of this investigation the military affairs committee yesterday heard President Roosevelt assert that France and England constitute our first line of defense and intimate unmistakably that this government has committed itself to assist the "democracies" for the purpose of saving civilization from the threat of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

Secret Lecture Assailed.

Mr. Roosevelt's secret lecture to the military affairs committee, which senators described as "alarming," "shocking," and "astounding," created the apprehension and misgivings that set off today's debate. The issue has been joined now between the administration world savers and those who believe that the United States should mind its own business and stay out of foreign troubles. The issue, unparalleled in the senate since the league of nations fight in 1919, will overshadow all others as senators scrutinize the President's vast "emergency" armament program.

Off the floor of the senate, Republicans did not overlook the political implications of the issue thrust upon the country by the plane crash at Los Angeles. They expressed the opinion that no other issue would so certainly and quickly lead to a repudiation of the Roosevelt administration as the revelation of mysterious dealings with France and England amounting to a military alliance.

Put Stabilization Questions.

The debate today had much broader ramifications than President Roosevelt's permission for the French air mission to try out with a view of purchasing American military planes before the United States army had had an opportunity to test them.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.] demanded that the public be given information as to the manner in which the 2 billion dollar exchange stabilization fund has been used.

Senator Lodge introduced a resolution demanding an accounting of the stabilization fund, declaring that one of the tools in the conduct of our foreign relations was the power to buy and sell foreign money.

"Can one imagine any greater power than that of juggling a foreign nation's currency?" he asked. "It actually means that you can raise or lower the costs of all the necessities of life. There is no precedent in history for taking such liberties with the internal affairs of other nations."

Senator Vandenberg did not allege that the stabilization fund has been used in some mysterious way to extend credits to France, in the guise of stabilizing the franc, for the purpose of aiding their airplane purchases in this country and circumventing the Johnson act prohibition on loans to war debtor nations.

He said he had no information on this subject, but made the point that the tripartite monetary agreement among the United States, Great Britain, and France, for the stabilization of their respective currencies, was "of major military moment in the contemplation of a foreign war."

Senator Vandenberg said the 2 billion dollar stabilization fund could be used for any conceivable purpose, since it "operates not only under a complete seal of secrecy but under an absolute refusal ever to permit any one in congress or anywhere else to ask any questions whatsoever regarding what has been done with it."

Special Authority Assailed.

Senator Clark told the senate that the special authority given the French air mission to try out the Douglas bomber before the United States army had had an opportunity to test it was "not only unusual but unprecedented in the history of this country."

The Missouri Democrat made this assertion during a heated clash with Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who echoed President Roosevelt's contention that there was nothing unusual about the French airplane deal.

Senator Clark also challenged the explanation made by President Roosevelt and echoed in the senate by Barkley that it was necessary to permit the sale of latest type military planes to France and England in order to put the American factories on a mass production basis in time for our own national defense program.

Clark Disputes Barkley.

"If the record of the committee on military affairs can be made public I shall be very glad completely to explode that theory," Clark said in reply to Barkley's contention. He was referring to the testimony of Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring that American manufacturers cannot fill the French and British orders on hand and be prepared at the same time to handle the army and navy orders.

Senator Clark also blasted the contention of President Roosevelt—echoed by Barkley—that there was no objection on the part of any department of this government to the French airplane deal.

"If the senator from Kentucky had even read the newspapers with as much diligence as he now professes he would know that the plane which crashed at Los Angeles was a plane being designed—and the only plane being designed by the manufacturer—for entry in the war department competition," Senator Clark declared.

Protests Against Plane Sale.

"It embodied possibly the latest and most desirable features of airplane construction, and if the senator from Kentucky will permit the record to be published, or assist in permitting it to be published, he will discover that some very eminent authorities in the United States protested against the sale of that plane to any foreign country before it was adopted for the use of the United States."

Here Senator Clark was referring not only to the testimony of Secretary of War Woodring, but to that of Gen. Malin Craig, chief of stat of the army, and Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps.

When Barkley insisted that there was nothing unusual or improper in the "commercial" transaction with France, Senator Vandenberg demanded to know "why it is necessary that this procedure should go in secret?" Barkley said he didn't understand there had been any secrecy, since the newspapers had been full of it.

Hits Back at Barkley.

When Barkley further insisted that the airplane transaction was an ordinary commercial arrangement subject to no possible criticism Senator Clark made this proposition to him:

"The senator from Kentucky is a very distinguished member of the senate. He is the majority leader, the confidante of the President, and his standing as an American citizen is unimpeachable. Let the senator from Kentucky go to one of these airplane manufacturers and say, 'I understand you have here a plane which is going to be entered in the war department competition next month, or two months from now. I want to get in it and take a ride.'

"They will say, 'Well, senator, we know you are a good American. We know you are a citizen. We know you are a distinguished United States senator. But you will have to go to the war department and get an order to allow you on that plane.'"

Points to Bomber's Cost.

Senator Clark said the Douglas bomber which crashed in the special test flight for the benefit of the French air mission was developed at tremendous cost to the American taxpayers, since the war department paid for a large part of the research and technical experimentation that went into its development.

Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] said the experimental bomber crashed at a time when "we were endeavoring to acquire a certain number of airplanes ourselves," but that "in our generosity and our benevolence we were willing to postpone our needs and our requirements to aid a foreign country and enable it first to acquire the planes which it needed."

"The fundamental question here," said Senator Johnson, "is whether we are to be eased into war without our people knowing anything about it. Do you realize that this incident which we are discussing had its genesis in a freak of fate? No one here would have known that this particular French commission was in this country for the purpose of obtaining planes to be used in warfare had it not been for a freak of fate, the crash of the plane.

Right of People to Know.

"These things were unknown to our people until fate intervened. Good God, gentlemen, do you not think that the American people have a right to know if they are going down the road to war? Do you not think that the American people, with their experience of the last twenty years, should be informed if their rulers are to take them even to the brink of war? Why should they not be informed? They are our masters, and the only master I recognize."

Senator Nye set off the entire discussion when he rose to serve notice that hereafter he would not participate in any secret meetings of the military affairs committee.

"I cannot help placing the developments here in our own country alongside of the developments a long way from here, and believing that some times at least two plus two makes four," Nye declared. "National defense, foreign military purchases, secrecy, talk of quarantines, and sanctions—not to speak of Premier Chamberlain's suggestion to Britain the other day—that she might support American policies toward dictatorships and democracies!

"I have been one of those who many times have wished that we might have known in 1917 what we have come to learn about 1917 since that time. I only know I should never forgive myself were I a few months or a year or two years from now to have to say that I was in any way responsible for the lack of knowledge of what seemed to be in the making in 1939."

Demand Accounting

LOSS OF FRENCH STRENGTH IN AIR BLAMED ON REDS

Lack of Fighting Planes Terrifies Nation.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Why is France compelled to buy military planes in the United States and the Netherlands? Why has this country, which was the leader in the early years of aviation, reached a state where it is terrified over a possible air offensive by Italy and Germany? Why does it not see in itself adequate air defense? What is the matter?

The answer, if military and civilian experts are to be believed, is that everything is the matter. They make one slight exception. They consider the military flying and ground personnel excellent—well trained, resourceful, courageous—all men of superior mettle.

Even on this point, however, authorities make a reservation regarding quantity. If within a year France doubles its military air force—that is, fulfills the present program of having 2,600 machines instead of 1,300 which are counted now—it is pointed out that it is doubtful if flying crews will have been recruited and trained in sufficient number to man all the planes.

Planes Admitted Inferior.

But the main worry is the insufficiency of production of planes and their inferiority—in speed at least—to the planes being turned out by Germany and Italy.

Looking over the borders the French assume that the Italians are producing planes at the rate of 300 a month. They are less certain about the German figures, but the lowest estimate is that Germany is producing 600 new planes a month and that this figure will increase to at least 1,000 before the end of the year.

In contrast to the German and Italian figures, the French note a statement made two weeks ago by Guy La Chambre, French minister of air. He said that in the first eight months of last year French production was an average of forty-one planes a month. In September the output was raised to fifty-three, and in December to seventy. In January 100 were produced, and La Chambre promises that the output will be 200 a month before the end of the year, thus fulfilling the program.

Advise Purchases Abroad.

Even if production reaches 200 planes a month—and experts doubt that this figure can be attained unless there are far more drastic measures than any now contemplated—France will still be in a state of terrifying and humiliating inferiority by comparison with its possble adversaries.

Faced with this prospect, some authorities advise not trying to surpass production of 200 planes a month. They concede that France would be unable to compete with Germany. Consequently they advocate making up the deficiency by purchase abroad. The United States would be expected to be the principal source of supply.

The chief objection to this course is the drain on France's gold supply, since, for the time being at least and until America again becomes a war ally of France, it is expected that the planes must be paid for in cash and gold.

French Work Fewer Hours.

Another suggestion is that the automobile industry ought to be compelled to cease making cars and devote itself to planes. Even if this were possible it is admitted that the transformation could not be accomplished soon enough to put France on a production level with Germany and Italy.

Briefly France is behind its rivals in airplane production because it has inadequate plants working insufficient hours. In Germany, the French calculate, 120,000 men are working 6,960,000 hours a week. France's 48,000 workers are on the job only 2,160,000 hours a week under the 48 hour a week system.

The decadence of French military aviation, which in the early twenties was first in the world—in quantity and possibly in quality also—is a long story of the application of the spirit, method, and influence of French parliamentary democracy in industry and national defense.

Communists Blamed.

It is also a story of revolutionary agitation, since in France, in theory at least, democracy is synonomous with and inclusive of revolution. Not by accident the communists for years have made the airplane factories like the navy shipyards, the centers of unrelenting, fierce propaganda. The object was to cripple the vital fighting service at the very base.

The French became aware they were slipping more than ten years ago when, following a series of crashes, they created a separate air ministry, detaching it from the ministry of commerce.

Four years ago they undertook a new renovation program, but the results became worse. In 1937 the monthly production was only thirty-three planes.

In that year, when the Popular Front was in full swing, the 40 hour week was in effect and workshops were controled by the unions' walking delegates. Strikes were incessant and the authority of managers and foremen dropped almost to zero.

The agreement was general that no industry showed more progress toward revolution than aviation, nor reached such a state of demoralization at a time when all French industry was demoralized.

See Room for Improvement.

Chiefly because the communist party has changed its policy and become bellicose, there has been a change in the labor situation in aviation. Hours have been increased to forty-eight a week and the authority of management has been largely restored.

Experts, however, see room for vast improvement, but believe it can not be attained now that the industry is nationalized and in politics.

Workers still threaten to refuse to work for engineers or foremen whose political views they dislike. They still fear unemployment despite the current building program. For two years, when the Popular Front was in charge, they were drilled so constantly in the principle of limiting output voluntarily that it is difficult for them to do differently.

The workers' idea is that all work should be kept at the pace of the least efficient worker—an idea which appeals to the French sense of "justice." They want no penalties for bad work nor rewards for good.

Wants Industry Militarized.

This spirit is still so widespread that it has evoked indignant protest from Gen. Armengaud, chief of the navigating arm of the air force. He recommends that unless workers mend their ways the industry be completely militarized with the workers having corporals and sergeants put over them.

Expert observers agree that sabotage by workers is only one of many reasons for the weakness of French aviation. They say the chief blame—so far as one cause stands out more than another—must be laid on the interlocking relationship between the airplane industry and politics.

If nothing else, political methods have been introduced since the industry was nationalized in 1936. The result is endless red tape and delays in executing orders while they go through the administrative machine. It is estimated that this time could be cut in half.

Both in the government bureaus and in the working end of the industry big jobs, some of them highly technical, are held by men whose chief merit is the strength of their political recommendations. With 16 billion francs [currently about $424,600,000] to be spent on the aviation program, there is considerable waste, much of which is political.

Nazis Call Roosevelt 'World's Leading Agitator for War'

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The German press today turned on President Roosevelt and called him "the world's leading war agitator." The President's secret meeting with the American senate's military affairs committee yesterday was characterized as "without parallel since the days of the world war."

Nazi government controled newspapers reflected the anger of German officialdom over dispatches from Washington, D. C., that the government of the United States had made commitments to both Great Britain and France which amount to a military alliance.

Headlines Excite Nation.

Glaring headlines excited the nation. The Berlin Nachtausgabe said: "Roosevelt promises war help for Europe" and "Unheard of agitation after the peace speech of the Fuehrer." Newspapers compared Mr. Roosevelt's policies with Adolf Hitler's statement to the reichstag Monday that "I believe in a long peace."

A semi-official statement charged that "Roosevelt is attempting to counteract the tremendous impression which the Fuehrer's speech made throughout the world."

The statement said that the reported sale of 700 American fighting planes to France was "put through by America's ambassador in Paris, William C. Bullitt, who besides being an intimate friend of Roosevelt, was also a confidant of Lenin. For this transaction Bullitt used the President who mobilized his finance minister, Henry Morgenthau Jr., for this purpose. The deal was made against the advice of American army chiefs under pressure from the White House."

Charges Scandal Looms.

The statement said the deal was brought to light accidentally and "now threatens to develop into a gigantic scandal." It alleged that in order to escape investigation Mr. Roosevelt is trying to divert public attention from the transaction through spectacular declarations.

Headlines in the Lokalanzeiger said: "Roosevelt at the head of war agitators" and "Behind closed doors he declares America's frontier is the Rhine."

"The President of the United States has started unconcealed war agitation against authoritarian states," the paper asserted. "Mr. Roosevelt told the senate military affairs committee that he has decided to support England and France against totalitarian states.

"With that, Roosevelt proclaimed intervention in Europe; with that, he finally broke the American neutrality policy and put the United States in the midst of war agitation against authoritarian states.

"The White House has given out the slogan, 'the Americans' frontier is on the Rhine.' The laughable subterfuge that so-called democracies are threatened has been unmasked now in a way so that no man can any longer take it seriously.

"Whoever goes as far as to claim and rearm France as his border fortress shows clearly that he is willing to be the advance guard in that war drive which for a long time has been incited according to a plan."

Headlines and editorial comment were along the same vein in other newspapers. Here are some of the samples: "This action of Roosevelt's is without parallel since the days of the world war;" "Washington stirs up the people to make business," and "Washington yesterday officially became the center of war-inciting hatred against totalitarian states."

The press campaign against Mr. Roosevelt helped to detract the attention of the German public from economic worries which had been heightened by Hitler's announcement that he intends to increase exports at all costs. How an increase in exports is to be achieved has not been disclosed.

Warning Taunt by Duce.

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 2 [Thursday].—(AP)—The statement attributed to President Roosevelt that the United States' frontiers are in France drew a warning taunt from Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, today.

The paper said Gen. Giraud's assurance at Metz, on the strength of France's Maginot line and the French army, evidently "made an immediate and favorable impression in America. It is understandable that, having to select a frontier, the United States chose that which, according to them, offers the best guarantee of stability and safety."

[Gen. Henri Giraud, French commandant at Metz, last Monday night said it would be suicide for Germany and Italy to attack France because of the strength of her German border fortifications.]

"No one wonders at President Roosevelt's statement," the Popolo D'Italia article went on. "France is a country providing most frontiers. Czecho-Slovakia's frontiers were in France before Munich, and their end is known. Those of Barcelona also were there, and what will be their end also is known. So there is room for frontiers of the United States."

SENATORS HUNT FRENCH SOURCE OF PLANE FUNDS

Will Quiz Manufacturers on Terms of Secret Deal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Members of the senate military affairs committee investigating the French airplane deal served notice today they will call American aircraft manufacturers in an effort to learn the answers to two questions:

How is France paying for the planes she is buying in this country?

On what terms is she getting them?

President Roosevelt's assertion yesterday at the secret White House session of the military affairs committee that both Great Britain and France must pay cash for their airplanes has not allayed senatorial suspicions that unusual credit arrangements are being made.

Morgenthau's Rôle a Mystery.

The mysterious rôle played by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., in the French airplane deal has not been explained to the satisfaction of committee members. Since Secretary Morgenthau is manager of the 2 billion dollar exchange stabilization fund, the operations of which are secret, and is the responsible agent of this government in the tripartite monetary agreement with Great Britain and France, many senators are suspicious of his part in the airplane deal.

The Johnson act prohibits loans or credits to any defaulting war debtor, thus proscribing both Great Britain and France, but credit conceivably could be arranged by using the stabilization fund in the guise of stabilizing the franc.

Morgenthau Engineers Deal.

Testimony before the military affairs committee has disclosed that Secretary Morgenthau, on his own responsibility and without consulting the war department, requested various American aircraft manufacturers to permit the French air mission to inspect the latest military planes for the purpose of placing orders.

When certain companies refused to extend such courtesies without having permission of the war department, an effort was made to obtain the war department's consent. This was refused and Morgenthau went to President Roosevelt, who sided with the secretary of the treasury rather than with Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring.

The war department had no alternative but to grant permission for the French mission to test the new Douglas light bomber, which crashed at Los Angeles with a French agent aboard.

Takes Over Commerce Duties.

Morgenthau explained his part in the deal by saying that, as secretary of the treasury, he was interested in promoting American business and exports—a responsibility that ordinarily devolves upon the secretary of commerce.

The senate committee also was told that the treasury procurement division interested itself in the French airplane purchases because of its experience in acquiring planes for the American army and navy. The committee later learned that the army and navy have their own procurement divisions and purchase their own planes.

Some senators intend to find out, if possible, whether arrangements have been made for any international bankers to make credits available to the French. The preliminary investigation has convinced members of the military affairs committee that no credit from the American aircraft manufacturers is expected. The manufacturers are to receive cash.

Price Remains Secret.

The senators, so far, have received scant information on the terms France has been able to arrange with the manufacturers. They understand the planes are being purchased on negotiated contracts, without competitive bidding. Whether any government pressure has been exerted to fix the purchase price has not been disclosed. Neither has there been any information as to whether France is getting the planes cheaper than they would be sold to other powers.

About the only facts actually known are these: [1] That France last year ordered 100 Curtiss pursuit planes of a type in use more than a year by the army and hence available to any foreign purchaser not proscribed by the state department's "moral" embargo on countries that bomb civilian populations; and [2] that a French agent is in this country to buy 600 or 1,000 more American planes of the latest type at a cost of approximately $65,000,000.

French Treasury Depleted.

Members of the senate military affairs committee are convinced that France is in no condition financially to pay cash for large quantities of airplanes in this country. In the French chamber of deputies yesterday, Air Minister Guy La Chambre was reproached for having obtained financial credits of 640,000,000 francs [$17,000,000] in December while "refusing all information on its use to the chamber."

Other deputies objected to the purchase of American planes on the ground that the export of capital would weaken the franc.

If the French franc should be weakened by the export of capital to purchase American planes, this government would be bound, according to members of the military affairs committee, to use the stabilization fund for the purpose of stabilizing the franc.

Another possible source of credit which has been suggested by senators is the Export-Import bank. This agency has broad authority to issue its own debentures and use the proceeds in any manner whatsoever to promote American exports. Arrangements recently were made, through the Export-Import bank, to extend a credit of $25,000,000 to China. Great Britain extended a similar credit.

BUSINESS HALT BLAMED SOLELY UPON ROOSEVELT

Nation's Jitters Traced to Waste and War Scare.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The current setback in business was attributed today by Representative J. William Ditter, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, to the policies President Roosevelt has pursued since the new congress convened a month ago.

Representative J. W. Ditter.

The encouragement given to business by Republican gains in the November elections, Mr. Ditter said, has been wiped out by the President's fomentation of a war scare, initiation of a greater spending policy, resistance to modification of New Deal legislation, and appointment of radicals to office.

Waste Halts Upturn.

"When the new year began," said Mr. Ditter, "this country was confident of a robust economic upturn, but the wild and reckless spending recommended by the President in every direction once more has chilled all natural impulses of recovery.

"Our weekly reports from the field disclose an amazing reversal in business sentiment as President Roosevelt's 1939 policies were unfolded in successive messages to congress during January.

"The American people approached the new year in a spirit of great expectations. Sweeping Republican gains in the November elections had been very reassuring. There were widespread hopes that the President would follow the cue of the elections and steer a course toward sanity and stability in federal affairs.

"Consequently, as the session began Jan. 3, the annual business reviews were a chorus of optimism concerning the recovery outlook for 1939."

Confidence Is Dispelled.

This "budding spirit of national confidence," the congressman went on, has been withered by Mr. Roosevelt almost single handed.

"In a single month he has recommended to congress more than 12 billion dollars in new spending by the federal government," said Mr. Ditter.

"Instead of centering every energy of his administration upon programs to put our 10 million unemployed back to work, the President has aroused world-wide alarms of war.

"He has vigorously resisted every suggestion for economy and order in the federal finances.

"He has refused to lend his active aid or influence toward modification of the several New Deal laws which hamper investment and enterprise.

"He has made a whole series of indefensible appointments to high administrative offices—appointments which, for brazen partisanship, send a chill down the spine of every citizen who is required to make honest business commitments for the future.

"Special field surveys in widely scattered states reveal that 80 people out of every 100 believe there is today but one great check upon a prompt business recovery—lack of confidence in the policies of the federal government.

"Our farmers do not know what to expect next. Business men are fearful of confiscation of part of their property to maintain the new program of spending, deficits, and debt. Working people are fearful for their jobs as the President fills the air with bitter forebodings of war.

"All citizens, without regard to party, now join in the prayer that the President soon will abandon this program of open political warfare against national confidence and give earnest thought to an administrative program calculated to encourage real recovery."

Turn Down Judge

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—By a vote of 15 to 3 the senate judiciary committee disapproved today the appointment of Judge Floyd H. Roberts of Bristol, Va., to be a federal district judge after Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] had charged that President Roosevelt had given veto power over Virginia patronage to Gov. James H. Price of Virginia.

Thus, Glass asserted, President Roosevelt had nominated Roberts instead of either of two men recommended by him and Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.]. He said the nomination was therefore offensive to him and Byrd.

"In fact," Glass added, "we were told through the newspapers that his nomination was to be proposed as a rebuke for the failure of the two senators from Virginia to vote for the measures proposed by the President." Both Glass and Byrd are accounted among the senate's bloc of anti-administration Democrats.

ROOSEVELT NOW ON PATH TO WAR, HOOVER CHARGES

Policies Provoke Ill Will, Ex-President Says.

President Roosevelt's new foreign policies and his insistence on vast, costly armaments reverse the American tradition of neutrality. They will be provocative of international ill will and, possibly, of war.

These declarations were made last night by former President Herbert Hoover. He addressed a gathering of 800, sponsored by the Council of Foreign Relations, in the Stevens hotel.

Hoover asserted there was no justification for building naval and air forces greater than needed for national defense, and added that the Atlantic and Pacific oceans were effective barriers to European or Asiatic aggression.

Quotes Threat by Roosevelt.

After relating that the dictator countries were committing brutalities and wiping out the rights of their minorities, to the distress of the American people, the former President said of President Roosevelt:

"He has now announced a departure in foreign policies. He has stated that we 'cannot forever let pass without effective protest acts of aggression against sister nations' and that there are 'methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our people.'"

At the same time, he said, the President has started plans to make huge increases in armament. Under the program, Hoover said, the United States might become the principal naval power and would certainly be the largest air power.

Sure to Arouse Fear.

"Any nation that sets up such policies [as the President's] and builds an armament of dimensions to back them," he continued, "is sure to arouse fear. This idea of America sitting alone and determining who and what in the world shall stop and go would make us suspect of the whole world. It is certain that combinations of power will arise against a nation that does that, no matter how good its neighborly words may be.

"Let me say that any form of direct or indirect coercion of nations is force and is the straight path to war itself. No husky nation will stand such pressures without bloody resistance."

Hoover declared the American people should be informed clearly whether the United States is to engage in embargoes, to join other nations in enforcing the Roosevelt policies, and "be the policeman of the world."

Americans, he added, have to fear the ideas more than the military aggressiveness of totalitarian states.

"I am confident," he said, "that if the lamp of liberty can be kept alight these ideologies will yet die of their own falsity. They spring not from moral and spiritual inspirations but from the cupidity of men. In any event no additional appropriations for arms will settle these problems."

Speaking of the dangers of attack on American shores, Hoover said:

"The dictatorships know that if they were to attack the western democracies they would probably find their land and sea defenses impregnable.

"Attack from the air offers hideous destruction, but it also brings sobering reprisals. It stiffens resolution and it does not capture capital cities."

Hoover said that Germany now faced eastward and Japan westward, and that neither had any designs in America.

"That any of the dictatorships—Japan, Germany, Italy, or Russia—or all of them together, have the remotest idea of military attack upon the western hemisphere is sheer hysteria," he declared.

Rebels Capture Vich

Spanish rebels yesterday reported the capture of Vich, important rail and highway junction (indicated by arrow). Their coastal column fought its way into Gerona province (shaded area). Dotted line locates the battle front.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Feb. 1. — A Spanish rebel column today drove into Gerona province, the last unconquered province of Catalonia [northeastern Spain].

The rebels' coastal column took Tordera and reached Blanes, forty miles northeast of Barcelona, the same distance from France, and only twenty miles from the city of Gerona. Rebel planes bombed Gerona several times, leaving more than 100 persons dead and injured.

Inland the rebels' central column captured Vich, an important rail and highway junction forty miles north of Barcelona. Vich is an old Roman town which is now a bishop's see and has a population of about 12,000.

The western, Pyrenees mountains, columns were even closer to France. One was at Avia, ready to attack Berga. Another claimed to have partly surrounded Seo de Urgel.

SEEK ARMISTICE TO END BATTLE ON CATALAN FRONT

France Makes Proposals to Spanish Foes.

PARIS, Feb. 2 [Thursday].—(AP)—France has opened international negotiations in an attempt to arrange an armistice in Catalonia, it was learned today, and at the same time has ordered border troops increased to 50,000 men.

The negotiations were started, it was said, for fear that retreating Spanish government troops would be forced onto French soil if the fighting continued.

Premier Edouard Daladier ordered French troops on the border brought up to 50,000 to cope with the 250,000 Spanish militiamen who would be swept across the frontier should negotiations for an armistice fail and Generalissimo Franco's advance continue.

Plan Submitted by British.

The negotiations with Gen. Franco, it was reported, were proceeding through British authorities at Burgos, the rebel seat of government, where France is not represented.

The German and Italian governments, diplomatic sources said, have been informed of the negotiations and have been asked to use their influence to persuade Franco to accept an armistice and give easy terms to those government fighters who would be sent to his territory.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of France has received the Spanish government ambassador several times in the last few days and also has conferred with the French ambassador to Catalonia, Jules Henry. Henry returned to Catalonia today.

Provide for Some in France.

It was understood mass surrender of Spanish government troops in the north was proposed if the armistice is arranged.

Troops in Catalonia which could not be sent back into rebel territory for any reason would be kept in French concentration camps, or, if Franco would give permission, would be sent to central Spain, where the government still is holding nearly a fourth of Spanish territory about Madrid and Valencia.

The French government also has asked other governments to share the expense of keeping government fighters in camps in France to the end of the war.

Parliament Meets in Cavern.

FIGUERAS, Spain, Feb. 1 [By courier to the French border].—(AP)—In a subterranean vault of an ancient castle the Spanish cortes [parliament] today voted confidence in the government of Premier Juan Negrin to carry on the civil war.

Only 62 deputies out of 420 who constitute the normal cortes met in the whitewashed cavern of the 13th century stronghold near Figueras to escape a rebel bombing of the cortes. The rebels made several raids.

The parliament held a two hour session to fulfill requirements of the Spanish republic's constitution that it meet twice a year, once on Feb. 1 and at another time later in the year.

Premier Negrin, appearing healthy and untroubled, told the deputies the fight for Gerona province would continue inch by inch and if the last of Catalonia were lost the war would continue in the central Madrid-Valencia zone.

"We will fix a line the enemy cannot pass, and on that line they will break their advance," he declared. "Our line is now being fixed. I saw it myself yesterday."

Break Naval Blockade.

The premier said government tactics since the rebel offensive against Catalonia began on Dec. 23 had been to preserve its military organization even at the expense of territory.

He asserted the government had broken the rebel naval blockade to bring in desperately needed war material.

[Other dispatches quoted Negrin as saying the loyalists had been forced to buy arms secretly as contraband in various countries, including Germany and Italy, which are aiding Gen. Franco.]

Outlining the government's three war aims, he enumerated:

1. A guarantee of independence for Spain and freedom from foreign influence.

2. A government desired by the people.

3. Termination of the war without persecution to permit all Spaniards to join in Spain's reconstruction.

SENIORS WHO AIN'T GOOD AT 'GRAMMER' MUST STUDY EXTRA

It's the open season on seniors and graduate students at Wheaton college, simply because so many of them can't write correct English.

Instructors found so many mistakes in examination papers and themes they decided a noncredit remedial course was the only solution. One hundred victims were corraled by the faculty. They'll be given a chance to escape the remedial course by writing a 40 minute impromptu paper. Those whose papers are full of grammatical holes must take English for two hours a week.

"It's a gift," chuckled Dr. Lauren A. King, associate professor of English. "We're not charging a cent for the course."

P. S.—Some publicity sent out by the college on the subject spelled it "grammer."

FLYERS NEEDED BY NAVAL AND ARMY SERVICES

Expansion Will Require Few Enlisted Men.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The 1 billion 600 million dollar defense expansion program now before congress will not increase the officer personnel of the army and navy appreciably, except in the air corps.

The increased armament spending will be concentrated largely on equipment, from tools to planes. The army and navy are seeking to create reserves of weapons, ammunition, and tools which can be tapped in the event of war.

In rearming the army is adding only a handful of officers and enlisted men to its rolls, outside the air corps. The program calls for an increase of 180 officers and 6,400 enlisted men in the artillery in conjunction with the 27 million dollar strengthening of the Panama canal defenses.

Seeks 2,200 Aviators.

In the air corps the army is planning to add 2,200 officers to bring the total number of pilots to about 4,000 in ten years. The army has approximately 1,800 pilots.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, would add 1,565 regular army pilots by taking approximately 126 officers into the corps each year until the quota is reached. He would also have 635 reserve pilots on active duty with the army at all times.

Pending the training of regular army pilots Gen. Arnold plans to conduct eleven classes in flying for 230 cadets for the reserve corps. The cadets would receive three months' flight training at civilian schools and then get six months of army flying training.

Reserves to Be Used.

Graduates would receive reserve commission and be put on the active service list as long as they are needed. The plan is expected to add 1,500 temporary flyers to the air corps as about half the members of each cadet class can be expected to be graduated.

The flying schools will augment West Point and other military schools as a source of officer material. The only other source of officers is that operating under the Thompson act. The act provides that 1,000 young men be taken into the army each year for a year's training and that a number not exceeding 10 per cent of the total so enrolled be given commissions in the regular army.

Best Scholars Commissioned.

These commissions go almost entirely to college graduates of high scholastic ranking who have been active in R. O. T. C. units. Army officers regard the act as an excellent arm of the national defense in that it provides excellent officers and at the same time gives training to 1,000 young men.

The army was authorized by the last congress to achieve an officer strength of 14,569. The army is 2,000 officers short of this number.

Navy Needs Told.

The navy department is asking for an increase of 448 officers and 5,500 men to man new ships which will be completed in the coming fiscal year. There also is a request for 73 marine officers and 1,000 enlisted men. The navy's strength now is 10,186 officers and 107,550 enlisted men. There are 1,351 marine officers and 17,500 enlisted men.

Admiral Arthur B. Cook, chief of navy aeronautics, laid plans for training additional pilots before the house naval affairs committee today. He asked for 3,500 new pilots.

He said this number of pilots would provide two crews for each of the 1,000 planes the navy would be authorized to build. It has 2,000 planes.

Ground Hog's Forecasts More Often Right Than Wrong

According to tradition, if the ground hog comes out of his burrow on Feb. 2 and sees his shadow, he goes back underground, and there will be six more weeks of winter. If the day is cloudy, he stays out, indicating an early spring. Weather bureau records, summarized in the chart above, show that the ground hog has been right 17 times in the 28 years since 1911. On the five sunless days in the period he was invariably right.

REDS WARN JAPS AFTER NEW CLASH ON SIBERIAN LINE

MOSCOW, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The soviet government reported tonight a new clash on the Siberian-Manchukuan border after months of quiet, and announced Japan was being warned "of possible consequences."

Arrow locates Argun river region where clash took place.

A communique was issued saying eighteen Japanese and Manchukuan soldiers attempted, yesterday to take possession of a soviet island in the Argun river, which forms the northwestern boundary between Siberia and Japan's protectorate of Manchukuo.

After a brief exchange of rifle and machine gun fire, the communique said, a defending soviet force of one lieutenant and five men forced the Japanese to retire carrying seven men, killed or wounded. One soviet soldier was reported wounded.

PRAGUE TO DEPRIVE JEWS OF CITIZENSHIP; EXPEL IMMIGRANTS

PRAGUE, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Two far-reaching decrees—one aimed at depriving most Jews of their Czecho-Slovakian citizenship and the other at forcing all immigrants to leave the country within six months—will be proclaimed tomorrow by the government. Both laws are traceable to the partitioning of Czecho-Slovakia at Munich last September.

A commentary attached to the decrees said the government, as a result of the reduction in its territory, must see to it that the native population retains its opportunities for work.

The Jewish decree requires a re-examination of citizenship of all persons naturalized after Nov. 1, 1918, or who settled in Czecho-Slovakia since Jan. 1, 1938, if they are unable to produce proof they are Czech, Slovak, or Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenian] nationals.

CCC to Get Distinctive Spruce Green Uniforms

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The CCC, which has used army surplus clothing since its inception, now is to have a uniform. Spruce green has been approved as the color. Officials said 50,000 of the new suits, including black shoes, will be issued to camps in the east by next Oct. 1.

THAT NEW STORM MISSES CHICAGO; SLUSH OVER CITY

(Picture on back page.)

Chicago got only flurries of a second storm expected yesterday. It moved to the northwest and the city got only the outer fringe, a combination of snow flurries and light rain. Transportation facilities were restored to near normal as the cleanup after Monday's snow continued. Fifty-eight carloads of snow cleared from the Pennsylvania railroad yards and right of way in Chicago were shipped yesterday to Clark, Ind., to be dumped.

ALIMONY HALVED AFTER WIFE GETS $71,000 SINCE '19

Husband's Payments Cut to $150 a Month.

For nineteen years and eleven months, Adolph W. Manz has been paying $300 a month for the support of his estranged wife, Adelaide, and their daughter, Olive. During that time he has paid a total of $71,000. He has never missed a payment nor made one late.

During all this nineteen years and eleven months his wife has refused to divorce him. Yesterday, almost on the 20th anniversary of the original suit against him, Manz was granted financial relief by Judge Oscar F. Nelson.

History of the Case.

Manz, who is 62 years old and lives at 5555 Sheridan road, is vice president of the Manz Rotogravure company, 4043 Ravenswood avenue. Mrs. Manz, who now is 46, started suit for separate maintenance in February, 1919, charging that her husband had deserted her for another woman. He was ordered to pay $350 a month temporary support money.

In October of that year Mrs. Manz was granted a decree of separate maintenance and the husband was ordered to pay $300 a month. In the hearing yesterday his attorney, G. A. Buresh, declared that Manz's income is now reduced to $5,000 a year. In addition the daughter, Olive, attained her majority five years ago and now is attending school in Tallahassee, Fla., the court was told. Buresh asked a reduction to $100 a month.

Payments Cut to $150.

Despite a plea by Attorney Alfred O. Erickson, for Mrs. Manz, that payments be reduced only to $250 a month, Judge Nelson cut them to $150.

He said:

"It seems to me that $150 is a generous amount, even though it is only half of what Mrs. Manz has been receiving. Payment of $250 a month would take $3,000 of her husband's present $5,000 income.

"Mr. Manz could have had relief in this court long ago if he had asked for it. Such never failing generosity and promptness as his deserves an award."

TEAR DOWN GALLOWS FOR A 1922 HANGING THAT NEVER OCCURRED

The gallows platform has been removed from the unfinished fourth story of the Lake county courthouse at Waukegan. And workmen were busy yesterday transforming into new offices the floor where Ignatz Potz was to have been hanged sixteen years ago.

Potz was a Chicago bootlegger. He and two companions were fleeing from Motorcycle Policeman William Peterson of Winthrop Harbor in 1922 when Potz killed the officer with two shotgun blasts from their car. Potz was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged June 16, 1922.

The gallows was set up on the fourth floor, but two hours before the time set for the execution, Gov. Len Small commuted the punishment to life imprisonment. In 1928 Gov. Small pardoned Potz. The gallows platform was long an object of curiosity at the courthouse.

OPPOSES GIVING NEW GUINEA BACK TO GERMAN RULE

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Stanley Bruce, Australian high commissioner to London, today expressed opposition to the return of Germany's former colony of New Guinea on the ground it would expose Australia to danger of a Nazi attack.

Arrow locates former German colony of New Guinea [in black].

He spoke here despite a ban imposed yesterday by Premier Joseph A. Lyons on ministerial comment on Adolf Hitler's reichstag speech.

"Australia must hold New Guinea at all costs," Bruce declared. "Herr Hitler recently has stressed again the demand Germany is making for colonies, but if an enemy had air bases in New Guinea he could, within a few hours, direct a mass attack on the great cities along the eastern coast of Australia which are at the present immune from the danger of such attacks."

[The former German eastern part of the island of New Guinea, some 93,000 square miles, lies about 1,700 miles north of Sydney and about 1,100 miles north of Brisbane. It is held by Australia under league of nations mandate.]

PAROLE GRANTED FRANK J. LINK OF WHOOPEE GRAFT

Serves 14½ Months of His 1 to 5 Year Term.

Frank J. Link, the only defendant in the sanitary district "whoopee era" graft trial to be sent to prison, has been paroled. W. C. Jones, chairman of the parole board, announced yesterday that Link was one of 115 inmates of Illinois penal and correctional institutions given their freedom.

He had served fourteen and a half months of his one to five year sentence for conspiracy to defraud the sanitary district of $6,500,000.

Link was sent to prison on Nov. 20, 1937. He was taken to Stateville penitentiary on a stretcher from his home at 4162 Marine drive. This ended a five year court battle carried to the United States Supreme court, which refused to review the case.

Kept in Prison Hospital.

Link, who has been in the prison hospital, left prison Friday. He is 69 years old. Once an alderman from the 48th ward, Link was a sanitary district trustee from 1924 to 1930. Then he retired.

He has been paroled to Charles F. Noftzger, 411 Fullerton parkway, former head of a cleaning and dyeing company. Secretary Robert Phillips of the parole board said that Link was freed because he is ill with palsy.

Others Convicted in Scandal.

Besides Link, those convicted as an outgrowth of the "whoopee era" of 1928 and 1929 were Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary board, and John T. Miller and Martin Edelstein, minor officials. Miller served six months in the Bridewell and was fined $2,000. Crowe died while his case was being appealed and Edelstein was freed after a second trial.

Sixty-six of the parolees were sentenced from Cook county. Among tenced from Cook county.

Two Held to Grand Jury in Money Machine Frauds

Otto Paech, alias Page, alias Berghoff, and Benjamin Ginsberg, alias Frank Eiseman, were held to the grand jury yesterday on two charges of confidence game. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Felony court set bonds of $10,000 for each. Last week they were seized for allegedly attempting to work the old money making machine swindle on a grocer. Later John Gress, 631 North avenue, a tavern keeper, identified them as the men who took $2,100 from him in the same racket.

YOUNG MORDOFF'S PARENTAGE HIT IN ESTATE CONTEST

The contention that Gordon Mordoff Jr. was not the legitimate son of Dr. Gordon Mordoff, Wilmette physician who was shot to death three weeks ago was argued again yesterday before John F. Keeley, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

Attorney Edwin Feldott said he wanted to present evidence that young Mordoff was an illegitimate son of the physician and was born in a maternity home at 1520 Carroll street in 1914. Feldott represents Mary Mordoff, who has claimed to be an adopted daughter of Dr. Mordoff. On the determination of their legal status depends the possession of Dr. Mordoff's estate, which has been variously estimated at from $2,500 to $15,000.

Keeley continued the hearing to Feb. 8 at Feldott's request. Feldott said he intends to get a deposition from Mrs. Mary Fairchild, sister of Dr. Mordoff's wife, upholding his contention. Mrs. Mordoff is dead.

HELD TO GRAND JURY IN BURGLARY.

Joseph Wozniak, 36 years old, an ex-convict, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Felony court in bonds of $5,000 on a charge of burglary.

AGREE TO DROP DICTATOR IDEA FROM NEW BILL

Committee Working on Reorganization.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The house today approved a resolution extending the life of the select committee on government organization. The committee is empowered to draft legislation intended to eliminate waste and confusion in federal departments.

Little opposition was raised to the resolution after the house was assured by Democratic leaders that objectionable features of last year's bill would be eliminated in the measure to be proposed this year.

Called Dictator Bill.

These features, vesting great power in President Roosevelt to abolish bureaus and transfer functions from one agency to another, led to the labeling of the bill as a dictatorship measure. It was defeated in the house.

Representative Lindsay C. Warren [D., N. C.], one of those who will shape the legislation, predicted that the bill, when drafted, would afford a meeting ground for both parties. He indicated that the measure would not call for abolition of the civil service commission and general accounting office as was done last year. Congress also will reserve the right to veto any changes proposed by the President, he promised.

Unemployment Is Problem.

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] told the house government reorganization was desirable, although he doubted that there was a demand for such legislation at the moment.

"The demand from the country at this time is for a cure of the unemployment problem," he said. "That is what we should be working upon instead of wasting time on government reorganization."

Four Call at Home Twice, Rob Woman on 2d Visit

Four young men called yesterday at the apartment of Bernard Brown, an attorney, at 2542 North Kedzie avenue. Brown wasn't home. They said they would return. Last night they came back—with revolvers. Brown was still out. Two of them covered Mrs. Brown and her maid, Virginia Moline. The others ransacked the rooms until they found $300 and two diamond rings.

HORLICK ESTATE AGREEMENT GOES TO JUDGE TODAY

Report Bull Renounces $250,000 Bequest.

Racine, Wis., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The legal steps to make official the Jan. 24 settlement of the Sidley will contest will be taken tomorrow morning before Judge J. Allan Simpson in the Racine County court. And on the eve of the concluding court action an intimation of the real terms of the settlement began to leak out.

During the week attorneys have reduced to writing the agreement that ended the bitterly fought contest of the 3 to 9 million dollar will of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, heiress to the Horlick malted milk fortune.

Action Brought by Son.

The action, brought by her son, William, 27 years old, charged that the heiress was of unsound mind when she signed her will last April 7 and was dominated by W. Perkins Bull, bearded Canadian barrister in whose Toronto, Ont., home she spent the last eighteen months of her life.

Bull was left a specific bequest of $250,000 and a one-third interest in the residue of the estate, thus sharing equally with young Sidley, several charities, and St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis.

In the brief announcement last week of the tentative settlement, it was stated that Bull had agreed to renounce his claim to the residuary bequest only. Tonight, however, it was indicated by persons close to the case that the Canadian has given up the specific bequest also, thus renouncing all claim to the estate.

Cash One Consideration.

In return for this, however, he is to receive both cash and personal property, it was disclosed. St. John's school, whose headmaster, Col. Roy Farrand, had a large part in negotiating the settlement, is believed to have agreed to pay Bull $125,000. [It is important to the school that the contested will be probated, since St. John's share would be considerably smaller under Mrs. Sidley's 1934 will.]

The school also is expected to turn over to young Sidley $195,000 worth of Horlick Malted Milk company stock which it received under the will. What settlement Sidley will make with the school was not known.

In addition to the $125,000, the Bull family is to be allowed to retain a $200,000 trust fund settled upon W. Perkins Bull Jr. at the time she made her will. This is part of a $250,000 trust she settled upon her husband, Dr. John Streeter Sidley, when they were divorced in 1931. When Dr. Sidley died a few years later the money reverted to his widow.

Bull to Keep Jewelry.

It is understood also that Bull is to keep jewelry valued at $50,000 which he admitted, in a deposition taken last November, to be in his possession. An emerald pendant, listed at $25,000, and a ruby and diamond bracelet, valued at $20,000, are among the items. Rings and trinkets worth $5,000 complete the inventory.

Other jewelry, silver plate and paintings that under the will were to have gone to young Sidley and Bull's sons will be turned over in their entirety to Sidley, it is believed.

Finally, an undetermined amount of money is expected to be paid to Bull by William Horlick Jr., the heiress' brother. He was motivated by a desire to prevent an airing of family secrets and to keep control of the malted milk company in the Horlick family.

When court convenes tomorrow morning young Sidley's attorneys are expected to withdraw their objections to the will. It will then be up to Judge Simpson to probate or set it aside.

MOTHER READY FOR TRIPLETS; 4 GIRLS BORN

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Girl quadruplets were born here today to the astonishment of their parents and the attending physician. Triplets had been expected.

The lusty lunged babies, who weighed 3¾ to 4½ pounds, were given an excellent chance to live. Their mother, Mrs. W. E. Badgett, 36 years old, also was reported doing well. A blood transfusion was given her, however, as a protective measure.

Mrs. Badgett and her husband, a construction company foreman, are the parents of two other children, also girls. Double births are not unusual in the family. Mrs. Badgett was a twin and Badgett has twin brothers.

Daughter Missing a Year; Mother Ill Over Worry

A year of worrying about her missing daughter ended in a nervous breakdown yesterday for Mrs. Susanne Guserl in her home at 1956 North Halsted street. Mrs. Guserl, who is 42 years old, was taken to the Psychopathic hospital. There Director Francis Gerty said she would recover if she might see her daughter. The missing girl is Hattie Guserl, 17 years old, who has never been heard from since she left home.

GETS 30 YEARS FOR KIDNAPING BROKER'S WIFE

U. S. Waives Death Penalty Against Parolee.

Charles W. Griesemer, 19 years old, was sentenced to thirty years in federal prison yesterday for the kidnaping last fall of Mrs. Adele Schreiner, 51, the wife of a broker. Martin Ward, assistant United States district attorney, said Griesemer may be sent to Alcatraz, although the decision is up to the attorney general.

Griesemer had pleaded guilty Tuesday before Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court. The government waived the death penalty.

Mrs. Schreiner was in court yesterday with her husband, Charles A. Schreiner, and their two sons, Charles A. Jr. and John J. Schreiner. She was not required to testify after Defense Attorney Rudolph F. Bostelman stipulated that Ward's opening outline of the facts was correct.

Prosecutor Describes Crime.

Griesemer, as Ward described the crime, forced Mrs. Schreiner into her own automobile last Oct. 25 in front of her home, the Windermere East hotel, 1642 East 56th street. He forced her to drive to a refuse dump near Hammond Ind., where he struck her on the head with the butt of his automatic pistol. While she was stunned, he attacked her twice.

Attorney Bostelman pleaded that no demand for ransom was made and asked that the sentence be limited to 10 years. Ward demanded a life sentence.

Sentenced on Two Counts.

Judge Barnes sentenced Griesemer to concurrent thirty year terms on two counts of the indictment. With maximum time off for good behavior he will serve twenty years and five months. However, he will be eligible for parole in ten years. He was wanted for parole violation by the St. Charles School for Boys before the kidnaping.

Griesemer still faces punishment for another crime. He has confessed shooting William Smith, a salesman for a religious supply house, in a holdup near Watseka in Iroquois county last Nov. 1. Smith is still in a critical condition.

SECOND FEDERAL JURY ORDERED IN MANTON QUIZ

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—An additional federal grand jury to study the official conduct of Judge Martin T. Manton, whose resignation from the Circuit Court of Appeals was accepted yesterday by President Roosevelt, was ordered drawn today.

It will convene Monday, but United States Attorney Gregory F. Noonan said the regular grand jury meanwhile would continue to receive evidence in an inquiry into Manton's affairs.

Manton is charged with accepting nearly $450,000 from litigants before his court.

It was said that witnesses heard so far or likely to be called soon are operatives of the federal bureau of investigation.

MORON IS SOUGHT FOR KILLING AGED WOMAN IN HOME

Detectives were searching last night for a moron who beat Mrs. Johanna Shoberg, 88 years old, to death in her small flat at 3262 North Clark street.

Mrs. Johanna Shoberg

Mrs. Shoberg lived alone. Her nude body, covered with bruises and cuts, was found yesterday morning after neighbors reported hearing a scuffle about 2 a. m. The slain woman's son, Hjalmar Shoberg, said she had frequently been annoyed by persons who broke her windows. The killer apparently entered the house by smashing a glass pane, and Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall station was hopeful that finger prints on the window sill would serve to identify him.

"The evidence indicates that Mrs. Shoberg was beaten with a broomstick," the captain said. "I believe the man who killed her was a moron."

Evanston Woman Stabber Sent to State Hospital

Miss Ellen F. Coolidge, 28 years old, 2400 Harrison street, Evanston, was ordered committed to the Illinois Research hospital yesterday by Judge James G. Gullett of Elizabethstown, sitting in the County court. Miss Coolidge stabbed Mrs. Jeanne Mather, 45, a Christian Science reader, on Jan. 23 when Mrs. Mather visited the Coolidge home.

Shot by Husband Who Then Killed Himself, Woman Dies

Shot by her jealous husband in their home at 6951 Lowe avenue on Tuesday, Mrs. Anna Schuch died yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital. The husband, Joseph, suspected her of a romance with a younger man. Schuch shot himself to death after wounding his wife. Both were 52 years old. They were the parents of six children.

WOW! Should I Holler I Just Won A Dollar

Bill Lee Had Backache
He Had It Bad
He Bet Me a Dollar
Today BILL'S Darn Glad

I'll say he's glad—it's like this—Bill had backache—had it good and plenty—did no work for two days.

So last night I walked over to see Bill—that backache had sure took Bill bad.

"Every time I move," says Bill, "pains shoot all thru my back—sometimes so terrible I think I'm going to pass out."

"Why don't you get a doctor?" says I to Bill.

"Why don't I get one of those 16 cylinder machines?" Bill answered. "You know darn well I ain't worked 10 weeks in a year—be yourself" says Bill.

"I've worked less," says I, "but we've got to do something"—so I started my old bean to work.

Well to cut a long story short—I remembered my Dad had often boasted about a medicine called OMEGA OIL that he claimed would bring ease and comfort to painful, aching back muscles, even bad enough to be called lumbago—so I said to Bill—

"Bet you a dollar I'll have you on the job tomorrow morning—give me 35 cents."

"It's in my pants pocket and the dollar too," says Bill—"Get it and get it quick—I want to work—I want to see another pay envelope."

So I goes to the nearest drug store—gets my 35 cent bottle of Omega Oil, which the druggist said was good and powerful—penetrating and medicated, and hustled back to Bill.

I rolled him over—He yelled murder when I did—but I gave his back a darn good rubbing—and that's how I won my dollar—but I'm giving it back to my old pal Bill tonight—Omega Oil is tops for backache—Bill says so and Bill knows.

"IT IS LATER THAN YOU THINK"

By CALEB

JUST when Pithecanthropus erectus first observed his shadow was shortest at noon and longest at dawn or dusk, is lost from the record. But that sooner or later he did so observe this phenomenon is borne out by the existence of the simplest, as it was earliest and cleverest, of man's inanimate servants . . . the Sundial.

For us moderns, something romantic inheres in sunbeams becoming measures of time. That a thing so silent and immaterial as shadow should meter one's waking hours, weaves a sort of poetry into the day's prose. To the ancients, however, it was probably elementary utility which, in the absence of mechanical invention, kept sundials operating from the seventh century B. C. to the eighteenth century A. D. But the poetry would creep in . . . and found its chief expression in the innumerable terse inscriptions in English, Latin or French, which embellished their stone and bronze pedestals.

How varied and impressive these inscriptions really were, is best conveyed to the curious in "A Little Book of Sundial Mottoes," imprinted in Edinburgh a quarter-century ago. Space compels brief sampling only . . . such as the motto chosen by Queen Alexandra for the sundial in the grounds at Sandringham: Let others tell of storms and showers; I'll only count your sunny hours. Or the one on the sundial presented by Charles I to Queen Henrietta Maria, and standing in the King's garden at Holyrood: United in time; parted in time—to be reunited when time shall be no more.

Other gnomonic epigrams preserved for us in this quaint collection are: Carpe diem ("Seize the day")—Bon jour, Bon soir—L'heure passe; l'amitie reste ("The hour passes; friendship remains")—Festinat suprema ("The last hour approaches")—Time wasted is existence; used, is life—Now is yesterday's tomorrow—and Quid celerius tempore? ("What is swifter than Time?").

Of all sundial mottoes we know, however, the one most luminous with meaning quietly reminds the passerby: It is later than you think. . . . Yes, it is indeed later than we think! But the warning is soon forgotten, as one's mental images invoke some summery garden-spot or lawn of his own, whose sundial whispers, in the rustling wind, another and far pleasanter assurance: I record none but sunny hours.

LINK 2 RELATIVES OF U. S. SENATOR TO WPA SCANDAL

Activities of Chavez Kin Described to Jury.

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Two relatives of United States Senator Dennis Chavez were linked with the WPA scandal in New Mexico today by testimony given at the trial of thirty-five persons charged with using the relief agency for political purposes.

Mrs. Anita Tafoya.

The two Chavez clan members, who are among those on trial, are the senator's sister, Mrs. Anita Tafoya, and his son-in-law, Stanley W. P. Miller, a former assistant United States attorney. Two other relatives of Chavez also are defendants.

For the first time in the trial several witnesses told of the alleged efforts of Mrs. Tafoya and Miller to influence WPA workers to side with the Chavez faction in its fight with former Gov. Clyde Tingley for control of the Democratic party. Mrs. Tafoya was accused of trying to control the votes of women WPA workers.

Describes Office Contacts.

Miss Edna Braddy, a government witness, testified that Mrs. Tafoya and Miller were in almost daily contact with Joseph de Armond, labor assignment officer of the WPA, although they had no official connection with the agency. De Armond also is a defendant. The witness said she had seen Mrs. Tafoya and De Armond looking over WPA assignment sheets and other records together.

Miss Braddy said it was part of her duties to operate the telephone switchboard in the WPA headquarters here in her capacity as secretary to E. A. Rose when he was WPA zone supervisor.

Tells of Phone Calls.

She said that De Armond and Miller telephoned each other every day and that De Armond was sometimes called from twenty to thirty times a day by Richard Durand, another defendant. Durand is accused of being a leader in the Rio Grande Social club which is alleged to have been formed to collect money from WPA workers to finance political activities.

Other information of alleged vote coercion, money tribute, and ward politics was given the jury by a succession of WPA laborers, many of them in overalls and some unable to speak English clearly.

They testified that WPA workers making $48 a month were asked to contribute $1 a month to their foreman for undefined "benefits." Workers also were compelled to buy as many as eight tickets at 25 cents each to dances which many of them did not attend, the jury was told.

Political Notes

All mayoralty aspirants, including Dwight H. Green, Mayor Kelly, and State's Attorney Courtney, have been invited to appear tomorrow at a dinner arranged jointly by the Women's City club and the City Club of Chicago, a men's organization. The dinner, postponed from last Monday because of the heavy snow, will be held in the Hotel Sherman.

Frank J. Kruppa, representative of the 31st ward on the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki campaign committee in 1936 and 1938, announced his support of Mayor Kelly yesterday.

"As a friend and supporter of Gov. Horner," he said, "I am for Mayor Kelly because I am sure the governor, were he able to participate, would want me to do just what I am doing."

In a radio speech in support of State's Attorney Courtney last night, Frank J. Gillespie, secretary treasurer of the Dairy Employes' union, listed some of the indorsements given the prosecutor while he was a member of the Illinois state senate. Among those he mentioned were John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; Victor A. Olander, secretary treasurer of Illinois Federation of Labor, and Miss Agnes Nestor, Trade Union Label league.

The All-Chicago committee supporting Mayor Kelly announced that it had set up a wholesale meat dealers' division of its organization. The co-chairmen are Patrick Sullivan, secretary of the United Wholesale Meat Dealers, and Joseph Lory. The executive committee includes Elmer W. Becker, Joseph V. France, Edward Obermann, W. H. Luthoff, and others.

State's Attorney Courtney addressed a large delegation of school principals in the Hotel Sherman. The prosecutor said he would oust the present board of education. He said that no one not in sympathy with the platform of the Parent-Teachers' association could resist a mayoral mandate to resign.

Ludwig D. Schreiber, candidate for city clerk on the Kelly ticket, will make his first radio talk of the campaign over WENR at 8:30 p. m. today.

In addition to the three rooms assigned to him in the Courtney headquarters in the Hotel Sherman, Horace G. Lindheimer, Democratic candidate for city clerk, has opened his own headquarters on the second floor at 155 North Clark street.

GREEN TO MAKE RADIO SPEECH TO COURTNEY, KELLY

Assails City Hall Snow Removal System.

Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for mayor, announced yesterday that in a radio talk tomorrow evening he will address his remarks to Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney, rival aspirants for the Democratic nomination.

The broadcast was scheduled unexpectedly. It will be from WMAQ at 6:15 p. m.

Green's time on his regular Monday night broadcast will be taken over by Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor in 1936. Brooks said yesterday that he will issue a call to arms for all Republicans to stay in their own party to nominate and then elect Green.

Hits Snow Removal Work.

At two ward meetings last night Green rapped the city administration for its handling of the snow removal after Monday's storm. He appeared at a 31st ward meeting at 3945 North avenue and in the Edgebrook Community club, 6736 Loleta avenue.

"It's the same old story of outlying districts being neglected and forgotten when there is an emergency," he said. "Trafic is still paralyzed in sections where it should be moving. Three days after the storm some districts are still snowed under."

Fourteen Meetings Tonight.

Green then repeated his pledge to avoid favoring central sections of the city at the expense of all others. If millions of dollars were not wasted each year by the city administration there would be reserves ample to meet emergencies such as the snowstorm, he said.

Speeding up its schedule of neighborhood meetings, the G. O. P. headquarters arranged fourteen for tonight. Green will speak at two, in the 35th ward, at 4821 Diversey avenue, and in the 37th ward, at 458 North Parkside avenue.

Plans for a massmeeting for Green were made last night by the Young Republicans of Cook county organization in the La Salle hotel. The meeting will be held there Feb. 15.

HEARINGS STARTED ON 121 CHALLENGED COUNCIL PETITIONS

The board of election commissioners began public hearings yesterday on objections filed against the nominating petitions of aldermanic candidates. Of 366 candidates in the field, 121 were challenged.

This morning the board, working in three shifts throughout the day, will resume the hearings in the city council chambers. All the evidence must be heard and the decisions rendered before the end of next week.

The election is on Feb. 28. Candidates have until Feb. 8 to withdraw from the races voluntarily.

W. M. Carroll, Woodstock, Is Circuit Court Candidate

State's Attorney William M. Carroll of Woodstock, McHenry county, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Circuit court bench in the 17th judicial district. He served three terms in the state legislature and was city attorney for two years as well as a former assistant state's attorney.

4 Facts You Should Know about Vitamins and Fresh Yeast

Read why the New High-Vitamin Yeast gives more complete results than vitamins alone... how the "booster action" of the yeast itself can help the body use the vitamins you eat more fully 1 EXTRA VITAMINS—more than you get in many ordinary meals—are needed by great numbers of people, studies indicate.

If you have severe colds that "hang on," you likely need more Vitamin A.

If you are nervous and have poor digestion, it often shows more "Nerve" Vitamin B is needed.

Plenty of Vitamin D is needed for the body's proper use of the calcium and phosphorus in your food—an essential for sound bones and teeth.

Tiring easily, lack of pep may show you need more "Vitality" Vitamin G.

2 SLOW DIGESTION may affect you—like many others—and may cut down the body's assimilation of vitamins eaten. If this is not stimulated you may fail to get as much good from the vitamins you eat as you should.

3 THE NEW HIGH-VITAMIN YEAST helps to stimulate slow digestion, increase the flow of digestive juices in the stomach. This better digestion can help you make fuller use of the vitamins eaten. It "boosts" their assimilation.

4 TWO BENEFITS are offered by Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast. It gives rich amounts of 4 vitamins—A, B, D and G, plus the "booster action" of fresh yeast. By stimulating slow digestion, it gives more complete results than vitamins alone.

Don't fail to get the full good from vitamins you eat. Get your extra vitamins this effective way—in Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast. Start eating it regularly—today!

2 cakes a day of Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast give you:

VITAMIN A — 6200 Units (Int.)
VITAMIN B1 — 300 Units (Int.)
VITAMIN D — 800 Units (Int.)
VITAMIN G — 100-120 Units (Sh. Bour.)

All the average person needs (in addition to his meals) of A, B and D—and a rich supply of the Vitality Vitamin G. Eat one cake about ½ hour before breakfast or lunch and one cake ½ hour before supper—plain or in a little water or milk.

QUIN NEVER WED TO MARGUERITE, JUSTICES DECIDE

O'Brien Told How to Void Marriage Record.

(Picture on back page.)

Legally, there never was a marriage between Quin O'Brien, former assistant corporation counsel, and Miss Marguerite Eustice, judges of the Illinois Appellate court decided yesterday. They reversed and remanded an annulment entered on April 21, 1937, by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in the Superior court. The higher court was acting on Miss Eustice's appeal.

Quin O'Brien.

With the query, "How can the court annul that which never existed?", the decision written by Justice Denis E. Sullivan outlined a proper procedure by which O'Brien may have the record of the "marriage" expunged from the records of Whiteside county [Morrison, Ill.], where it supposedly took place.

Charges He Was Kidnaped.

The Eustice-O'Brien case came into notice on Feb. 5, 1937, when O'Brien, now 68 years old, charged that he had been kidnaped and taken to Morrison where he was forced to go through a marriage ceremony with Miss Eustice, then 29.

O'Brien said he was held under guard, then was taken before Justice of the Peace Bert E. Brubaker to be married. When O'Brien shouted he didn't want to be married, Brubaker ordered the entire wedding party from his house, according to testimony at the trial. Later, however, a partial ceremony was read in a sedan outside the justice's home. Brubaker testified that this ceremony was never finished.

It was shown also that witnesses had signed the marriage certificate prior to the supposed marriage and that O'Brien never had signed it at all. The county clerk of Whiteside county admitted he had noticed this and had thought it unusual but had filed a return just the same.

Wants Record Set Aside.

The Appellate court held yesterday that inasmuch as the certificate had not been signed by the bridegroom and because the ceremony had been proved fraudulent, there could have been no marriage. What O'Brien really wants, the court deduced, is to have the record of the illegal marriage expunged.

To do this, the court said, he should amend his bill of complaint so it will contain the necessary allegations and prayer for relief; make the clerk of Whiteside county a part to the suit, and do this in a reasonable length of time.

Miss Eustice is the mother of a son, about 18 months old, whom she has named Quin O'Brien Jr. Her attorney, Theodore Miller, said yesterday he may amend her action to allege a marriage in Louisville in 1936.

Miller said he also may file a separate divorce action, alleging the Louisville marriage.

FROST NIPS HANDS AND FACES OF CLOCK ATOP MICHIGAN AVE. TOWER

Chicagoans who tell time by the huge clock atop the Wrigley building tower on Michigan avenue have been wondering why it has failed them the last three days. Well, the clock has a bad cold. Delano Kirrane, assistant building superintendent, said yesterday the clock hands froze in Monday's blizzard. Since then several of the faces have been running about an hour fast. Nothing can be done about it, Kirrane said, until the hands thaw. Then they can be reset.

HUNDREDS REBEL 'AGAINST PRISON FARE; GO HUNGRY

San Quentin, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Nearly 1,500 convicts who rebelled against San Quentin's noon menu went peacefully into their cells at lockup time tonight after milling angrily about the prison yard for four hours.

Prison officials said a few of them voluntarily entered the mess hall shortly before lockup time at 4:30 p. m. and ate their dinners, which had been kept on the tables.

Those who did not take the midday rations went also without the evening meal. Guards said they were unable to determine the number who ate. Prison officials said they did not know whether the convicts planned to continue tomorrow their holdout against the food, but that there would be no action against them if they appeared for breakfast.

ORDER 6 MILLION BALLOTS FOR 2 MILLION VOTERS

The board of election commissioners yesterday got ready for a landslide in any direction in Chicago's quadrennial municipal primary on Feb. 28. It let contracts for the printing of 2,553,600 Democratic, 2,553,600 Republican and 1,094,400 third party ballots—a total of 6,201,600—at a cost of more than $22,000. The total of registered voters in the city is 1,826,668. The city's population is estimated at 3,677,700.

But, it was explained, the number of ballots needed has always been figured on the basis of a possible maximum demand of 700 for either of the main parties and 300 for a third party in each of the 3,648 precincts. And as an extra supply is kept on hand in case of fire or other accident.

TRIPLE-SAFE CONSTRUCTION

FLOYD ROBERTS
1938 National Race Champion
Champion race drivers, whose very lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction and that is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

FIRESTONE triumphs again! This time with the new Firestone Champion, the tire that sets the safety standards for 1939. This new tire provides a combination of safety features never before built into a tire. It is a completely new achievement in safety engineering.

From the experience gained on the speedways of the world and in the Firestone laboratories, Firestone engineers have developed a revolutionary new type of cord body called Safety-Lock, which provides amazingly greater strength. This outstanding achievement makes possible the use of a thicker, tougher, deeper tread which assures much greater non-skid mileage. Because of this new Safety-Lock Cord body and Gear-Grip tread, the modern streamlined Firestone Champion Tire establishes completely new standards of blowout protection, non-skid safety, silent operation and long mileage.

The Firestone Champion Tire embodies the famous Firestone Triple-Safe construction — you get the exclusive and patented Firestone construction features of Gum-Dipping, two extra layers of Safety-Lock cords under the tread and Gear-Grip tread design. Never in all the history of tire building has there been such a triple-safe combination to protect you against the dangers of blowouts, punctures and skidding.

Come in today and equip your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires — the only tires made which are safety proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S IMPERIAL WAR.

An accident to a new Douglas bomber which was being prepared for government tests cost the life of one of America's experienced pilots and revealed that his passenger was a representative of the French air ministry. If the plane and the pilot had not been lost the country would not have discovered that Mr. Roosevelt had entered into an agreement with the French government to sell the French military the latest and the best American models.

Some congressmen immediately saw the importance of the discovery and, an inquiry being set afoot, it was revealed that the war department, the army chief of staf, and the chief of the air force had objected to granting such privileges to the French air ministry and had been overruled by Mr. Roosevelt, acting through Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau on the advice of Mr. Bullitt, ambassador to France and former ambassador to soviet Russia, and Mr. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain.

When the investigating congressmen demanded the letter to Mr. Morgenthau from the White House Mr. Roosevelt took an extraordinary step to prevent, if he could, any further disclosures, including the publication of his letter. He called the members of the senate military affairs committee to meet him at the White House and under pledge of secrecy told them what he was doing. At the same time the French air minister, speaking to the chamber of deputies, said that he took responsibility for the procurement of American airplanes and added that purchases abroad "are possible only because the great American democracy is giving its entire help—because in serving France it is serving the cause of peace."

Mr. Roosevelt has secret understandings with Great Britain and France of which the American people are informed only through leaks and by surmise and deduction. The people here are kept in a state of ignorance no other government undertakes to impose upon a country. Chamberlain and Daladier may have things up their sleeve, but they are candor itself in talking to their parliamentary bodies as compared with Mr. Roosevelt's secretive course in which he comes to agreements with foreign nations, leaving his country in the dark to discover what he has done only by accident or when a disclosure is made abroad.

When he found that he had to talk to the senate military affairs committee if he was to keep all the facts from coming out in public, he tried to pledge the senators to a conspiracy of silence which would make it impossible for the people to learn what he was doing or why he was doing it. If the English or the French people thought they were being led into war by furtive treaty making they would overthrow their governments.

Mr. Roosevelt's appetite for supreme power is unlimited. He has surrounded himself with subservient followers who flatter him into a rosy countenance and fill him with the pride of autocracy. He has become so accustomed to ordering the lives of his own people that he is now outdoing even the Wilsonian idea of taking unto himself the direction and control of world affairs.

Great Britain and France learned in the years 1914-'19 how to work upon such an egotism in the White House and by so doing save their own bacon. Now that they are threatened again they rejoice that another man is wide open to approaches and can be induced to subject his country to any sacrifices necessary for their own purposes. Secret diplomacy is again in full swing in the White House. America is being exploited once more to support the same powers which used it for their salvation and their aggrandizement in the world war.

Mr. Kennedy, the ambassador to Great Britain, and Mr. Bullitt, the ambassador to France, have lost all sense of their duty and are carrying out the worst traditions of our diplomatic service in exerting all their influence to bleed America for the countries to which they are accredited. This creates a danger to Americans which cannot be exaggerated.

It is now plain that if congress had allowed Roosevelt to pack the Supreme court he would do away with congress itself, under his exaggerated pretense that only the President can safely exercise authority in foreign affairs. He would make war as it pleased him.

The senate has learned enough from what Mr. Roosevelt told the members of the military affairs committee to know that if it would keep the United States out of the next war, which may come this spring, it must recover its treaty making powers and insist upon full publicity on every agreement Mr. Roosevelt has made with France and Great Britain.

Both these countries, as can be seen from the speeches of their government officials, now rely upon American assistance the moment they are in trouble. They are so convinced of this from what Mr. Roosevelt has told them that now they are telling Hitler and Mussolini to come and get trouble if they want it. Mr. Chamberlain's appeasement has taken the form of saying that Great Britain cannot be defeated and that Herr Hitler had better change his tune. France, whose defenses have been wrecked by the communists and saboteurs, now knows that America will supply the deficiencies and that in spite of weakness it can afford to stick out its chin.

Because of the assurances Mr. Roosevelt has given these two governments they are now, according to their official statements, ready to take on the dictators. America is to fight their wars and Mr. Roosevelt has planned it that way. He nas made himself and Mr. Bullitt the great American saviors of France, and Mr. Kennedy another Walter Hines Page for whom there will be a tablet in Westminster.

If the senate does not treat Mr. Roosevelt now as too late it treated Mr. Wilson when he was determined to be president of the world, we may soon find our navy at Singapore to protect India and the British stake in China, our aviation at Minorca to protect Tunis, and our young men again in transports steaming through submarines to preserve the German colonies for France and England. It happened before and it is happening again.

The senate learned after the world war what had been in Mr. Wilson's mind and what he was preparing to do at the very time a deceived and misinformed nation was reelecting him "because he kept us out of war." A desk job during that war trained Mr. Roosevelt in these Wilsonian ideas and the wreck of the pretenses and the mockery of the sacrifices presented by Europe today to the disillusioned American who fought to make the world safe for democracy do not keep Mr. Wilson's imitator, Mr. Roosevelt, from going about the old tragic proceeding again.

If the United States senate is to keep the United States from being a flesh and blood robot in the war now brooding, it will instantly call for a show of hands. It will demand a complete statement of all the agreements and understandings Mr. Roosevelt has made. It will insist upon an uncovering of these secret agreements, and it will remind Mr. Roosevelt that the power to declare war is reserved to congress, that no treaties can be entered into without consent of the senate, and that secret war making diplomacy in the White House must stop.

The White House has become an imperial palace and Mr. Roosevelt is acting as if he were the absolute ruler of people who had nothing to say about their own destiny and who could be sold into war as lightly as if they were eighteenth century Hessians.

THE COST OF A SUBSIDY.

The Railway Business association has issued a pronouncement in favor of an undisguised subsidy to the railroads. A billion dollar gift is proposed, to be paid over a ten year period. The money is to be used for improvements of rights of way and structures. The justification for the handout is found in the requirements of national defense, safety of travel, and the general economic welfare.

The association which makes this proposal is composed of business houses which supply the railways. Both Harry Wheeler, president of the association, and Prof. Lewis Sorrel, its consulting economist, were careful to say that the subsidy should be contingent upon a declaration by congress against public ownership of the railroads.

These gentlemen appear to place naive faith in the binding value of such a declaration. In reality it can have little meaning. The age-old principle that he who pays the piper calls the tune has not been repealed and is still likely to govern in all such transactions. Government subsidy is a long first step toward government ownership. If the railroad men doubt it, let them take a look at the shipping industry or, for that matter, the business of farming. Politicians sometimes dress like Santa Claus, but, unlike him, they are rather less than 100 per cent altruistic. It is not in their nature, nor in the nature of the burocrats who carry out government policies, to give anything away without receiving something substantial in return. If the railroads get a billion dollar gift they will give up at least a billion dollars' worth of independence, if they have that much of it left.

The trouble with the railroads is that they have already been deprived of too much of their freedom of action. It is worth noting in this connection that they were subjected to excessive regulation in exchange for a solemn declaration by congress that they were to receive a fair return on the capital invested in them. The promise was broken almost from the day it was made, but the excessive regulation remained and today it accounts for most of the difficulties in which the railroads find themselves.

Unlike other business men, railroad managers cannot stimulate business by giving more for less without government approval. They cannot, therefore, solve their own problems. If they were permitted to bid more freely for business they could increase not only their revenues but their profits as well. The railroad is still by far the most efficient carrier for many commodities over considerable distances, but it is forced by government regulation to fix rates higher than are needed in numerous instances to earn a profit. The consequence is that business which could have been held is lost and business which might have been created by favorable rates is not permitted to develop.

The worst thing that could happen to the railroad industry is to sell it to the politicians in exchange for cash subsidies. What is needed is not more governmental interest in railroad management, but less, and much less.

CASANOVAS FROM WALL STREET.

[New York Times.]

A young man could make no headway with the fair sex when he was a school teacher, but now that he is a stock broker the girls are flocking round. How do the girls account for this? So asks the Inquiring Photographer of the Daily News, and the replies he got would suggest that there is still one Island of Enchantment, one Coast of Romance, left on this saddened planet. Bali has been deflated, but Wall street, a whole decade after 1929, is still a Promised Land to people who don't work there.

Money is the answer, said the only man of whom the question was asked, and most of the girls agreed with him. True, a couple of them also cast an aspersion or two at the hypothetical young man's earlier occupation; "a male school teacher leads a prosaic life," said one, and another, still more damningly, "a male school teacher is intellectual." But the point of all the replies was that a stock broker had money.

That is not precisely the story you hear in Wall street, where complaints that the securities and exchange act has ruined business still pop up every day or so. Let any male friend ask a broker how things are, and the reply will be "Terrible!" But maybe Wall street men, out of force of habit [a cultural lag, the sociologists would call it], tell a different story to their girl friends. At any rate, one girl, who began her reply with the cryptic remark, "Well, I know all about stock brokers," went on to suggest that "perhaps the reason they are so popular is that they throw their money to the winds."

Whose money did you say?

A FEW REMARKS ON SNOW.

This column's reaction to last Monday's sudden and elaborate snowstorm was one of exultation over a tour de force of nature. The scene and its aftermath stirred the old viking blood in us. It was a storm for poets, and arctic explorers, and the Canadian Royal Mounted. Our only regret was that we couldn't hitch up a team of huskies and mush down to the office, shaking icicles out of our eyebrows and chanting "Ho yo to ho" from "Die Walküre."

After the wind died and the snow flurries ceased, about 2 p. m., there came the great white peace. The Loop and Michigan avenue were in a trance of stillness that lasted through the afternoon and night. Trafic sounds and all the other noises in the Chicago symphony were silenced. The ringing of our telephone decreased by 90 per cent. O, blissful quiet of a snowbound world!

* * *

The city went to sleep wrapped in hyperborean blankets, seeming to luxuriate in this cold, chaste semblance of death. It remained drowsy the next day, for its efforts to throw off this strangling embrace were feeble and apparently reluctant. The cleaning-up job was the slowest of many winters. In dealing with such snowfalls the contribution of the volunteer—the householder, the shopkeeper, the boy in the family, the average citizen of coöperative spirit—is important. In old-school storms he always dug out within twenty-four hours.

* * *

Let it be recorded that in the first great storm of the winter of 1938-'39 Chicago's rank and file merely muttered:

"We would do something about this sidewalk if we only had a snow shovel."

Or perhaps they leaned on their shovels and prayed to Washington.

TO JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

(On his retirement from The Tribune staf.)

Ere him we had heard of the wingéd word
And the sentence that flames and glows;
The old mot juste and the punching phrase,
And of purple-passaged prose;

But he had them all and he gave them all,
With never limit or stint:
Brilliant jewels to sparkle in type,
A diamond cascade in print.

Of men and arms, of the world and books
He wrote—and his writings shall be
As timeless as art. Au 'voir, high heart,
And all happiness, J. O'D. B.!

The Dictionary Wrestling Match—III.

Undaunted by jeers from the ringside about his forgetting "scion" in naming words ending in "cion," Wrangler Erdmann, the Danville Dreadnaught, comes up for his third bout with the unabridged dictionary, thus:

6. The longest word in one syllable is stretched.

7. Two of the longest words that may be regarded as fairly common are: incomprehensibility [nineteen letters] and philoprogenitiveness [twenty letters].

8. Palindromes [words which may be read backward as well as forward] are fairly common in words of one syllable, but are rare in two syllables. Here are a few of the latter: level, civic, refer, tenet. And here is one of three syllables: repaper.

Maybe It's a Haunted House.

For your camera fans [1-30-'39]: Out on Grand avenue, where it merges with Fullerton and Cicero, there stands an old civil war mansion, isolated. In it lived, for a time, the man who assassinated President Garfield, Charles Guiteau. Verification: Chicago Historical society.

WILLIAM BUTLER YEATS.

(Irish poet and dramatist, died Jan. 28, 1939.)

"Come near—I would, before my time to go,
Sing of old Eri and the ancient ways:"
Hushed is the minstrel voice that used to show
The road Deirdre took those bitter days
When Usnach's sons lay slain; Cuhoolin's pride
That armed him for the strange, unequal round;
Nuala; and bright Aengus . . . he has died.
Yet shall we weep for him who has but found
The way to Tir-N'an-Og? The hills of dream,
Which in the mystic twilight often knew
His tread, throw wide their gates for him; a-gleam,
The timeless stars now dance to light him through;
Now he has found the land where none grow old . . .
And left to us his lovely songs to hold.

Winter's Great White Beast.

A blizzard is quite a different thing from the pleasant, gentle snowstorms that we have known, and yet it, too, has a certain wild beauty. It is like a great lithe beast, long kept chained and captive, suddenly loosed upon a startled world. It hurls itself, shrieking, around corners in a mad, blinding swirl. With one sweep of its powerful limbs it piles up long arcs of whiteness. It pounces on the largest of trees, shaking them as a small twig and leaving them trembling and white. And when at last the blizzard ceases, leaving in its wake a new sculptured beauty, then the great beast is once again quiescent, patiently waiting for a new release.

Tea Leaves of 1773.

Footnote to our account of the life of David Kennison, last survivor of the Boston Tea Party, buried in Lincoln park [1-31-'39]:

The Chicago Historical society has among its exhibits a packet of tea which came from the cargo he helped to throw into Boston harbor. Anyway, Kennison said it did, and therefore the souvenir is regarded as authentic.

A daguerreotype of the centenarian may also be seen there.

The Presidential Double O.

Speaking of double letters [1-28-'39] we find double "o" in the names of three successive Presidents—Coolidge, Hoover, and Roosevelt. No wonder the United States is double owing.

William Owen.

The true, country style version of the groundhog myth mentions snow as well as sunshine. If he sees snow, and/or his shadow, he goes back to sleep, which put some common sense into the superstition. And boy, is he seeing snow today!

HEALTH STANDARDS OF AIR PILOTS.

IN these days of increasing air travel some of the physical attributes may be worth considering. The airplane pilot must possess a stable nervous system, a clear brain, and accurate vision. This is not possible unless the respiratory apparatus and the circulation are functioning at par. Mechanical ingenuity has provided additional oxygen when flying at high elevations, thus insuring plenty of aeration for the blood and hence the brain. However, the demands for greater velocity or alterations in the rate of flying have brought to the fore factors which affect the heart and the blood vessels. In other words, for a few seconds at a time the blood may be drained by centrifugal force from the upper to the lower parts of the body.

Most of us understand this phenomenon, for as youngsters we swung a bucket half filled with water over our heads without spilling a drop. The motion [centrifugal] held the liquid within the receptacle in defiance of the laws of gravity. The body may be likened to a pail which contains liquid [the blood]. In some situations this fluid may be squeezed into the abdomen and the extremities, reducing the quantity in the brain and in the heart. As a result, faintness—even collapse—may be suffered until equilibrium has been restored.

It has been noted that those pilots who have essentially low blood pressures are less likely to carry on with efficiency under all conditions than those who maintain constantly a normal or slightly raised level. The reason is that this higher pressure opposes the effect of speed and thus counteracts it.

Those who are unaccustomed to flying scarcely realize the impress on the system of both pilot and passenger occasioned by a sudden change of direction—for example, on straightening out quickly after a dive or during a sharp turn. As Rook and Dawson have pointed out, a machine following a short arc within a radius of 300 yards at a speed of 200 miles per hour brings into play a force which may be represented—let us say—by the figure 3. If the rate is increased to 300 miles per hour and the turn is the same, the force is more than doubled. If the curve is lengthened threefold and the greater speed is held the ensuing disturbance is less than three.

Actual fainting or a sense of faintness is more frequent in persons who exhibit a systolic pressure of 110 or less. In fact, in the army flying corps the systolic standard has been fixed at a minimum of 105. Many of this low reading group will complain of dizziness on assuming an erect posture after a short period of bed rest. This is explained by the fact that although the pressure may be within normal limits when recumbent there is a decided fall on changing position.

Flying tests demand that the one in training shall make careful note of his symptoms under all circumstances. The commonest incidents which may be regarded as unusual are a feeling of being pressed into the seat and what is known as "blacking out," which means that the field of vision becomes dim or gray, or that momentarily complete blindness supervenes. Occasionally there will be clear vision for distant objects, but inability to see the instruments on the board. Sometimes a partial or total loss of hearing ensues, while other general signs such as tingling of the limbs, pain in the abdomen, and nausea are observed.

Underweights and overweights seem to react alike, with complaints of syncope, and those who exhibit a rapid heart before going up are looked upon as psychologically unsuited to airplane activities. But even the normal pulse rate may not be a guarantee that some form of circulatory collapse will not occur.

Fortunately physicians are gaining in their knowledge of the physiology of aviation, and safeguards and compensating devices are now numerous. We may look forward confidently to the time when all these untoward reactions—to which a few are prone—will be under complete control

POSSIBLY ANEMIA.

E. G. writes: I have a boy, 4 years old. While out of doors he has a wonderful complexion. After he is indoors a while he turns pale. What causes this?

REPLY.

If the lips and finger nails are also pale the possibility of anemia should be investigated. Ordinarily the pallor is of no importance as it is due to the temporary withdrawal of blood from the surface of the body. The state of the circulation should also be checked.

PHLEBITIS.

C. D. writes: What causes phlebitis? Is it curable? Does it recur?

REPLY.

Phlebitis is inflammation of a vein caused by infection. The circulation is usually impaired and clots may form within the vessel. Sometimes the channel is obliterated. This means that the burden of transporting blood must be taken on by deeper or auxiliary conduits. Recurrence depends upon a new infection, or the lighting up of the old one. Healing demands rest and absolute quiet.

USES LEFT HAND.

Y. writes: Our little daughter is always trying to write with her left hand. My wife makes her use her right. Should she be allowed to use whichever hand she wishes?

REPLY.

By all means. If a child is naturally left-handed it is a serious mistake to try to force her to become right-handed. Stammering and other nervous symptoms may follow.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY W. A. O'CARROLL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia.—Expectant mothers not able to pay for the service may be attended free in their homes or in a hospital by obstetric specialists. A blood donor service for maternity cases has been established.

These services form part of a three year plan to reduce maternal and infant mortality in New South Wales. Ordinarily poor mothers would be unable to call in specialists, whose fees are too high. The specialists are working for the department of health at reduced fees. The cost of the blood donor service to the department will be £3,000 [about $11,000 at current rate of exchange] a year. Two hundred blood donors have been enrolled—men who have passed vigorous tests of physical fitness. All will be available at any hour in the twenty-four hour service for a bedside transfusion.

The medical practitioners' act, which came into force in New South Wales last month, gives power to a committee to inquire into any complaints by the public of overcharging by a medical practitioner. This is an innovation in Australia regarding the relationship of doctor and patient.

Misdemeanors by medical men, such as habitual drunkenness, or addiction to drugs, or infamous conduct, will be dealt with by a medical board presided over by a judge of the District court.

Regulations are to be framed controling medical advertising, including press, radio, booklet, or pamphlet. In regard to patent foods and medicines or treatment and appliances for the alleviation of any human ailment or physical defect, power has been given to deal with the publication of any advertising which contains a false statement in any material particular relating to the ingredients, the composition, structure, nature, or operation of the medicine, the preparation or product, or to the effects which may follow from the use thereof.

This means that a responsibility is placed upon patent medicine manufacturers, wholesale chemists, and others engaged in the trade to tell the truth regarding their products.

No person, unless he is a registered medical practitioner who has had six months' training in a recognized radiological clinic, may use radium or X-rays for the treatment of any human ailment or physical defect.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Dewitt, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband died, leaving no will and no children and [1] he had property willed to him by his father at his death with no deed, and his wife is not known in the will.

2. I signed a small note with my husband before his death. How long will the judgment note run on property?

3. Can that man put note on that property as a judgment note with my name on it? My husband has no brothers or sisters, but has nephews and nieces.

4. Can I borrow on his property as a mortgage from one of the nephews without the consent of all? L. A.

1. It is not clear whether you mean that the husband or his father died first. If your husband died first then you would not share in the estate of your father-in-law. If your father-in-law died first then you would inherit what your husband had previously inherited.

2. The note itself is not a lien against the property. The limitation period on the note is ten years from the maturity date. If judgment is taken on the note the judgment will be a lien for seven years if execution is taken.

3. Depends on facts that are not before us.

4. If you can find one of them who is willing to lend you presumably this is because you have an interest in the property. It is not clear what additional questions you intend to ask.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

"FALSE CHECK."

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. One of my relatives was arrested for "issuing a false check" and when arraigned he pleaded guilty. The judge sentenced him to serve forty days in jail and in addition levied a fine of $25 and costs, which he is unable to pay. That being the case, the county judge says he must remain in jail for four months in addition to the forty days he was sentenced. The check was for $5. This additional four months in jail, the judge says, is for the fine and costs and would be the same if fine and costs were any amount.

2. Is there not some law in Illinois which provides for a stipulated amount per diem to offset this fine and costs?

3. When can this man schedule this fine and costs and take a pauper's plea? D. R.

1. In our opinion the statute does not apply when the check is given for a pre-existing debt.

2. Yes. Illinois state bar statutes of 1935, chapter 24, section 65 [108], authorizes that he be put to work and allows $2 per day. The judge is in a better position to cite the statute on which he is relying than we are.

3. The maximum period is six months, if he does not qualify under the above.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The early part of this month I had a court judgment against me for $300.

1. If the other party brought the case into court, do I have to pay the court cost, seeing I lost? Because I am not working now I cannot pay the judgment.

2. How long is the judgment good here in Illinois?

3. Would the judgment be good in any other state?

4. Was there such an act passed as the Financial Responsibility law, and when?

5. If there is, would this Illinois law affect me if I left this state and got work in another, such as Washington or Minnesota?

6. Can they stop me from getting a drivers' license? F. C.

1. Yes.
2. Twenty years.
3. Yes, in the sense that it would be a basis for obtaining a judgment against you there. No, in the sense that it would not automatically be enforceable there.
4. The last session of the Illinois legislature passed such legislation.

LOW NUMBERS.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—True democracy is not served by issuing low automobile license plates to those who are, or who are believed to be, members of the "I Gotta Drag" club, as you explained so clearly in your editorial of Jan. 23.

David P. McLelland of Evanston utterly misses the point in his letter in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 28.

Surely he doesn't believe that the people holding one, two or three figure license plates have to be bribed by the state to pay their license fee early.

Even if they were in the class who, without this consideration, would pay late, there are not enough of them to make any appreciable difference in the total number of laggards.

If anybody really believed that there was much direct relation between the low numbers and the early payment of fees, that belief would be shaken by the fact that the low number list is not published on Dec. 1, but waits until approximately the 1st of February. What does that mean?

Is it not true that if we would get out of the habit of using figures we could use letters, and figures, and combinations of letters and figures, and thus make it possible that of all the license plates in Illinois not one would have to carry more than four digits, and could this not be done without the confusing combinations of letters and figures which mar the license plates of several states? Could we not then arrange for certain low numbers to mean that their possessors had been in trouble with the trafic regulators of the state?

PLANS FOR ECONOMY.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—I would like to propose to all four mayoral candidates that each one of them set up a comprehensive analysis of the present tax situation. Each one should be given a free hand to render an opinion as to whether this or that department of the city government could be operated at one-half or two-thirds of the present cost. We hear much about tax reduction before any election, but when a successful candidate rides into office his scope of things is completely lost. This situation can be checked right now, and each one of the four candidates should welcome the chance if he has the real interest and welfare of his constituents at heart.

Whoever is elected mayor of Chicago should, as soon as he takes office, appoint a citizens' committee to tell him and the city council which one of the four plans submitted would be the most practical. G. O. OSLUND.

SCHOOLS AS A PREVENTIVE.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Several more teen age burglars are caught and confess to many thefts, and yet a few individuals and pressure groups cry out when the board of education attempts to expand the schools—the most effective method known to combat and prevent crime. A few hundred dollars spent on so-called educational frills might have saved not only the grief to the families involved but many more hundreds of dollars that must be spent taking care of these lads now that the crimes have been committed. E. J. W.

DRIVERS' LICENSES.

River Forest, Ill., Jan. 25.—Would you mind printing something on what is causing the delay in sending out the drivers' licenses? Most all the people to whom I have spoken have been waiting over a month. J. J. SCOTT.

A DAY'S WORK.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—So the WPA'ers and communists are sore because the taxpayers, through their chosen representatives, are curtailing expenditures for WPA? They have only themselves to blame.

Taxpayers [many of them not getting as much per hour as the WPA'ers] are getting disgusted with the sight of thousands of men on WPA loafing or doing but little work. Where did they get the notion that they have a right to loaf because the government employs them? I've worked twelve to fifteen hours per day in the wheat fields and nine to ten hours per day cutting ice on the small lakes. Stalling on the job was not the style those days. We gave a day's work for a day's pay, and no one tried to force us to remain on the job if we thought the going was too hard. Depressions never lasted long in years past, as a man could always get some kind of a job.

What this country needs now is more men who are willing to work, regardless of the wage paid. Returning prosperity will automatically raise wages.

CHARLES W. TODD.

TEACHERS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 27.—I should like to comment on your statement that no teacher can impart a language which he does not really know and readily use. I quite agree with you. But are the Chicago schools making an intelligent effort to secure such teachers? What is the usual method of entry into the ranks of Chicago High school teachers? As nearly as I have been able to observe, it is usually via the Chicago Normal school and experience in the grammar grades. Experienced language teachers who have spent much time in study abroad are discouraged from applying for positions in your schools because there are so many normal school graduates who have precedence if, as, and when new appointments may be made.

APPRECIATION OF ART.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Last Sunday I made my first visit to the Art institute of Chicago. I had long wanted to see it. I appreciate the finer things in life, and have had a high school and some business college education.

The only thing that I sincerely admired were those beautiful English dishes. As for those pictures, there wasn't one that I liked enough to have hung it on a wall of mine. They just did not have enough of the vital or first class appearance to satisfy my ideas of beauty and naturalness. I know of an old painter in the little village of Delhi, Ia., whose paintings, to my idea, are so much more desirable.

Why I can't rave over the wonder of those pictures, I don't know. Am I the only person who has this lack of understanding? Are there other people, and what do they say? EVELYN HALE.

TO HER ALDERMAN.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—I am a resident of the 33d ward, and, like a lot of other people of this ward, I did not even know our alderman's name until he was heard from at the city council recently. I am appealing to him now not to worry about our dogs, but please see we have an officer at the corner of Elston, Western and Diversey when our children go back and forth to school, and see that we have one the whole school term, not for a week or two. COURT OPENS UP A LOOPHOLE IN DRAM SHOP ACT

Rules Successor Trustee Is Not Liable.

The Illinois Appellate court ruled yesterday that successor trustees are not liable for damages awarded in dram shop lawsuits involving the property for which they are acting. The decision was interpreted as opening a loophole in the law for property owners.

[A successor trustee is one named to replace the original trustee of a property. The dram shop act permits suits for damages by relatives of persons injured or killed as the result of the sale of liquor. The law provides that the suits may name owners or trustees of tavern property, as well as the tavern keepers].

$35,000 Award Reverse.

Yesterday's ruling reversed a jury award of $35,000—later reduced to $20,000—against Frank C. Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, and two other persons. On June 24, 1934, Rathje was the successor trustee for property at 3439-47 Madison street, in which was located the tavern of James A. Murphy and Frank McGovern.

On that day Joseph O'Connor, 33 years old, a city employé, was shot to death in the tavern in a fight with Richard Rogers, nephew of former Ald. John Rogers. His mother, Mrs. Anne O'Connor of 2344 Congress street, sued for $50,000, charging that both men were intoxicated on liquor purchased in the saloon.

3 Lose Before Jury.

Rogers was tried for the slaying, and was acquitted on a plea of self defense, but a jury before Judge Albert A. Crampton of Moline, sitting in the Superior court, found for Mrs. O'Connor, against Murphy, McGovern, and Rathje.

An appeal was taken to the state Supreme court, challenging constitutionality of the dram shop act. The court held there were no constitutional questions involved and sent the case to the Appellate court.

In yesterday's decision, the Appeals court quoted a Supreme court decision holding that a trustee is personally liable for acts committed by him and his agents, but that he is not liable in his capacity as trustee. However, the judgment against Murphy and McGovern stands.

CHICAGO SAFETY COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS FOR '39

C. S. Craigmile, vice president of the Belden Manufacturing company, was elected president of the Greater Chicago Safety council last night at its annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman. He succeeds Benjamin Samuels, president of the Chicago Yellow Cab company.

Five vice presidents were chosen. They are Frank H. Harrison, manager of works at the International Harvester company, in charge of public safety; S. M. Havens, general manager of Wyman Gordon company, in charge of industrial safety; Mrs. Harold Ferris White of the Chicago Woman's club, in charge of safety education; J. S. Kemper, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company, and G. C. Kimball, vice president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

George G. Traver, manager of the safety council, was elected secretary and treasurer. J. L. Hyland, district manager of the Republic Steel corporation, was named chairman of the board of directors.

HARRIETT LUCZKOWSKI.

Miss Harriett Luczkowski, 24 years old, 4459 North Major avenue, demanded a jury trial yesterday when she appeared before Judge Jay A. Schiller in the Safety court, charged with leaving the scene of an accident. Her case was set for Feb. 21 in the Jury court.

Last Oct. 17, De Witt Blachly Jr., 13, of 4955 George street, was killed in a collision between his bicycle and Miss Luczkowski's automobile. Police said that she fled, but that her license number was obtained by witnesses. A coroner's jury exonerated her of blame in the boy's death.

WHAT COLLEGES WORRY ABOUT NOW: HOLOISM

What is wrong with colleges and universities was told yesterday. It's holoism. This is neither a disease nor a fungus growth but the opposite of meristicism.

Dr. Harry W. McPherson, head of the Methodist board of education, explained it all at the annual meeting of the board, 740 Rush street. He declared holoism is the hot spot of a very dignified battle of professors who haven't decided whether to become holoists, meristicists, or to signal for a fair catch.

Dr. Herbert J. Burgstahler, president elect of Ohio Wesleyan university, who confessed himself to be a holist, defined the terms thus:

HOLOIST—One who believes a college to be responsible for the development of a student's whole personality.

MERISTICIST—One who believes a college should just teach certain subjects to students who want those subjects and hope that the students will develop a complete personality under his own steam.

No meristicists could be found at the meeting.

HEIL PRESENTS 1940-'41 BUDGET TO LEGISLATURE

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Calling for a balanced state budget to be achieved jointly by economy and new taxes, Gov. Julius P. Heil today asked the legislature to appropriate $66,753,133 for operation of the government during the next two years. This was about $20,000,000 less than state departments had requested.

He listed this sum as approximately $4,000,000 under the total spent during the La Follette administration, but said state finances are in "deplorable condition" from nine years of piling up deficits. He said that $21,550,000 of new revenues must be raised to meet fundamental needs.

In his budget message the governor asked the legislature to consider means of providing the necessary taxes but did not suggest any potential sources of revenue. The normal sources, exclusive of emergency levies expiring in June, will produce only $45,200,000, he said.

GRACE FOR 1938 AUTO LICENSES TO END SUNDAY

900,000 Car Owners to Be Subject to Arrest.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Motorists lacking 1939 automobile licenses will be exposed to arrest in many sections of Illinois starting next Monday. Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes today prepared his annual notice to police ending the period of grace for obtaining plates of the new year.

Approximately 900,000 passenger car and 130,000 truck owners are liable to arrest. To date, 652,967 passenger car licenses have been issued for 1939 as compared with a total of 1,567,775 issued during 1938. For trucks, 85,036 plates have been issued for 1939 as compared with a total of 222,582 issued during 1938.

Grace Period Usual Practice.

Under the statute, it has been a violation of the law since Jan. 1 to operate a motor vehicle without the new plates. The period of grace is extra legal, a practice that has been followed in Illinois for many years.

Under this practice, the police do not make arrests until they hear from the secretary of state that his office has cleared the Jan. 1 rush of applications.

Much of the jam in the secretary's office, and an appreciable public expense, is caused by the Illinois practice of issuing and reassigning "I gotta drag" low numbers or trick combinations of digits. The secretary has spent extra office time and money responding to 145,000 requests for favored numbers.

Driver License Increases Work.

The work of the secretary's office has been increased by the drivers' license law. To date 627,742 of these licenses have been issued and another 100,000 applications are pending. Of the 700,000 who have applied 4,113 have been notified that they must first pass an examination because their answers to the application questions indicate that they might not be qualified.

After May 1 no Illinois resident will be permitted to operate a car in this state without his driver's license. There are approximately 2,500,000 drivers in this state.

It has been reported erroneously in some cities that all applicants after May 1 will be requested to take an examination. This is merely a proposal being submitted to the current legislature by safety organizations as a bill to amend the license law.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

STALLED STREET CAR TIES UP RUSH HOUR'S TRAFIC

At the peak of the evening rush hour yesterday a stalled street car tied up all trafic at Kinzie and Clark streets for half an hour. The car, making a reverse switch to return west on Kinzie street, suddenly lost power. Street cars were lined up for blocks in every direction until a surface lines work wagon crew towed the car off the intersection and repaired it.

Chicago and Cook county passed the forty-eight hour period ending yesterday at 4 p. m. without a recorded automobile fatality. At 4 p. m. yesterday the trafic death toll since Jan. 1 in Cook county remained at ninety-four. Of this number seventy-six persons were killed in Chicago, where 1,800 were injured in the same period.

WRESTLER GETS FOUR MONTHS IN ACADEMY BRIBE

Judge Philip L. Sullivan in Federal District court yesterday sentenced Stanley G. Lurik, 49 years old, professional wrestler and druggist, to four months in the Bridewell. Lurik pleaded guilty of accepting more than $1,000 on his promise to obtain an appointment to the United States military or naval academy for Sylvester Siudut Jr. The money was obtained from Siudut's father, who lives at 4759 South Springfield avenue. Siudut was so confident, Assistant District Attorney Roy D. Keehn Jr. said, that he had his son measured for uniforms. Lurik said he paid the money to a politician, "Dwight Anderson," but refused to identify the man further.

Arts Club Has Good Show of Roualt Prints

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A superb exhibition of prints by Georges Roualt opened yesterday at the Arts club. To lend diversity to the exhibit, six enormous oil paintings by André Derain are hung in the little gallery.

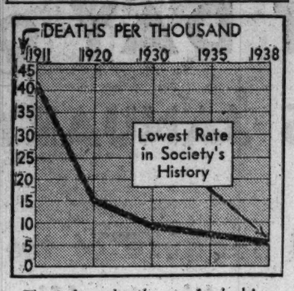
The Roualt prints are divided into groups and the various series are each of interest. The prints which were made particularly to the order of M. Vollard, Parisian publisher and art dealer, are of special merit. The drawing is solid, the feeling for design accomplished, and the spirit that quickens each incident is instantly apparent.

Roualt's work has been likened to stained glass. This is natural, if one takes into consideration his early training. Even in so small a work as many of these prints, he retains the habit of breaking his subject, as though leaded frames really separated the details. His true craftsmanship and artistry was never seen to better advantage, however, than in these same prints, and a certain coarse quality which sometimes attacks his larger paintings, is entirely lacking in the lithographs and drawings.

One recognizes Roualt in this exhibition as a man of deep religious feeling, humble, sincere, and tirelessly striving toward an idea.

One of the important paintings by Derain, a very large one, is the latest acquisition of the Art institute. It was purchased through the Winterbotham fund.

Saving Babies



The infant death rate for babies under the care of the Infant Welfare society has declined steadily throughout the organization's history.

Infant Welfare Cuts Deaths to a Record Low

The lowest infant mortality rate ever achieved by the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago was announced yesterday for 1938 at the 28th annual meeting of the society in the Stevens hotel.

Of the 7,910 infants cared for by the society's 18 stations, 5.8 per thousand died. Meanwhile the city's provisional death rate for all Chicago babies was 34 per thousand live births.

In 1910, before the Infant Welfare society started work in the poor districts of the city, the city's infant death rate was 122 per thousand. The next year it was 112, and the society's 42. In 1930 the city had cut its rate to 53, and the society to 9. The city's includes deaths from the hour of birth, however. The lowest previous rate for the society was in 1935 and 1937, at 6.4.

No mothers were lost among the 1,455 cared for by the society, with 807 deliveries. In the city there were 2.7 deaths per 1,000. In addition to mothers and babies 7,996 pre-school children were cared for.

"This state of health has not just happened," said Philip D. Armour, who was reëlected president. "The work of the Infant Welfare society has been a bulwark to protect these children against the effects of unemployment, malnutrition and lowered standards of living. Study and practical effort to prevent, whether it be a depression or an illness, is worth more than any amount of cures for either national or personal sickness."

Dr. Heyworth N. Sanford, medical director of the society, reported that the 10 year effort to reduce respiratory infections in babies yielded important results in 1938. Usually one out of every two babies who die in the first year die of pneumonia. Last year the mortality was cut from 50 to 38 per cent of the total mortality."

"We have attacked this problem in two ways," he said. "First we have encouraged every mother to nurse her baby as long as possible. Only 8 per cent of the deaths from respiratory infections were in breast fed babies. Then we warned them again and again to guard their babies from individuals with colds."

Two-thirds of the deaths in the second largest group, babies who died from contagious diseases, died from whooping cough. "I think something should be done about this," said Dr. Sanford. "Old fashioned whooping cough that no one thinks anything about causes as many deaths in our babies under 1 year old as tuberculosis and heart disease combined."

"Infant mortality largely depends on social environment," said Dr. Sanford. "Our babies are from sections where overcrowding and poor living conditions are at a maximum."

According to CULBERTSON

Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.

Question 55 of the recent examination produced the greatest variety of answers. This question was:

Both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	?

You are South, and hold:

♠ A Q J 8 4 ♥ K 10 8 ♦ J 4 ♣ 10 4 3

What call do you make now?

The correct answer was that South should bid two no trump. This is how 20,000 contestants answered: 4,615 bid two no trump; 2,541 took the more aggressive course of jumping to three no trump [incidentally, this was the "next best bid" and was sufficiently good to incur only the nominal penalty of seven points]; 10,223 did what I feared they would, merely rebid two spades; 2,018 decided on the strong but wrong rebid of three spades. The remaining 700 examinees chose a wide variety of answers, including the outrageous underbid of three clubs, "a preference" for North's first bid suit.

The choice of a rebid that expresses precisely the distribution and honor strength of the responder is not too easy and, for that very reason, questions involving these choices should be given earnest attention by the average reader. South, in this case, has available a bid which is made to order. His partner has bid diamonds and clubs. He [South] not only has a strong five card spade suit, but also holds one virtually certain and two potential heart stoppers in the K 10 8. He also has the possibly valuable jack of his partner's diamond suit. It is quite true that South would like to assure North that the spade bid was based on a five, not a four card suit. In that sense, a spade rebid is desirable. But we cannot do everything in one bid, and it is up to us to cover most of the points we can. If South bids two spades, he tells North about his five card suit, but says nothing about the more important feature of the heart stopper and capability of playing the hand at no trump. If South tries to convey an impression of outside strength by jumping to three spades, he will fail flatly, because North will not form the correct picture of South's hand. He will visualize a spade suit considerably better than South holds, but not the balanced distribution or suitability for no trump play. Primarily, however, the no trump rebid is vital because North will not be able to initiate no trump bidding if he holds only the jack or queen of hearts.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	2 clubs	Pass	Pass
2 diamonds	2 hearts	3 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

This bidding is recorded as a splendid illustration of how not to bid. South, of course, was the villain of the piece. His two diamond rebid was the sort of call that one finds in most circles, but that does not make it right. With four plus honor tricks and a six card suit, as well as good support for both majors, South had only one correct action available when the two club bid got around to him. That was to double for a takeout. The mere fact that North had passed over two clubs was not evidence that he was trickless. After all, a responder needs substantial strength for a free raise or free takeout. Even after South's timid diamond rebid he could have straightened out the matter by bidding three no trump when North came in with the free diamond raise on the second round. It was nothing short of criminal for South to rest at a minor suit contract of three-odd, holding as much top strength and as good distribution as he had. Obviously, a game in no trump would have been just a "cakewalk."

Hillbilly Tunes Barred in Real Mountain Music

John Jacob Niles brought his dulcimers to the University of Chicago campus last night and sang and chanted American folk songs for two hours. The thousand listeners in Mandel hall liked Mr. Niles and his music, even though it wasn't just what some of them expected. There wasn't a hill billy ballad in the bunch.

"Hill billy songs? Bah!" said Mr. Niles eloquently. "They come from Tin Pan Alley." He has collected the true folk songs of America—the unwritten tunes and lyrics of the south and west—for more than twenty years.

Some of the music is related to that of the ancient Greeks. And so is Mr. Niles' favorite instrument, the dulcimer. A dulcimer looks something like an overgrown mandolin and may have from one to eight strings. He had half a dozen dulcimers with him last night, and used a piano, too, on occasion.

Mr. Niles, who lives in Fayette county, Kentucky, opened his program with a Negro spiritual, "I'm So Glad Trouble Don't Last Always." Then he told how Elizabeth Madox Roberts got the title for her current best seller.

There's a song that starts:
Black is the color of my true lover's hair,
Her lips are something rosy fair.

Mrs. Roberts just took the first line for a title.

Then there's this one, which Niles heard from an old woman in Tennessee:
Lullee, lullay, thou tiny child,
Bye-bye.
Lullee, lullay, O sisters two,
How may we do, to preserve this day?
Poor youngling for whom we sing,
Bye-bye.
Lullee, lullay.

That was sung first at a court pageant in Coventry, England, in 1447. These folksongs, Mr. Niles remarked, certainly do get around.

In some of the spirituals, he said, each line of a stanza rhymes, and the first line is repeated as the last—as in modern blues songs. An example:
When Jesus lived in Galilee
He was an infant so tiny.
His father worked at carpentry
When Jesus lived in Galilee.

One of Mr. Niles' favorite songs of the south concerns John Henry, a mythical giant who was so huge a box car was used as his coffin and his grave was marked with two mountains.

City Schools Report Drop in Enrollment for Second Semester

Enrollment in Chicago public schools for the second semester which opened Tuesday, was 411,397. The figure does not include junior colleges nor the Chicago Teachers' college. Last year the second semester enrollment was 435,431 and last September the enrollment was 418,111.

The decrease is found in the elementary grades and is attributed to the declining birth rate. The elementary enrollment yesterday was 281,671, compared to 306,048 in 1938. Superintendent of Schools Johnson added that the inclement weather should be considered in the comparison. The high school enrollment yesterday was 129,726 compared to 129,383 last year.

Dr. Johnson announced that five courses in household mechanical arts are being opened this week in the Mann, Prussing, Reilly, Scammon, and Chopin elementary schools. Classes in 86 elementary schools will be open by the end of the semester, he said. The course is planned to train seventh and eighth grade pupils in the care and use of home mechanical devices. "The course will develop handcraft and the pupils' personalities," he said.

A Decidedly Youthful Dress

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

All the gayety and freshness of youth are portrayed by this jaunty frock for spring. It is designed for junior sizes only, since only slim figures can wear it well. The ensemble consists of a flared skirt with slim waist, to which are attached suspenders of the same material. The brief bolero jacket matches the skirt. It is collarless, and has puffed sleeves with cuffs, which may be trimmed to match the treatment at the neckline of the blouse. The latter component of the outfit may have a high, round neckline without collar, merely a wisp of ruffling to touch it up, or it may have a Peter Pan collar. The sleeves, if you like, may be long and captured in tight wristbands.

There are all kinds of color and fabric combinations you can achieve with an ensemble as versatile as this one. You can combine a dark woolen or silk skirt and bolero with a pastel or white cotton or sheer blouse. Or the blouse may be of a figured fabric in harmony with the dark shade of the other two pieces. If you're going south, consider the possibilities in linens and cottons. A scheme suitable for warm climates is shown in the sketch at the right.

Style No. 3359 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19. Size 15 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the bolero and skirt, 1½ yards of 39 inch fabric for the blouse, and 1¼ yards of plaiting.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Apply Fresh Makeup Every Four Hours, Hollywood Rule

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A good rule, originated in Hollywood, advises: "Makeup should be freshened every four hours and removed completely every eight hours."

A well known makeup director insists that the stars under his Hollywood studio supervision exercise as much care in removing their makeup as they do in applying it.

How many of the nonpros do the same? Do you remove it entirely when you come home from a dance? Do you remove it when you come home from work, beginning again from scratch?

Here's a little trick to try out to prove the benefit of the fresh makeup at the end of the day. You come home fagged out after the long ride home, perhaps laden down with books or bundles. You have been jogged and jostled about, hanging to a strap, perhaps, and you arrive home a tired looking femme. You sit down a few minutes, read your mail, and then away to clean up for dinner. Now comes the test. Wash that daytime makeup off clean. Give the face a good healthy soap and water scrubbing and then a warm rinse followed with cold. Put on foundation base and makeup and reappear in the family group and hear them say: "Where are you going that you're all fixed up?"

What with fancy cosmetic advice coming from all sources, sometimes the miracle that lies in the fresh beginning is overlooked. We'll try a new freshener, maybe, a new lipstick or rouge color, when just that cleaning off thoroughly of the old background is what is needed.

So much from the beauty standpoint. From the skin health standpoint the more makeup you use, the more soap and water washing is required. We do not favor removing makeup solely with cream. Use the cleansing cream first, yes. But use the soap and water right after it. Then you know you have a "canvas" worth painting.

This meticulous cleanliness should certainly apply to powder puffs. They're so inexpensive, anyway, and they can be washed so well and easily, and a soiled puff is a criminal tool to use on a defenseless face.

Toscanini, Host.

Arturo Toscanini gave a little party Tuesday evening after the brilliant concert at the Auditorium for Passavant. He gathered about him at the Blackstone some of his musical friends for supper and talk, including Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock, Dr. Maurice H. Cottle and his wife, Gitta Gradova, who is playing with the Chicago Symphony in a fortnight; Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini, Hans Lange, Sidney Strotz, John Royal, Edith Mason and her husband, William Ragland, and Ania Dorfmann, pianist and family friend.

Dr. Stock proposed a toast to Toscanini, simple and heartfelt. "To our great maestro," he said, and raised his glass.

"To my dear friend and colleague," said Toscanini, raising his glass. The two embraced.

* *

The conversation was in four languages. At one point Dr. Cottle was talking in French to Mme. Toscanini, who made side comments in Italian to Rimini, who was chatting in English with Gitta Gradova, who was talking Russian with Mme. Dorfmann.

Lecturer's Chuckle.

Story to add to the collection of after dinner speakers' standbys: When a suburban organization asked Theodore Koch, bibliophile and librarian of the Deering library at Northwestern, to give his lecture on Dickens, Mr. Koch replied that he gave no lecture on Dickens. He had given, in his younger days, a lecture on Dante. Perhaps the same beginning initial had confused them, he added, tongue in cheek. The ladies then invited him to give the Dante lecture. They inquired his fee and Mr. Koch said that for that particular lecture he would not make a charge. The club ladies thanked him for his graciousness.

"We'll apply the amount we would have paid you to our fund," said the program chairman.

"Fund?" inquired Mr. Koch.

"Yes, we're establishing a fund for better speakers," she explained.

It's Mr. Koch's favorite story.

Poetic Interlude.

Those lines in Our Town at the Selwyn, spoken by the girl after death as she looks back on the dear and humble things of life, remain in memory: Good-by, world. . . . Good-by to mamma's sunflowers. . . . Good-by to sleeping and waking up . . . to hot baths and new ironed dresses. O, earth, you are too wonderful to realize.

They bring to mind favorite lines from Rupert Brooke's The Great Lover, the ones beginning These have I loved. Perhaps you remember:

White plates and cups, clean gleaming,
Ringed with blue lines . . .

Included in the loved things: "Wet roofs beneath the lamplight," "rainbows and the blue bitter smoke of wood," "the cool kindliness of sheets and the rough male kiss of blankets," and "brown horse chestnuts, glossy new, and new peeled sticks, and shining pools of grass . . ."

Speaking of poets, a youthful and lovely lady was in town this week stirring up interest in poetry and the national poetry contest conducted by the Academy of American Poets to select the official poem of the New York World's Fair. She was Mrs. Hugh Bullock of New York, president of the academy, and she ate luncheon with Chicago Poet Marion Strobel Mitchell and drank tea at Mrs. William H. Monroe's with some of the Chicago poets. The subject of the poem is to be "The World of Tomorrow," and it must be in by March 15. Judges are William Rose Benet, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, and Louis Untermeyer, who will award the $1,000 first prize and five smaller awards.

Urban Album.

Mme. Toscanini in a box, with her glasses trained on her famous husband during most of Tuesday evening's concert for Passavant. Pleasing evidence of devotion. . . . Mme. Eva Kim, here with her doctor husband from Peking, attracting attention during the concert intermission in a Chinese robe of saffron brocade, flowers atop her sleek black head. . . . Cornelia Otis Skinner, eating after-the-theater supper, wearing dark red crêpe. . . . Dorothy Sands at the same gathering, looking very unlike Prossie in Candida. . . . Frank Craven, pipe in hand, discussing the late Belasco. . . . The girl cashier at a Madison street parking station out in a polo coat shoveling snow. . . . Gen. Frank McCoy, looking like Old Man Winter, on Michigan boulevard and trying to flag a taxicab. . . . Mischa Mischakoff, first violinist with Toscanini's NBC orchestra, former concert master with the Chicago Symphony, held court in the Auditorium lobby after the concert, with great crowds pressing about to greet him. . . . Earlier he had seen musical friends at dinner at Mrs. Ruth Lettman's. . . . Young Chicago composer, Danny Saidenberg, was the only person in Chicago, beside Gitta Gradova, invited to attend the rehersal, Toscanini rehersals being notoriously difficult of access.

French Envoy Arrives Today for Busy Visit

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGO has a reputation as a hospitable and friendly city, a reputation that certainly will not suffer in the plans that have been made for entertaining the French ambassador to the United States, Count de Saint-Quentin, who is arriving today for a three day visit.

From the time the ambassador steps off his train early this morning until he leaves Saturday afternoon he will be in a whirl of parties. His program has been arranged to allow him to visit the University of Chicago and Northwestern university, the stockyards, the Chicago club, the Arts club, the Casino club, the Art institute, the Historical society, and to have dinner in a private home, that of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey.

The Deweys and Count de Saint-Quentin met in Washington last May shortly after he had been appointed to Washington. As president of the France-America society, Mr. Dewey will join the French consul-general, René Weiller, and other officials at the station this morning.

Today's gayest parties for the visitor will be a reception the Alliance Française is giving from 4 until 6 o'clock at the Arts club, and a banquet the governors of the Casino are giving at 8 o'clock. The Casino and the Club Inter-Allié in Paris, which grew up during the war as a social headquarters for foreigners in Paris, exchange membership courtesies so that members of either may enjoy the privileges of both clubs.

Reception Guests Must Present Cards.

Mrs. Frank Hibbard, president of the Casino, and Mr. Dewey are in charge of the banquet. There will be Mexican music at dinner, and the ballroom will be filled with French flags.

Every one who received an invitation to the alliance reception saved it carefully—for marked in one corner is a request to present the card at the door. The invitations are printed in French, but attached are little notes in English to the effect that tea will be served on the second floor at a charge of 60 cents.

M. Weiller is honorary chairman of the reception committee. He and the ambassador, Mme. Weiller, Mr. McCormick, president of the alliance, and Mrs. Ralph James, president of the Conseil D'Administration of the Alliance, will receive. Members of the Cercle des Jeunes will pour.

Also on today's program for Count de Saint-Quentin is a luncheon at the Saddle and Sirloin club at the stockyards at which Robert A. Cabell will preside. Tomorrow the visitor will go to the Chicago club for a luncheon arranged by its members. In the afternoon he will visit the Art institute. The Deweys' dinner will be given tomorrow night.

A visit to the University of Chicago is scheduled for 10 o'clock Saturday morning, followed by a visit to the Chicago Historical society, and then to Northwestern university. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern will give a luncheon for the visitor. Count de Saint-Quentin, a commander of the Legion of Honor, has represented his country in London, Berlin and Morocco. He is the head of his family in France.

Learn Handicraft to Teach Children.

The members of the Chicago Junior league, who are taking part in its project to foster home care for convalescent children, are learning a number of unusual trades. Every other Thursday morning a class meets to learn how to stuff animals and dolls, how to sew and embroider, how to make raffia bracelets and napkin rings or lether key cases, billfolds, purses and hot plate protectors.

In turn the young women who master these crafts teach them to the children in their care. A few years ago classes in sewing and embroidery would never have been necessary, but nowadays the average young girl is

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The slim, smooth neck and the youthful chin line are assets of youth that the woman of thirty or more must fight to preserve. A throat and neck cream, extra rich, keeps the skin lubricated and serves as a daily reminder that complexion care shouldn't stop at the chin!

The good old rule to the effect that prevention is better than cure certainly works where neck and chinline prevention are concerned. There is very little to be done once the jawline has sagged to unshapeliness and the neck itself has become crepy and creased. But plenty can be done to prevent these very disasters.

Women always think more about their faces than anything else. They're more inclined to give the face itself preventive care than to do the things they should to preserve their figures or to keep one little chin from becoming two or three.

Owning a throat and neck cream has a double value. That jar of cream on your dressing table will serve as a reminder not to stop at your chin when you're creaming your face. And then the cream itself, if it's a good one, is an abundantly rich lubricant that prevents the neglected skin of the neck from getting accordion plaited.

We like one new cream tremendously. It's a heavy, gooey cream, almost salmon colored, that really does tricks in relieving the parched skin that is such a happy hunting ground for wrinkles. It's to be used for massage on the perfectly clean neck, preferably after the skin has been softened with a cloth wrung out in very warm water.

Our favorite method of massage is with the palms of the hands, working from the base of the throat right up and out along the jawline. And, while you're working on your neck, a bit of kneading massage along the jaw on both sides won't be wasted motion!

If the skin is very dry, leave the cream on over night, or, if you prefer, remove it with tissues and end the home treatment with your astringent, patted in briskly.

This cream is a good investment if your neck and throat are saying farewell to youth.

Ettore Vanni	Beniamino Gigli
Fiamma Appiani	Maria Gebotari
Mario	Peter Bosse
Walden	Hans Moser
Cesare Doret	Michael Bohnen
Ricarda	Hilde Hildebrand

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: Musical melodrama.

ACTING: Excellent. The great tenor, Beniamino Gigli, isn't a great actor, but he does play with disarming sincerity and unself-consciousness. Marie Gebotari and Hilde Hildebrand, his two leading women, have charm, appeal, and ability. Peter Bosse is a splendid child actor and minor rôles are handled with taste and intelligence.

MUSIC: Delightful.

DIRECTION: Most satisfactory. Director Gallone knows his theater and has a nice way with his players.

DIALOG: In Italian. English titles, elaborately capitalized for emphasis, explain the action.

STORY: A past affair with a great singer flares up to threaten the felicity of Fiamma Appiani, now happily married to the famous tenor, Ettore Vanni—who believes himself to be the father of Fiamma's little boy . . . Her former lover, Doret, is murdered and Fiamma is arrested. . . . You suspect, rightly, the jealous Mme. Doret. . . . All ends as it should.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Could be better.

SETS, SCENERY, COSTUMES: Interesting.

SOUND: All right.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Plenty.

See you soon.

New Galoshes Are Marvels of Style, Neatness

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Time was when the smartest shopper galumped around the town in galoshes clanking with hardware. Sloppy, dull, depressingly utilitarian, they were for protection and that alone. Feet resembled tugboats full steam coming up the river, and all fastidious people shuddered.

But what you slide your best oxfords and trim patent lether footgear into these days are miracles of superstreamlining. Galoshes are so smooth and fitted they surely deserve a swankier name.

Neat blacks and brown for daytime wear are made with heels to fit the shoes. High heeled sandals slip into decently deep heels in the galoshes. And likewise, there is no struggle to keep a low walking heel in a matching galosh. Concealed zippers are nicely fitted into all the models. These cozy protectors fit as neatly as a shoe.

The featherweight material is another cheerful quality. You can dash about town with the same speed as you do on a sunny day—there is no additional weight to slow you down. You can match your fur coats exactly with either brown or black. Some of the brighter ideas sport some plaid material for something new.

For evening there are fur trimmed smoothies of white, gray, or black—each as dress parade as anything else you wear. Regulation carriage boots make you look luxurious at small cost. As proof that present day winter footgear protectors are much more desirable and wearable compared to the atrocities of ten or five years ago, we want to report that even the finicky people wear them with pomp and pride.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Family Album.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 1.—The pictures have just arrived from M.-G.-M. and 20th Century-Fox. They are reproductions of the scene at the studio with Jeanette MacDonald and Tyrone Power receiving their crowns as Movie Queen and King of 1939. . . . Another picture for the Family Album, because all of us save pictures, I guess, as records of particular moments in particular days or nights of particular years. . . . So I'll add this one to the collection, and what a collection it is.

It started with this one here, faded a light brown by the years, a picture of my twin brother and me, taken by D. A. Siegert, 2140 3d avenue, New York City, about thirty-five years ago.

The next is from the same studio, with my sister and brother, and she is holding tightly to a tiny gold mesh bag, and we're holding onto her for dear life. . . . Then the picture of the graduating class at St. Mary's, eight of us, five of whom are girls wearing wide white bows in their hair. . . . Pictures of the Port Chester High school basketball and baseball teams, me with a strip of adhesive tape over the left eye, souvenir of a game against St. Peter's Prep of New Jersey.

The baseball team hangs directly over this desk, and I point it out with affected carelessness, because I was the catcher and captain. . . . Then the high school graduation picture, the high collar wrapped so tightly that it was an even money bet that I'd strangle before the principal got to me with a diploma.

Sixteen years represented in six faded pictures. . . . Then the pictures start changing. . . . Here is one with Tex Rickard at Saratoga, another with Dempsey at Atlantic City, still another showing Dempsey reaching over the ropes after the Sharkey fight to shake hands, a picture of Gene Sarazen visiting the Evening Mail office.

A photo of the press box at Forest Hills, Helen Wills shaking hands with Molla Bjursted Mallory. . . . A photo of Sybil Bauer, the great Northwestern star, winning the Olympic backstroke championship, with the American flag being run up the center pole. . . . Pictures from Paramount short I made with Johnnie Weissmuller and Stubby Kruger. . . . Huge pictures of the graphic all-sports banquet at the Astor, and at one section of the double dais Miller Huggins, Jim Corbett, John McGraw, Charles Stoneham, and Col. Jacob Ruppert, all of whom are dead.

Now it's a five-year stretch of Broadway columning. . . . Snapshots in night clubs and theaters, on the beach at Miami and Atlantic City, a variety club banquet at Pittsburgh, another at Philly, a picture taken in the Fox theater at Detroit, still others at the Palace and the Chicago, in Chicago. . . . Here is one at the Central Park Casino, the night that prohibition was repealed. . . . Pictures of the Harvest Moon ball at the Garden.

Five years wipe off, and the scene is Hollywood . . . presenting the first crowns to Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, a picture on the set of "Mannequin" with Spencer Tracy, a picture on the "Tovarich" set with Boyer, Colbert and Anatole Litvak . . .

Polish Lawyers.

More than 250 persons last night attended the annual dinner of the Polish Lawyers' association in the Midland club, 172 West Adams street. Stephen Love was installed as president.

Joan Crawford, Hedy Lamarr, Carole Lombard, Shirley Temple, Irving Berlin, and all the rest of them . . . W. C. Fields, Jack Benny, Cary Grant, Bing Crosby—you are amazed at how much time you've spent in having pictures taken.

Shots of the first trip to Europe on the Ile de France. . . . It was supposed to be a vacation, but you worked twelve hours a day as a camera fan. . . . The donkey crossing Main street in Bantry Bay, and the lady owner of the butcher store who posed under a side of beef. . . . "My folks come from Bantry," you told her. . . . "It's taken you a long time to come back," she said.

The newsreel shots of your interview with Harry Richman and Dick Merrill in the small hours of the morning at Llandilo, Wales. . . . The tiny hotel was shuttered for the night when you arrived, so you curled up in the car and waited for it to open at dawn, but it was worth it to see the amazed look on the faces of Richman and Merrill when you walked in casually and said hello casually. . . . Only a few nights earlier you had had dinner with Merrill at Dinty Moore's.

A picture of the ship-to-shore broadcast on the Normandie, the camera having just clicked as you introduced the soviet flyers who had first flown across the north pole. . . . In the foreground of tables are John Royal, Marlene Dietrich, Cole Porter, Jack Benny, Morris Gest, Jack Pearl. . . . Villar and the ship's officers standing stiffly at attention.

You don't realize how many years you've lived and how crowded they've been until you go browsing through a collection of pictures that have been hidden in an empty room. . . . So I'm glad that the studios sent over the pictures of the presentation to Tyrone and Jeanette, because it gave me an occasion to explore a room that I thought was empty, only to find it densely populated with friends and memories.

Is She Pretty?

The battle of words is on. One impassioned admirer says she's beautiful. Another raves about her clear, lovely complexion . . . A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. In the middle of the night Pete sends his nurse for "John" and has him open the safe and burn a paper. When Matilda finds him there she fires the nurse. Charles and Mary are to be married next morning. Detective Clancy appears after the wedding.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

A DEATH AFTER A WEDDING.

Up ahead the wedding party was at the entrance of the house. Charles ordered everybody to stand back while he picked Mary up and carried her across the threshold.

While we were waiting for this ceremony Sheriff Tom Johnson, who had some way sensed trouble, and caught up with us, appeared on the other side of Clancy.

"I don't believe I've met this here hombre, John," he said without enthusiasm. "Stranger hereabouts, I guess. Friend o' yourn?"

"This is Detective Clancy, Sheriff Johnson," I introduced them. "Mr. Clancy is the officer I told you about who mistook me for somebody else in Chicago."

We were halted on the entryway platform while the other guests passed by us into the house.

"No mistake," declared Clancy truculently. "I recognized him the minute I saw him."

"Mr. Clancy insists that I accompany him back to Chicago on this evening's train." I explained lightly to Tom.

"O, he does? That's interestin' if true." Tom turned to Clancy. "Yuh ain't a member of the federal bureau of investigation, are yuh?"

"No," admitted Clancy.

"Just a detective on the Chicago metropolitan police force, ain't yuh?"

"That's it."

"Then yuh ain't goin' back tonight—not 'less yuh go alone. I'm the law around here and we aim to have people make their mistakes legal—if they insist on makin' 'em. I'm referrin' to the matter of extradition which mebbe yuh overlooked."

"No, but I thought you might waive that formality when I told you about the case." Clancy was complacently casual. "But I don't mind an extra day or so vacation if you'll hold this mug in jail until I get the papers. You know you got to lock him up for me, don't you, smart guy?"

The matter had to stand there for the moment as Mary came out of the house looking for me. "You must come in, John. I want you to see the place where I'm going to spend the rest of my life. It's the most modern house that ever was built, Charles says."

Clancy stubbornly stuck to my side as we entered. I had to introduce him. "Mrs. Ferdinand, this is Mr. Clancy of Chicago." I winced at calling her that but no other name was correct.

"I'm very glad to know any friend of my brother's," Mary said with sweet cordiality.

"Your brother?"

"Yes, my only brother."

That, more than anything else, seemed to shake Clancy's confidence. Mary's affection for me was too genuine for any one to doubt it. She couldn't be in a plot to fool him.

"Here we are," Mary announced, hugging my arm.

There was no hallway. The wide, heavy oaken front door opened directly into a living room about the size of an hotel lobby and just as unhomelike. The ceiling was high, the walls were tinted cement, and there were no windows. The light came in from outside through great sections of translucent glass bricks.

Charles, standing on a cement and tile stairway with a wrought iron balustrade, was explaining things to the subdued crowd.

"There isn't a window in the house. All the air comes in through filters in the basement and is thoroughly conditioned as to heat and cold before it is circulated through the rooms. No dust storm could ever bother us in here and, as you can't see out, we'll never know whether it is raining or not unless we go up to the sun decks above."

There were murmurs of appreciation from the audience but no enthusiasm. You couldn't be enthusiastic or gay in a place like that. It was too much like on Egyptian burial vault. I shuddered at the thought of Mary spending her life in such an atmosphere of efficient cheerlessness.

"All the furniture was made to order to carry out the general scheme," Charles was continuing. "That contraption near the grand piano is the electric organ on which our wedding march was performed. You can play it either by hand or with music rolls. There is an auxiliary-electric switch on the keyboard by which you can turn out every light in the room and play to yourself and your wife in the darkness."

I had looked around uneasily. Coming through the outside door was a woman in a white dress. I had never seen her before but I knew who she was. Dr. Lodge had promised to have a new nurse on the job that morning and he had apparently made good.

The nurse went immediately to Mary and said something.

I, who was standing not far away, managed to reach Mary's side, and catch her before she fell.

"Mr. Bowman has just died," I said, my voice startlingly clear in that sudden silence. No one had told me, but I knew, anyway.

I picked Mary up and started for the door. Her body, limp in my arms, was the thing I cared most about in all the world. Charles had carried her in. It was I, who loved her more, who carried her out.

Dr. Lodge was in Pete Bowman's room when we got there. I suppose the nurse had naturally summoned him first. He was perilously near to being drunk—nearer than I had yet seen him. But this last twenty-four hours in his life had probably been harder than most. I did not blame him.

No one else came with us except the immediate family—and Clancy. The new nurse arrived a moment later, breathless from having rounded up the people she had been sent for.

Mary had regained control of herself before we reached the ranch house but I carried her all the way just the same. She did not protest.

"I'm glad you were here, John," was all she had said.

Dr. Lodge had mercifully covered the dead man's face with a sheet.

"He died of a heart attack," Lodge said briefly. And then to the nurse, "Did you administer that amyl nitrate capsule that I left with Miss Matilda Bowman to give you for an emergency?"

The nurse looked blank. "Miss Bowman did not give me an amyl nitrate capsule."

"Yes, I did," declared Aunt Matilda, pushing forward. "What do you mean by lying about it?"

"I'm not lying," the nurse explained. She looked like a competent woman to me, 35 or thereabouts, with an air of determination about her.

"You are lying to cover up your carelessness," said Aunt Matilda with cold ferocity. "Here it is, on the floor." She went unerringly to the head of the bed and picked up the net covered capsule from the carpet. "You lost it and now you pretend you never had it."

No one asked Aunt Matilda how she found that small, indefinite colored object so easily.

"Wasn't any one here at all when father died?" asked Mary, brokenly.

Dr. Lodge answered. "No. When the attack started Nurse Welton came for me."

"To get a capsule to replace the one she had lost, I suppose?" asked Aunt Matilda sarcastically.

"No," Dr. Lodge defended his temporary professional assistant. "She came because you or some one had failed to give her the emergency remedy."

Can Marriage to Older Man Be Successful?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I am in love with a man who is twenty-one years my senior. My family cannot realize that it is love. They resent it terribly, treating my man as if he were some sort of pariah. He holds an excellent position and certainly can take care of me well. As far as I can see, he is without any bad habits, and he does love me. He was married before and has three children, but he is divorced and was divorced before I met him, so I had nothing to do with that, which I tell you in case you might think I broke up his home. He has to pay alimony, of course, and it is rather high. Sometimes he complains about this, but not often. JANET."

We understand, from all the objections, that you are quite young, with a field of younger men available and a long time ahead for the momentous decision. Is this, perhaps, your first real heart affair, Janet? Haven't you been able to intrigue the devotion of a younger man?

To meet such a situation with wisdom, an older head is required. That alimony clause is so often the thing that eats into affection. A very young wife cannot or will not understand that it is a just and due obligation on a father's part where children are concerned.

We would much rather that you would wait a while before making your decision, Janet, telling the man that you want time and freedom to meet younger men. Insist upon this concession from him for one year, say. That will be time enough for you to make the momentous decision.

You are not quite sure, yourself, we take from your communication, that you may be doing the right thing, taking this man on for life. You want to be more certain about this step than about anything you ever did or ever will do.

Among those who attend the classes are Mrs. William B. Goltra, Mrs. John Drum, Miss Margaret Wilder, Miss Frances Jeffery, Mrs. Henry Baby Jr., Miss Florence Cremin, and Mrs. Ralph W. Applegate.

The classes are conducted by Mrs. Foster Farrell, who formerly was head of the occupational therapy department at the Home for Convalescents in Des Moines, Ia. Miss Virginia Winston, chairman of the project, always is present, too, to answer questions of the sponsors, the name given the young women who are active in the project.

Although many of the sponsors would like to join their families or friends on a holiday trip, they are staying right here to look after their charges as they promised to do. Mrs. William D. Cox, who is not a sponsor, but who is in charge of clothing for the project, is leaving on Sunday for New Mexico to visit her brother, Edward Nicholas Jr., who lives in Roswell. Mrs. Scott J. Dow Jr. is Mrs. Cox's assistant.

Miss Jeffery is leaving on Saturday for a short skiing trip but she is being excused from classes for the good reason that she recently became engaged. She and her aunt, Miss Frances E. Whedon, will meet the former's fiancé, Harris Fahnestock Jr., in Boston, and with a group of young people will go to Franconia, N. H., for ten days of sport.

Polish Entertainers Will Be Guests at Tavern.

A group of Polish entertainers from the Tatra mountains who have come to America under the auspices of the Kosciusko Educational Foundation will be especial guests at the Tavern breakfast on Sunday.

Upton Close will speak on "What Now in the Far East?" at a luncheon meeting of the Woman's Athletic club at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Among those who have made reservations for the luncheon are Mrs. John Q. Adams, Mrs. James Tatman, Mrs. Reimund Baumann, Mrs. Duncan Keith, Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler, and Mrs. Paul McGrath.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton have sailed from New York on a West Indies cruise. They will be away one month.

The Frederick A. Prestons will sail for the West Indies from New Orleans on Feb. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dole and their young son, John, are leaving today for Warm Springs, Ga., and Naples, Fla., for a winter vacation. They will be away three weeks.

Miss Laura Moyer, who makes her home with her aunt and uncle, Col. and Mrs. Robert G. Peck, sailed Saturday for Bermuda to visit Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morse and their daughter, Miss Barbara Morse, until the end of February.

Pay Tribute to Dr. Scott as N. U. Alumni Hold Foundation Meeting

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, who has announced his desire to retire as president of Northwestern university, was lauded last night as a great educator, a fine scholar, and a good neighbor by two colleagues who spoke before the university's annual alumni foundation meeting at the Chicago Athletic club.

Bishop George Craig Stewart, who recalled that he had attended the first board meeting at which Dr. Scott presided, declared that the educator had never varied from the fourfold program he had announced that night. During his nineteen year leadership of the university, Bishop Stewart said, Dr. Scott has constantly striven to reduce the four enemies of society, ignorance, poverty, disease, and sin.

Dr. Scott's work in integrating the original eleven separate schools of the university into one great institution was praised by Dr. Thomas F. Holgate, dean emeritus of the university. He also paid tribute to the president's achievement in encouraging alumni support.

His trip was to no avail, for Brenda says, "I'm definitely not interested."

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There are two kinds of steak on a beef carcass—tender and less tender. The leg and flank muscles, which got most exercise during the lifetime of the animal, are the tough ones, and their round and flank steaks must be cooked by braising.

From the loin come the tender steaks, the sirloin, porterhouse, T-bone and club. All these are cooked by broiling. Properly cooked, they are puffy, juicy, and tender. Most persons prefer them rare or medium, for the longer a tender steak is cooked, the less tender it becomes and the more it shrinks and loses its good juices.

The so-called "tough" steaks will be that way only if you cook them improperly. The right way to cook a flank steak or a round steak [excepting, perhaps, top round, which in the best grades of beef is tender enough to broil] is to brown it in a little hot fat, add some liquid, and cook covered at a very low temperature until tender. A high temperature will toughen it.

No meat is more tender or delicious than a thick swiss steak cut from the beef round, browned, and cooked at a very low temperature with tomato juice or canned tomatoes. But try to broil the same cut of meat and you'd have to have a dog's teeth to get anywhere with it.

Swiss Steak.
[Serves four.]
Round steak cut two inches thick
¼ cup flour
2 tablespoons fat
2 small onions
2 carrots
2 stalks celery
1 cup canned tomatoes
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt, pepper

Dredge steak with flour and pound flour in if desired. Pounding isn't necessary, as the meat will become tender without it, but some persons believe it an aid in developing tenderness, as it helps break up connective tissue. Brown meat on both sides in hot fat. Slice vegetables over steak, sprinkle generously with salt and pepper and add tomatoes. Cover and cook on top of the stove or in the oven about two hours, or until meat is tender. Use 325-350 degree oven, or low heat on top of the stove. If it becomes necessary to add more liquid, do so, but in very small amounts.

Just as it is ruinous to a good swiss steak to cook it by broiling, so it would also be disastrous to cook a porterhouse by the braising method which makes the swiss steak so delectable. I shudder at the mere idea! The method for broiling I am suggesting here applies to all of the other tender steaks, too.

BROILED PORTERHOUSE STEAK.

Have the steak cut at least an inch thick. The thicker it is, the more choice, as a rule. It isn't wise to have it more than two inches thick, however, for such a steak assumes the proportions of a roast. Place on a rack in a broiling oven pre-heated to 350 degrees, moderate temperature. There should be three inches between the element and the steak. Broil until well browned on one side, sprinkle with salt and pepper, turn, and brown the other side in the same way. Steaks cut an inch thick require twenty to twenty-five minutes for the whole broiling process. If they are thicker, they'll take longer. A two inch steak takes fifteen minutes to a side to cook medium well done.

Studio Cancels Radio Role of Tyrone Power; Hopes to Aid Theaters

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP)—At the insistence of theater exhibitors, Darryl Zanuck, Twentieth Century-Fox production chief, today terminated the radio contract of Tyrone Power, effective after next Sunday night's broadcast.

"We have no quarrel with radio but there is great validity in the insistence of theater exhibitors who complain their business is seriously injured because the airlanes are so crowded with screen personalities," he said.

"Not only the theaters but the movie stars themselves are endangered because it is so difficult to get adequate material for these programs.

"The screen and radio can continue to help each other when they cooperate for mutual benefit, but the situation today means that both must suffer."

Power has been appearing as the romantic lead in a Sunday night broadcast for several months.

Grownups Who Tease Should Expect Rebuff

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

She was talking about her mother whom I had met when she was ill and whom I remembered, even so, as a spirited woman of great character and a ready tongue. So, I could well believe my friend when she regaled me with tales, handed down, of her mother's exploits as a little girl.

"Mother was a 'terror to rats,' as they used to say down home. And her father, being a minister, made what she did all the more noticeable.

"Of course, mother was a little spoiled. Her parents had lost two little girls before her, and she was thin as a rail and quite fragile, and they indulged her. Grandfather and grandmother were always entertaining the ministers that came to their town, and because Mary amused them with her quick answers they all used to tease her.

"One day there was an especially notable minister having supper with them who kept baiting Mary to hear her amusing answers. Finally, Mary made a retort which shocked the gentleman into offended and silent dignity. His joviality vanished utterly, and he turned to grandfather expecting him to punish his daughter.

"Grandfather looked at his disapproving face. With a twinkle in his eye he said quietly, 'If you let Mary alone she'll let you alone.'"

It takes courage and a sense of justice for a parent to stand by his child in such a social situation as that. Many relatives and family friends, sometimes older brothers and sisters, and even parents themselves will tease a child or fool with him or "rough" him about, and will then be highly offended when that child steps over a delicate line which they draw in their own minds between fun and impertinence.

Some of us have a way of expecting more self-control and judgment of a child in those situations than it is reasonable to expect. And these fracases not only make the grownup who has been teasing get hurt feelings, but usually result in the onlooking parent being unjust in his reproof or punishment.

HINT FOUL PLAY IN DEATH OF KEY HINES WITNESS

Report No Finger Prints on Suicide Gun.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today ordered District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and Westchester county officials to investigate a charge by George E. Mulry, an attorney, that finger prints of George Weinberg, key witness in the James J. Hines trial, were not found on the gun with which Weinberg was supposed to have committed suicide last Sunday.

In an almost empty courtroom, Weinberg's previous testimony continued to be read today to a jury in the second conspiracy trial of Tammany Leader Hines on charges that he was the political protector of a $20,000,000 a year policy racket bossed by Dutch Schultz, slain gang leader. Weinberg was a principal lieutenant of Schultz. The first trial of Hines was halted on a technicality ruling by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, a Tammany Democrat.

"Insider" Backs Report.

The finger print issue was raised by Mulry on the basis of a confidential report from a client whom Mulry said was "on the inside of things." Mulry telegraphed Gov. Lehman, suggesting that he confiscate the revolver and investigate.

Dewey, who is prosecuting Hines, dismissed the finger print issue as "crackpot stuff." Others associated with Dewey said finger prints frequently are lacking on suicide guns.

The gun was a standard .38 caliber revolver of the type used by the New York police force. Its rough, black, corrugated handle would add to the difficulty in obtaining finger prints, it was said. Finger prints often are missing from a smooth handle pistol because in holding a revolver the entire finger tips do not come in contact with the handle.

Revives Underworld Rumors.

The report, however, lent strength to underworld rumors that there might be something peculiar about Weinberg's death. He used a gun taken from the overcoat of Joseph Kaitz, one of the investigators designated by Dewey to keep Weinberg and two other witnesses in protective custody in White Plains. The other witnesses are Richard J. [Dixie] Davis, former attorney for the Schultz mob, and Big Harry Schoenhaus, head bookkeeper for the gang.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester medical examiner, who concluded that Weinberg committed suicide, said in White Plains today that he had not seen the gun, that it had been taken away before he arrived at the mansion where the shooting took place, and that he understood White Plains police have it.

"I'm reasonably satisfied it was a suicide," Dr. Squire said, "and base my conclusion on the history of the case and the fact that it was a contact wound."

PICK ANDERSON'S SUCCESSOR FOR GUARD COMMAND

Chief Boatswain's Mate Merritt Richards of the United States coast guard, who is in charge of the station at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., is expected to be placed in command of the old Chicago coast guard station here on March 1, as the successor to Capt. J. O. Anderson. He has been recommended for the promotion, it was learned yesterday, by District Commander A. Glazza at Green Bay, Wis. The appointment will be made by the coast guard commandant in Washington, D. C. The retirement of Capt. Anderson, who has been in the coast guard for thirty-nine years, was announced last week.

Paxton, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—William D. Starbuck, 72 years old, died today following several months' illness. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon.

Taken to Hospital

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho was taken in an ambulance to Emergency hospital today suffering from a severe case of influenza which it was feared might develop into pneumonia. He is 73 years old.

"The senator is not a desperately ill man," explained Dr. Worth Daniels, his physician.

Dr. Daniels and Mrs. Borah accompanied the dean of the senate to the hospital in the ambulance. Borah, heavily wrapped in blankets, was carried into the hospital receiving room by attendants.

WINS JUDGMENT AGAINST EX-WIFE; SHE FACES JAIL

Accused of Trying to Send Him to Asylum.

A jury in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday awarded John Mayer of Grayslake damages of $1,500 from his former wife, Mrs. Marian Mayer. A malice count was added, and if she does not pay she may be kept in the Lake county jail for six months.

John Mayer.

Mayer, an interior decorator, 52 years old, had sued his former wife and Harold L. Kinsler of Round Lake for $50,000, alleging that they had conspired to injure his reputation by calling him insane and having him taken into custody in July, 1937. A sanity hearing brought a verdict that Mayer was of sound mind.

Kinsler Is Freed by Judge.

After John O. Wagner, representing Mayer, had presented his evidence, Judge Ralph J. Dady ordered that the jury free Kinsler of blame, as no conspiracy had been shown. Kinsler, who is president of a Chicago tailoring concern, was represented by Attorney George McGaughey.

Mrs. Mayer was not in court and was not represented. It was said her whereabouts are unknown. She formerly lived in Waukegan, and worked for the WPA. If she is found and jailed Mayer will have to pay her board bill of $5.25 a week to Lake county.

The marital troubles of the Mayers came to public notice in 1935, when the wife obtained an uncontested divorce on the ground of cruelty.

Wins $20,000 Damages.

Later Mayer sued Kinsler for $100,000, claiming that he had alienated the affections of Mrs. Mayer. Testimony showed that Kinsler and Mrs. Mayer had many romantic trysts. The case was tried in the Circuit court in Chicago in July, 1937, and damages of $20,000 were awarded Mayer. It was reported that Kinsler settled this judgment with a $5,000 payment.

Mayer contended that the insanity charge was placed against him a week before the alienation trial began in an effort to discredit him. He added that he was forced to remain in jail for a day, was put to heavy expense and was made the subject of "scandal and disgrace."

NEW STARS RISE IN GOLDEN GLOVES BATTLES

EIGHT REGULARS STILL REFUSE CUB CONTRACTS

Bryant Thinks He's Earned a Boost.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles Drake, who checks off the Cubs' contracts as they arrive, was unable to do any official checking yesterday. He pawed feverishly through each mail delivery, hoping to discover one signed document which could be added to the seventeen individual cases already listed as settled. Charles didn't even experience the thrill of a fresh complaint from any of the thirteen athletes who thus far have spurned Owner P. K. Wrigley's valuation of their baseball talent.

By the simple process of checking the men already signed and taking the names then remaining on the roster, it becomes evident that the unusual balkiness among the league champions isn't confined to rookies who were ignorant of the system whereby, if they make good, they might receive boosts over their contract pay. There are eight potential regulars among the missing, and, as they know all the details of the borus arrangements, it's a cinch they either are moaning over slashes or the modesty of increases.

Bryant Starts Figuring.

The No. 1 man among those who feel the tendered contracts were not in keeping with the class of their 1938 labors is Clay Bryant, who, with the exception of Bill Lee, is the most important item of the Cub pitching staf. Bryant has learned through the public prints that Dizzy Dean, who won seven games, was signed at $20,000, and that Lee was boosted well beyond this figure. Bryant knows enough arithmetic to be able to reckon that his nineteen victories should be worth more than Dean's seven and almost as much as Lee's twenty-two.

Others who have filed complaints are Stan Hack, Larry French, Augie Galan, Carl Reynolds, Phil Cavarretta, and Jack Russell, who did some de luxe relief work throughout last season. Hack wants more dough than offered because he had a good season. French was off color and probably is objecting to a trimming. Reynolds did fairly well in an outfield which wasn't very hot and craves recognition before his baseball sun goes behind a cloud.

Four Rookies Balk.

Four rookies remain on the unsigned side of the fence, indicating they suspect themselves to be world beaters or that the Cubs are a cinch to cough up under pressure. Members of the complaining quartet are William Baker, a catcher from Indianapolis, Pitcher Gene Lillard from Los Angeles, First Baseman Glen Russell from the same club, and Pitcher Newel Kimball, who has been in and out of the Cub picture several times during the last two years. Outfielders Joe Marty and Hank Leiber, taken in trade from the Giants, haven't been heard from, so the nature of their grief is a mystery to the club officials.

The business of getting the White Sox contracts signed is being conducted quietly, no announcements being made of acceptances or rejections. However, President J. Louis Comiskey is thinking of revealing a few contract secrets, possibly today, after a talk with Manager Jim Dykes, who is scheduled to stop in Chicago on his way to the Pasadena training camp.

League Has Thirteen Umpires.

William Harridge, American league president, who leaves today for his annual Florida vacation, announced yesterday that he has thirteen umpires on his 1939 staf and that he isn't afraid of the number being a jinx.

The staf became topheavy last season after Harry Geisel was injured. The guessing corps was one below normal at that time because of the absence of Emmett [Red] Ormsby, who was ill, so when Geisel was lost, the name of George Pipgras was added and he's still present.

One of the thirteen will be dropped some time after the season opens unless, after working spring games in Florida, Ormsby discovers that he has not completely recovered.

THE HAWKS, WHO PLAY AT HOCKY, MEET CANADIENS

New Man Instructed in Scoreless System.

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The sorely tried Chicago Blackhawks, who have scored eight goals in their last ten games and who are just a step and a half out of seventh place in the National Hocky league, tonight headed for Montreal, where they will battle the seventh place Canadiens in the Forum tomorrow night.

Coach Paul Thompson held the team over here today, following its 3 to 2 defeat by the New York Rangers in Madison Square Garden last night. It was the third time in six meetings between the two that the New Yorkers had won, the Hawks taking two and tying another.

Play Bruins Sunday.

The Chicagoans, who have failed to show their customers the class which they displayed when they won the Stanley cup in a great finish last year, will return to Chicago Stadium Sunday night to meet the league leading Boston Bruins.

Thompson today conducted a special practice session to familiarize the Hawks with their new teammate, Joe Cooper, big 24 year old defense man who was acquired from the Rangers' Philadelphia farm last night in exchange for Alex Levinsky and cash. Levinsky was sent to Philadelphia in the deal.

A Scoring Threat.

Cooper, who had been up with the Rangers in the last two seasons, has been playing with the Philadelphia club this year under a new system devised by Lester Patrick of the Rangers and Herb Gardiner, manager of the Ramblers. This calls for a wide open style of play which has enabled the Ramblers to lead the International-American league with a total of 147 goals in thirty-six games.

Cooper, despite his defense position, has been a scoring threat and it was with this idea that the Hawks made the deal for him. This afternoon he worked out with Bill Mackenzie as a partner.

BRUINS RELEASE TWO

Boston, Mass., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Charles Sands and Ray Getliffe, wingmen on the Boston Bruins club of the National Hocky league, today were sent to the Hershey International-American league team by Manager Art Ross. The pair will be replaced by two members of the Hershey squad, Terry Reardon and Red Hamill.

"I was disappointed with the play of Sands and Getliffe," Ross said. "They were not playing up to Bruin standards and too many goals were scored against the Bruins when they were on the ice."

Reardon, 19 years old, and Hamill, 22 years old, will join the Bruins tomorrow night for their game with the Toronto Maple Leafs. It will be Reardon's first appearance in major league hocky.

SUSPEND ADAMS FOR ROUGH RIDE AT SANTA ANITA

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Stewards at Santa Anita Park invoked the anti-roughriding rule today against Johnny Adams, leading jocky of the meeting. They handed him a ten day suspension for his performance yesterday aboard A. A. Baroni's Star Shadow in the San Clemente handicap.

Adams was blamed for piloting Star Shadow into the Binglin stable's Olimpio, knocking him off stride when it appeared Olimpio was headed for a victory. Star Shadow was nosed out at the wire by Howard Hawks' Warfellow, and later disqualified entirely. Adams was leading in jocky standings with twenty-four victories to his credit.

Gen. Phelan Reappointed to N.Y. Boxing Commission

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, today was reappointed to the board for a two year period, expiring Dec. 31, 1940.

Sarazen Calls British Pros Poor Sports and Dollar Chasers

New Port Richey, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen broke a period of unwonted quiet today by charging poor sportsmanship and undue devotion to the dollar to British golf pros in general and Henry Cotton, in particular.

The former national open golf champion was aroused to old-time oral form by reports Cotton and other Britons were demanding guarantees to come to America to play. Sarazen is a former winner of the British open title.

Recalls American Visits in Britain.

"What's wrong with this British chap, Cotton," asked Gene, "that he claims to be the world's best golfer and is in the money now, but demands a guarantee to come over for some matches in this country?

"He and the rest of the English pros seem to forget that for years the leading American pros, such as Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour, and myself, and of course the great amateur, Bobby Jones, made annual trips to St. Andrews to make the British open championship a real event.

"Did we hesitate or ask for guarantee? No.

"The American golf professional has contributed more to the development of the game throughout the world than any others. Hagen and myself have played all over the world, spending our own funds.

Time to Be Good Sports.

"Now would be the time for the British to show some good sportsmanship. Let Cotton and his friends come over here and win some honor for their own country."

In addition to announcing his vendetta against the British open cup, Sarazen scouted reports of his retirement from golf.

"I'm going to San Antonio, Tex., for the San Antonio open next week and I'll follow the rest of the winter circuit," he said.

Lake for Wake?

In college I was quite the hero
Worshiped by all the lads,
To girls I was a real Adonis
When I donned my shoulder pads.

My awards as an all around athlete
Are tales both bold and true;
I was thrice picked all-American
While a back for the Gold and Blue.

In basketball I was leading scorer,
I played in every game;
Baseball's annals lauded me
As a member of the Hall of Fame.

In every other major sport
My name meant great renown;
There never was an athlete
To whom I must bow down.

All these awards and achievements
I'll gladly dump in the lake
In return for my life's ambition
To make your good old Wake.

—All-American Jack.

Their Song.

I wish I knew the song they sung—
Five women and five men who clung
Together through that night of dread—
The song that kept their hearts afloat
And hailed the helmsman of the boat
That through the storm and darkness sped.

Was it an anthem, clear and brave,
That echoed forth from wave to wave?
Or was is some familiar tune
Of old like "Comin' Through the Rye,"
Or some low, wistful lullaby
Such as their mothers used to croon?

Perhaps it was a swingtime air—
Who knows?—that lightened their despair,
Or chantey, gay, or roundelay.
But this I know—and this alone—
And this for ages will be known:
That song of theirs kept death at bay.

I wonder, and I wish I knew—
I wish the world could know it, too.
It has such need of songs to cheer;
There are so many things that threat,
So many dangers that beset,
Like that which wrecked the Cavalier.

GATE CRASHERS MAR OPENING OF GULFSTREAM

15,000 Fans There, but How Many Paid?

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Florida's newest turf venture, Gulfstream Park, opened today with more than the usual excitement of a race track inaugural. John C. Horning, youthful president of the new plant, was jubilant at the outpouring of an estimated 15,000 fans and the reported intake of almost $400,000 at the mutuel windows.

At Hialeah Park, only seventeen miles away, Joseph E. Widener, chief owner of that establishment, was far from cheerful in contemplating the effect a third Florida track will have on the limited number of winter customers.

Widener Is Gloomy.

"The injection of a third course in this area will serve to hurt Hialeah and Tropical Parks without benefiting Gulfstream Park," he said.

The almost unanimous prediction is said to be for Horning to take a financial beating because of lack of sufficient business in this area to support three tracks.

The Gulfstream opening was marred by a terrific jam at the admission windows and gates. As a result, thousands rushed over the waist high fences. Even Sonja Henie, the film star and champion skater, was forced to climb the fence before taking part in the ceremonies, the cutting of a blue and white ribbon to officially open the plant.

Hialeah Suffers.

The new track estimated an attendance of 15,000, compared to an official count of 7,660 at Hialeah, more than 3,000 less than attended on this date a year ago. The Hialeah betting total was $293,258, against a total of $468,447 a year ago. Gulfstream reported handling $179,976 on the first four races, but estimated the total would run close to $400,000.

Hialeah and Tropical Parks have an agreement to maintain the present schedule, which divides the winter season here between the two. Gulfstream obtained conflicting dates because it is across the Dade county line. Forty horses that run at Gulfstream today had previously raced at Hialeah. Many of the others ordinarily campaign at Tropical. Officials of the latter track have intimated that horsemen who run at the new oval will be unwelcome at their track.

Shoulder Arms Wins.

The Longchamps stable's Shoulder Arms captured the $1,000 Inaugural handicap, paying $12.90 for $2, with J. Rosen up. The long shot Sun In play was second, and Galapas, third.

Pasteurized, a 1 to 2 favorite, scored a neck victory in the featured grade A handicap at Hialeah, under Don Meade's clever riding. Only a neck behind was Bar Fly, with Cravat getting the show.

INDIANS' SIGNING OF PITCHER STIRS MICHIGAN STATE

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Ralph H. Young, athletic director at Michigan State college, expressed himself today as "at a loss to understand" the action of the Cleveland Indians in signing Glen Rankin of Detroit, outstanding pitcher.

Young said he had just returned to the city and had not had time to investigate the facts. He refused to comment on reports he planned to protest to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

"If it's all true," Young said, "I'm wondering how this team does business—taking a boy who has two years of college left, and influencing him to leave school."

De Kalb Beats Elmhurst, 58 to 37; Increases Lead

De Kalb Teachers increased their first place margin in the Little Nineteen conference basketball race to a full game over Normal and Macomb Teachers by defeating Elmhurst, 58 to 37, last night in Elmhurst. It was De Kalb's sixth triumph in seven starts. Twilliger scored 16 points for the Teachers.

AMATEURS BOX IN 2 DIVISIONS ON WEST SIDE

Continue Fighting Tonight.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Joe La Rose, sturdy and confident, faced Louis Jones, not quite so sturdy and not quite so confident. From opposite corners of the Madison Athletic club's ring, they eyed each other. A moment later the bell clanged, the galleries roared and another Golden Gloves tournament sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., was on its way. That was the beginning of last night's west sectional eliminations.

A few minutes later La Rose turned a jubilant handspring as he was proclaimed the winner on a technical knockout when Jones was unable to come up for the third round. As the boys climbed out on one side of the ring, two others ducked through the ropes on the opposite side, ready to keep the fighting running at a speedy pace. And so it went for hours. The crowd which filled the arena to capacity found such endless variety in the show that many will be back tonight for the second program.

Fight Again Tonight.

Tonight's card will present many of the boys who won last night. Others will be making their first appearance. Then there will be a breathing spell until next Wednesday when the west siders will resume fighting. Their eliminations will be concluded one week from tonight and the eight survivors will qualify for the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 27, Feb. 28, and March 1.

The west sectional event is the first of four series of eliminations which will be held on all sides of the city. Fighting will begin next Tuesday in the south section; Feb. 15 in the northwest, and Feb. 20 in the north. Meanwhile boxers in twenty-five states will be battling for the right to enter the Tournament of Champions along with Chicago's qualifiers.

Things Happen Fast.

The crowd had to watch sharply last night to keep up with the action. While a fight fan was reaching for a handful of popcorn, he might miss a knockout. For instance, Ronald Gordon of the 124th Field Artillery boxed under wraps for about a minute and a half, then knocked out Albert Conforti with one solid punch. This occurred in the 126 pound class.

There was some interesting byplay in the bout between John Guidara, an amiable red headed Italian, and Lee De Rosier, a tall, well proportioned boxer, in the 135 pound division. They fought spiritedly through the first round with honors about even, both showing good humored sportsmanship.

One Wins and Sulks.

Midway in the second Guidara launched a terrific right that caught De Rosier on the jaw, spun him around, and sent him to the canvas. The instant he let go of the punch Guidara recoiled and shook his head with the expression of a man who had just dropped his watch on a sidewalk. He stamped angrily up and down as his adversary was being counted out. Then he jerked his robe from his second and climbed out of the ring.

"What's the matter with him?" some one asked. "Didn't he win?"

"He was fighting a pal," another explained. "He didn't mean to hit him so hard."

Novices Are Crowd Pleasers.

Some of the novices gave the crowd some of its greatest excitement, Frank Rowe and Samuel Davis, the latter a colored boy from the Savoy A. C., put on a battle as enthusiastic and as awkward as you might have MAX SCHMELING WITH US AGAIN, BUT WHAT FOR?

Anyway, He's Not in a Prison Camp.

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling's sudden trip to this country provides boxing with its best puzzle since Max Baer sold 108 per cent of himself and then tried to make an accounting to his assorted managers. Schmeling is scheduled to arrive aboard the Normandie tomorrow.

Schmeling left New York July 2 after his startling one round knockout by Joe Louis. He sailed on this return trip to America less than two weeks after the cables sizzled with a story that he was in trouble with the German government. The difficulties were an outgrowth, it was said, of a remark by Schmeling of his probable activities had Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels included Schmeling's wife, the former Anny Ondra, in his romancing.

Several Possible Reasons.

Possible reasons for Schmeling's surprise visit include:

An official order to present himself to Americans to disprove reports he had been taken into custody.

The need of settling accounts with New York movie people whom he dealt with in the purchase of the films of the first Schmeling-Louis fight.

A personal desire for a holiday.

The yen, inherent in every person who has been in the limelight, to see if the public still is interested in him.

A prospector's urge to shop around and ascertain what fights would be available, were he inclined to try a comeback.

An Incomplete Answer.

Even if one of these reasons answered the question of why he has resumed transoceanic commuting there would be no explanation of (1) his abrupt departure and (2) his pointed choice of a French boat after years of almost exclusive use of German liners.

In Paris, on the eve of his sailing, Schmeling insisted, "I am Joe Louis' master and I will prove it again." That he'll ever get a chance to prove it is extremely doubtful. For the ex-champion to qualify, in the eyes of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, he would have to go through a couple of elimination bouts, which he probably would reject.

Return to Ring in Germany?

Those who have been well informed on his plans in the past declare he is serious in his determination not to retire with a knockout in his last bout as a blemish on his record. But they believe Max's return to the ring will be made in Germany, probably in April.

Unless the Hitler government places Schmeling in a category by himself he will not be able to box in this country without express permission of the German Sports association.

Cavaliers Lose on Substitute's Goals, 42 to 38

The Phillips 66 quintet last night evened its score with the La Salle Hotel Cavaliers in the feature game of a triple header in the Coliseum. Beaten, 55 to 48, by the Chicagoans in a recent battle, the Phillips five, registering from Bartlesville, Okla., won at 42 to 38 argument in a Missouri Valley A. A. U. league game.

Sub Beats Cavaliers.

Trailing, 24 to 20, at the half, the Cavaliers came back to tie the score at 36-36, but Jim Babcock, Phillips' substitute, dropped in a pair of baskets and the Oklahomans obtained control of the ball thereafter.

In the opener the Alderman Connellys took a 27 to 26 thriller from the Chicago Defenders. Broadis, guard for the losers, led the scorers with five field goals and one free throw. The Connellys held a 13 to 11 advantage at half time.

Wright Junior Wins.

Wright Junior college staved off a rally by the Herzl Junior quintet to win, 26 to 22. Wright led at the half, 13 to 5.

The next Coliseum triple-header will be played on Feb. 11. The Cavaliers will meet the Freuhauf Trailers of Tulsa, Okla., whom they recently defeated. In other games Monmouth and St. Ambrose colleges will clash and the colored Phi-Alpha Phi five, including Bernie Jefferson and Oze Simmons, will battle Swift & Co.

Loyola Coach Fears De Paul and Admits It

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

You would think the man's team was at least 20 points behind to look at him as he sits there on the bench, chewing his nails and muttering to himself. Then you suddenly look up at the scoreboard and discover that his boys usually are that much ahead.

The man is Lennie Sachs, coach of the Loyola university basketball team, which has gone through thirteen games this season without a single licking. Their closest victories were an overtime battle against Michigan State, decided by 46 to 44, and a 33 to 31 argument with Santa Clara.

He's Just Beginning to Worry.

Yet it now develops that Mr. Sachs is just beginning to worry about his Ramblers. As a matter of fact, it turns out he has been going through only his fretting paces. The reason for this new high in frowning and hopping from one end of the bench to the other is a bunch of fellows from Loyola's own neighborhood.

That bunch constitutes the De Paul university team, which will meet Loyola in the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night in the annual game sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization.

Demons are Getting Good.

De Paul lately has given Sachs and the Ramblers reason to worry. After a rather slow start the Blue Demons of Tom Haggerty have come up with a record of seven won and four lost in the eleven games they have played thus far. Those seven triumphs include a highly convincing one over St. John's of Brooklyn, N. Y., which previously was undefeated.

Mr. Sachs will conduct his final personal worrying warmup tomorrow night in the Madison street armory, where Loyola meets the City College of New York quintet in half of a double-header. Mr. Haggerty also will have a chance to be restless, for the other portion of the twin bill will see the Blue Demons battle Butler university.

CHAMACO WINS TWICE; ADDS TO BILLIARD LEAD

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Joe Chamaco of Mexico City defeated Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia twice today to extend his first place advantage in the national three cushion billiard championship. The 50-48 triumph in 46 innings this afternoon and another 50-38 victory in 50 innings tonight gave him a total of nine games won against one lost.

The Mexican had to come from behind each time. Reiselt led, 23-15, in the 17th inning of the night game and was not overtaken until the 29th. But between the 27th and 49th the Philadelphian scored only seven points. It was his fifth defeat in ten starts. Chamaco's high run was six, one less than Reiselt obtained.

ALLEN HALL WINS TWO.

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Allen Hall of Chicago won two matches here today from Art Thurnblad, Kenosha cuist, in the round robin national three cushion billiards tournament. Hall came from behind to take the afternoon match, 50 to 38, in 45 innings. Tonight he won, 50 to 44, in 45 innings.

SCOVILLE, McCOURT SPLIT.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Frank Scoville of Buffalo and Charles McCourt of Cleveland split two matches today in the national three cushion billiard tournament. Scoville won in the afternoon, 50 to 39, and lost in the evening, 50 to 42.

Vacation Is Over; Wildcats Tackle Marquette Five

Northwestern university's basketball team makes its first start in two weeks tonight when it meets Marquette at Patten gymnasium. Its last game was the 32 to 31 conquest of Minnesota.

Marquette, victorious in seven out of ten games, will seek to avenge last year's 31 to 29 defeat at the hands of the Wildcats at Milwaukee. It has a veteran squad headed by a high scoring front line trio of Glenn Adams and Bob Deneen, forwards, and Erwin Graf, 6 foot 2 inch center, former Elgin High school star.

Marquette has defeated Wisconsin and Chicago in the Big Ten, and Butler, Santa Clara, Carleton, and Western State. It lost a one point decision to the Badgers in the first game of the season, but came back to win the second, 46 to 27.

Northwestern probably will retain the same lineup which turned back Minnesota for its first Big Ten victory in four starts. This was Al Butherus and Chuck Melchoir, forwards; Bob Koble, center, and Ad Vance and Bob Voigts, guards.

Only Vance and Voigts have been regulars since the start of the season. Coach Dutch Lonborg repeatedly has tried out new front line combinations in a search for scoring punch. Other players who may see action tonight are Les Harman, Bob Shepard, and Bernie Davis, forwards, and Don McCarnes, center. Lineups:

Aron Scores by Knockout Over Lee in Eighth

Milt Aron of Chicago knocked out Indian Billy Lee of Milwaukee in 50 seconds of the eighth round of a scheduled ten round feature event in Marigold Gardens last night. Aron landed a right to the jaw for the knockout.

Lee, who recently knocked out Verne Patterson at Marigold, made a good showing early in the fight. Aron's left hooks and right crosses weakened him just prior to the knockout, however.

The crowd of 981 paid $924.

In the five round semi-windup Dick Kist of Danville beat Johnny Martin of Peoria. Martin was down for nine counts three times in the third and twice in the fifth. In other bouts Armando Santiago of Chicago beat Jimmy Mason, Ernie Valente, West Allis, Wis., beat Pete Atkins, Chicako, and George Nyberg scored over Art Lind, all at four rounds.

Henry Wacker, Chicago heavyweight, who has a string of knockouts, last night had two bouts called off on him, an eight rounder against George Sutka in White City tomorrow and a ten rounder with Buddy Knox in the Coliseum Feb. 17. Sutka wired that he suffered an eye injury in training and Knox said other engagements made it impossible for him to appear. A new opponent is sought to oppose Wacker tomorrow.

After the proposed Knox-Wacker meeting was canceled Promoter James C. Mullen opened negotiations for a ten round contest between Davey Day and Milt Aron for Feb. 16 in the Coliseum. . . . Frankie Kainrath, 1938 Chicago Golden Gloves bantamweight champion, is down for a five round contest with a fellow named Jimmy Haley. Another five rounder involves Eddie Dempsey and Joe Law, junior lightweights. Four round matches will bring together Nick Castiglione and Gene Ward and Eddie [Popeye] Saltis and Willie Kline in supporting White City matches tomorrow.

Wladyslaw Talun, giant Polish wrestler who pinned Danno O'Mahoney at the Coliseum head Promoter Billy Cepak's card Monday night at Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. He will meet Angelo Lorenzo, west coast Italian.

After the colored boy had exhausted himself with repeated rushes of this kind Rowe took his turn at it. By the end of the second round neither seemed able to do much more than keep his feet. In the third, however, Davis came back strong. The bout ended on a technical knockout, with the Savoy athlete hammering blows on the back of the retreating Rowe, who was game, but too weary to defend himself. Results:

Pitt Alumni Suggest Some Sport Changes

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP)—An alumni investigation committee today conditionally approved the athletic policy at the University of Pittsburgh, but suggested changes in the sports department setup.

The report came on the heels of Pitt's action in placing its athletics under Western conference rules and the supervision of Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner.

[The coöperative agreement between Pittsburgh and the Western conference approved by the Pittsburgh athletic board Tuesday night merely makes available to the eastern school the advice and methods employed by the conference in policing athletics for subsidization and proselyting. Maj. Griffith will act only in an advisory capacity. Pittsburgh solicited the Western conference's aid in setting up a new code of eligibility.]

The committee, organized last fall, recommended the appointment of an arbitrator between athletes and university representatives.

Uncertain About Code.

Commenting on the Bowman code, promulgated by Chancellor John G. Bowman to put athletics on an amateur basis, the report said:

"There was perhaps justification for formulating a code . . . [but] . . . there has been some question in our minds whether the code as drawn is exactly suited to the conditions of the University of Pittsburgh."

Referring to a group of freshmen football players who threatened to strike because they charged they were dunned for tuition notes, the report said all the freshmen athletes apparently were still in school "but we do not know whether the tuition matter has been definitly settled."

Recommends More Jobs.

The committee said it believed jobs should be given to athletes, asserting it found a number had "actually been living in distressed conditions in trying to make ends meet under the present system."

Investigators also recommended increasing the powers of the athletic director and urged expansion of the faculty committee.

James Hagan, athletic director, said the university decided to place itself under Big Ten supervision to guard against violations of eligibility, subsidization, and proselyting.

NATIONAL SQUASH TOURNEY ENTRIES WILL CLOSE FEB. 9

Entries for the national tournament of the United States Squash Racquets association, to be held in Chicago, Feb. 11, 12, and 13, will close on Feb. 9, according to an announcement yesterday by C. Wallace Johnson, general chairman of the event.

The national singles title, held for the last three years by Germain G. Glidden, southpaw star of the Harvard club of New York, will be decided on the courts of the Lake Shore Athletic club. The team tournament will be held in the Chicago Athletic association, and the veterans' event in the Racquet club.

Sidney Galowin of New York is rated one of the outstanding challengers for Glidden's singles championship. Galowin has perfected an ambidextrous style which enables him to hit forehand and backhand shots with equal ease.

Heading the Chicago hopes for the tournament, first national to be held locally since 1930, are J. Dudley Pope and Homer L. Dixon Jr. who finished one-two in the western tournament in Minneapolis last week.

STATE FARMERS BRAND AAA CROP PROGRAM UNFAIR

Urge Correction of Corn Loan Weaknesses.

Farm leaders of Illinois attacked what they called certain unfair features of the federal government's crop control and corn loan programs at the closing session of the Illinois Agricultural association convention in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

The farmer delegates objected particularly to the provision of the 1938 agricultural adjustment act which bases the farmer's crop acreage allotment on the acreage he has grown in former years. They explained that this, in effect, penalizes the farmer who has been following approved soil improvement practices and favors those who have neglected to conserve their soil fertility.

AAA Officials Hear Protests.

Officials of the AAA at the meeting admitted that this was a weakness which they were correcting to some extent this year. They pledged efforts to improve the program in the future.

The delegates also assailed what they called unfair administration of the corn loan program, but they reasserted their faith in the 1938 agricultural adjustment act as a whole.

Earl C. Smith, president of the association, told the convention he believed Washington should lean less on economists and more on farmers in handling agricultural problems.

The farmers asked that agricultural labor be exempted from any proposed labor legislation affecting hours and wages. They contended that farm labor conditions are of a seasonal character and are not properly subject to wage and hour limitations.

Ask Weed Protection.

In an effort to deal Illinois' big weed crop a blow, the delegates passed a resolution asking more stringent state and federal laws to protect buyers of seed.

The farm delegates approved the American Farm Bureau federation's request that the President call representatives of industry, labor, and agriculture to a conference to work out a plan to promote an economic balance between these groups.

Another resolution termed the federal social security law too complicated and held the cost of administration too high for it to be applied to agricultural labor.

NLRB MEDDLES WITH POLITICS, SAYS A. F. OF L.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor served notice today that its efforts to oust Donald Wakefield Smith from the national labor relations board may include demand for a senate investigation of reports the NLRB has sought to split A. F. of L. opposition to Smith.

Request for official inquiry into reports NLRB directors have sought A. F. of L. union support for Smith will be made if and when President Roosevelt asks senate confirmation of the board member for another term, William Green, A. F. of L. president, said.

He made public copies of a letter from Harry Stevenson, Cincinnati, president of the International Moulders' union, claiming that a "Mr. Winters," an NLRB director in New York state, asked an A. F. of L. district representative to telegraph Mr. Roosevelt that New York locals of the I. M. U. were satisfied with Smith.

The federation chief said he believed NLRB regional directors throughout the country were active in behalf of Smith.

ILLINOIS SOCIAL HYGIENE LEAGUE CLINIC GROWING

The syphilis clinic of the Illinois Social Hygiene league became the second largest in the city during 1938, Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, league president, said yesterday. Comparison of the December syphilis case load of Chicago clinics showed the municipal clinic first with 9,000. The league clinic had 850 and the Public Health institute, previously in second place, 800.

The annual report, made at a meeting of league clinic directors in observance of Social Hygiene day, showed the clinic treated 2,063 persons during 1938. Outstanding progress was made in the gonorrhea section, where the average number of treatments was reduced from 40 to 22 as the result of new sufanilamide treatment.

1,000 FARMERS MARCH IN LONDON PROTEST PARADE

Petition Demands Aid by Chamberlain.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—A resolution demanding immediate agricultural aid was presented to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight by 1,000 farmers after a march through London streets. The farmers carried signs saying "Save Agriculture! Save Britain! Justice for the Land!"

A march of 5,000 planned for later in the month was forestalled by Chamberlain in appointing Sir Reginald Hugh Dorman-Smith, former head of the National Farmers' union, as minster of agriculture and fisheries. This satisfied most of the farmers. The appointment was announced last Saturday when Chamberlain made known a cabinet shakeup.

Some Prices Guaranteed.

Many steps have been taken by the government to alleviate the lot of the farmer, but it appears that far more drastic measures must be taken if agriculture is to survive as a major branch of British economy.

Producers of pigs, milk, and sugar beets enjoy the benefit of a guaranteed price for their products. Wheat growers are granted a subsidy, potato growers are assisted by import duties, and beef producers derive a measure of protection from import duties and a subsidy.

A tarif helps producers of fruit, vegetables, and eggs, and a subsidy in time of low prices compensates growers of oats and barley.

But with all this, the British farmer is worse off than before the war, when no such aids existed. The proportion of English land under cultivation has shown a startling decline, as have the production of cattle, sheep, pigs, poultry, and dairy products.

Number of Farmers Drops.

The number of persons engaged in agriculture also has declined. The movement to the city is one explanation for this, but the real explanation is believed to be that farming no longer pays.

What the farmer would like is greater protection against imports, but the government does not dare to go too far along this line. It can not discourage imports of foodstuffs from other countries for fear the time will come when Great Britain will be in need of such imports and not be able to get them.

At present Britain forms the natural market for the produce of Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Denmark, Argentina, and Ireland. If she closes her doors against them they will retaliate by closing their doors against British manufactured products, and the cost of food will rise.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.
Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Patrolman Frank Murphy of the West North avenue station, was awarded $180 for his bravery when he confronted two robbers in a grocery on Dec. 16. He killed one and routed the other, who was captured later. A probationary policeman, Edward V. Cohout, received $120 for the arrest of a robber in the loop. Others who got $120 awards were:

Sergt. John J. Hanrahan, detective bureau; Sergt. William P. McCarthy, Hudson avenue; and Policemen Daniel J. Kennelly, state's attorney's office; Thomas E. Fallon, John S. Glon and Ben J. Bazarek, detective bureau.

NURSING SCHOOL ASKS FOR $200,000 BOOST IN FUNDS

Directors of the Cook County School of Nursing, which supplies nursing service for the County hospital, yesterday asked the county board's finance committee to increase the school's present appropriation of $2,064,261 by $200,000. If the increase is granted, it was said, 70 new employés would be hired, and the rest of the money would be used for pay raises. Edwin R. Keeler, president of the school, said union workers had demanded more pay, and that smaller increases had been recommended for nonunion employés. The total for the raises was estimated at $100,000 a year.

$1,910,000 RELIEF LOAN TO BE PAID BACK TO COUNCIL

City Treasurer Gustave A. Brand said yesterday that he will use $1,910,000 of the Chicago Relief administration's 1939 city funds to repay a loan made to the CRA last year by the city council. Brand said he will take the money out of the first 1939 relief tax anticipation warants sold to put his accounts in order before he leaves office the middle of April.

Sales of relief tax anticipation warants is expected to provide $4,725,000 for use by the CRA this year. Brand's repayment of the city loan will reduce this amount to $2,815,000. Leo M. Lyons, CRA commissioner, said yesterday that approximately $1,000,000 of the latter sum will be needed to supplement state relief funds granted to Chicago for February. Relief officials hope the city council will reloan the $1,910,000 to the CRA after a new city treasurer takes office.

MORGAN FIRM TO ADMIT THREE NEW PARTNERS

One, H. C. Alexander, Only 36 Years Old.

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. plans to admit three new partners—one of them only 36 years old—next month. J. Pierpont Morgan, head of the firm, announced tonight, pending approval by the New York Stock exchange, the number of partners would be increased to fifteen on Feb. 17 by the admission of Henry C. Alexander, 36; I. C. Raymond Atkin, 46, and William A. Mitchell, 46.

Morgan made the announcement personally. He said the additions to the partnership were "made necessary by death and other causes." The new appointments are the first since Jan. 2, 1932, when there were twenty partners.

Had Younger Partners.

Commenting on the youth of Alexander, a native of Murfreesboro, Tenn., the financier said:

"No, he is not the youngest man ever to be a partner. There have been several others much younger. When I was made a partner I was only 24. No, 23¼. I had been working in the office, learning the business for a year then. Both my boys, Henry and Junius, were partners before they were 36."

Other officials of the firm said the appointment of Alexander, whom they described as "a brilliant young lawyer," carried on a tradition of always having attorneys in the partnership. It was under this policy that the late Senator Dwight Morrow was a partner.

With Morgan Law Firm.

Alexander attended the public schools of Murfreesboro and was graduated in 1923 from Vanderbilt university. He received his law degree two years later from Yale, then entered the law office which does the Morgan work—Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardiner & Reed.

The other two appointees have risen through the ranks of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the last fourteen years. The careers of Atkin and Mitchell closely parallel each other. Both are natives of Canada. The formal education of both ended with high school.

Atkin was born in Springfield, Ont.; Mitchell in Hamilton, Ont. Both went to work for the old Traders' Bank of Canada, later merged with the Royal Bank of Canada, as soon as they left high school. Both served in various branches of the Royal bank, and both finally became inspectors in the head office of the bank in Montreal. Both entered the "House of Morgan" in 1925 and both received the titles of "manager" in 1931.

Morgan Seems Cheerful.

Morgan appeared to be in excellent health as well as jovial spirits as he made his announcement. He was cheerful in his greetings to the newspaper men who had assembled in the famous old Morgan building on Wall street, and he personally distributed among them sheets of paper bearing the names of his new partners. He refused to comment on domestic and international affairs.

Wall street tradition long has rated a partnership in the "House of Morgan" one of the greatest prizes of the financial world. It also is tradition in the money district that a place in the famous private banking firm meant hard work, particularly under the pace set by the late J. P., when the "House on the Corner" was the financing hub of many of the nation's front rank industrial and railroad enterprises.

Remains Deposit Banker.

In recent years the reform of banking and financial practices under federal laws altered the activities of the firm. When segregation of commercial and investment banking was laid down as federal law the Morgan firm elected to stay in business as deposit bankers.

Some of the Morgan investment banking line, however, went into the formation of Morgan Stanley & Co. as a separate firm of underwriters. In the last few years this underwriting house has handled financing operations of many companies which formerly floated securities through the original firm.

Whether a partnership in J. P. Morgan & Co. is the prize it once was, now that the underwriting business has been segregated, is a question Wall streeters like to ponder. But the prestige remains.

Holds Half Billion Deposits.

With Drexel & Co., its Philadelphia connection, the firm reported it held about $521,000,000 in deposits at the end of 1938. This total is surpassed only by the deposits of fifteen of the big commercial banks of the country.

A list of corporations and railways maintaining a daily deposit average of more than $1,000,000 with J. P. Morgan & Co., submitted in the senate banking inquiry some years ago, read like a social register of American industry. Included were such companies as the Santa Fe railway, American Telephone and Telegraph, Chesapeake and Ohio, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., General Motors, the Northern Pacific, Standard Oil of New Jersey, New York Central, Kennecott Copper, General Electric, and Bethlehem Steel. Wall street reporters believe this list of customers largely remains intact since the firm has been limited to commercial banking services.

TREASURY TO OFFER $300,000,000 OF RFC NOTES NEXT MONDAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The treasury on Monday will offer $300,000,000 of notes of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The proceeds, it is understood, will be used to pay off part of the corporation's indebtedness to the treasury. The notes will be dated Feb. 15, 1939, and mature on Jan. 15, 1942. Interest rates and other details will be made public Monday.

The RFC notes will be guaranteed by the government as to principal and interest and be exempt from all taxation except surtaxes, and estate, interitance, and gift taxes.

The treasury today made public details of the subscriptions and allotments by federal reserve districts, in connection with the offering of $100,000,000 of five-year 1⅜ per cent notes of the United States Housing authority, which were marketed by the treasury last Thursday.

The over-subscriptions to these notes, which were subscribed nearly twenty-eight times, set a new high record for any security offered publicly by the treasury.

HOME BUILDING PERMITS SHOW 500 PCT. GAIN

Home building increased more than 500 per cent in Chicago during January compared with January, 1938. Last month, according to Building Commissioner Schmidt, permits were issued for 128 single family dwellings. In January, 1938, the total was twenty-four permits. In January, 1936 only 16 permits were issued.

Contrary to seasonal trend in all types of building, which was downward compared with December, the January home building was larger than December, 1938. In that month 107 permits were issued.

The total cost of buildings of all types in January was $1,171,350 against $2,408,725 in December. The January cost was larger than in the same month last year when the total was $954,100.

January permits for all building number 157 against forty-six in the same month last year, and 136 in December, 1938.

ILLINOIS STORES' DECEMBER SALES EXCEED YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The commerce department today reported retail sales in 1,057 independent stores in Illinois increased 4 per cent in volume last December compared with December, 1937. The city of Evanston reported the largest increase, 9 per cent.

Motor vehicle dealers reported an increase of 32 per cent over December of last year, the largest gain for any kind of business for which figures were available.

Changes in business volume for last December, compared with December, 1937, in other cities included: Alton, up 6.1 per cent; Aurora, down 2.2; Champaign, up 3.4; Chicago, up 4.4; Decatur, down 0.6; Joliet, up 1.9, and Springfield, up 6.6 per cent.

RAIL PURCHASES BOOST OUTPUT RATE IN STEEL

Railroad purchases of rail and equipment have increased the steel production rate in the last week. The trade journal Iron Age said yesterday that the national ingot rate rose 1½ points to 53.5 per cent of plant capacity.

Relaxation of the tension caused by foreign unrest and continued buying by carriers and automobile manufacturers are expected to improve steel trade in the remainder of the first quarter, the survey said.

The average price of scrap iron, Iron Age said, declined 12½ cents a ton at Pittsburgh and 25 cents at Chicago. The magazine's composite price dropped 12½c to $14.875 a ton.

G. L. Ohrstrom Hearing Is Postponed to Feb. 17

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Public hearings in proceedings to determine whether the resignation of G. L. Ohrstrom & Co., Inc., of 40 Wall street, New York City, and G. L. Ohrstrom & Co., Inc., of 141 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, as over-the-counter brokers and dealers should be revoked or suspended, have been postponed by the Securities and Exchange commission until Feb. 17.

Cent. Republic Pays $500,000 More to RFC

The Central Republic Trust company, which is liquidating the assets of its predecessor, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, collected an estimated $500,000 from liquidations in the three months ended Jan. 31. This was disclosed yesterday in the quarterly statement of Receiver Charles H. Albers, which was filed with Judge John Prystalski in the Circuit court.

The $500,000 was turned over to the Reconstruction Finance corporation by Albers. It applies on the $90,000,000 "Dawes loan" made by the RFC in 1932 to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, formerly headed by Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

Only $84,000 on Principal.

Only about $84,000 of the $500,000 went to reduce the principal of the huge loan, however. The remainder went for interest on the unpaid balance, which is computed at 5½ per cent. As a result the unpaid balance on Jan. 31 amounted to about $43,836,000, Albers said.

Albers said the $500,000 was the smallest collection for any quarter in 1938. In the quarter ended Oct. 31 collections totaled $528,000; in the three months ended July 31, $990,925, and in the quarter ended April 30, $726,000.

The 100 page report filed with Judge Prystalski listed many instances in which the liquidator made compromise settlements with debtors for as little as 2 and 3 cents on the dollar rather than undertake expensive litigation which might not yield any greater return in the end.

$5,000 Pays Off $188,848.

Joseph H. Ewing, once the wealthy head of the Ewing Press, Inc., had debts against him totaling $188,848 which were settled for $5,000 in cash. In the report, Albers called attention to the fact that Ewing was related to a high official of the former Insull utility enterprises. This relation made it possible for Ewing's company to do most of the printing required by Insull companies.

But the utility empire collapsed, and in 1936, after years of operating at a loss, the Ewing Press was dissolved. Large holdings of Insull securities, in which Ewing had invested a large part of his personal income, turned out to be a total loss, the report said. Today Ewing, who is 67 years old and in poor health, is unable to find work, the report said. His total "assets" are some worthless stocks, a few thousand dollars in life insurance on which he has borrowed the limit, a membership in a golf club, and a bank balance of a little over $100, according to the report.

Wife Makes Payment.

Mrs. Ewing paid the $5,000 to settle the debts against her husband. According to the report, her assets are sufficient to provide for both herself and her husband.

A claim of $26,475 against Arthur Lazarus was settled in an unusual manner. Lazarus, an insurance broker gave the liquidators a bill of sale for collateral valued at $12,000. Also, he agreed to pay $3,600 in cash, of which $500 was to be paid immediately and the rest in monthly instalments of $100 each.

In addition, he obligated himself to pay 50 per cent of the gross earnings, above $12,000 a year, of Arthur Lazarus & Co., an insurance firm, for the three year period ending either June 30 or June 31, 1941.

CHICAGO'S LIVE STOCK SUPPLY SETS 50 YEAR JANUARY LOW RECORD

Receipts of meat animals at the Chicago stock yards last month were smallest in 50 years for January. Supplies of cattle, calves, hogs, and sheep totaled 912,820 head, compared with 1,078,240 in January, 1938. This was a decline of 165,420 head, or about 15 per cent.

Most of the decrease from a year ago was in hogs. The hog total of 484,656 was second smallest for January in records that date back to 1878. It showed a drop of 95,673 from the January supply last year.

The stock yards received 151,182 head of cattle during January, the smallest for that month since 1882. Receipts were 187,054 a year ago.

Sheep and lamb receipts for the month were 251,191 head. These equaled the smallest January total since 1893. The total was 284,328 a year ago.

January receipts for three years follow:

ASK INSURANCE DATA FOR INQUIRY ON MONOPOLIES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Twenty-six legal reserve life insurance companies with aggregate admitted assets of about $23,000,000,000 this week received monopoly investigation questionnaires from the Securities and Exchange commission, the SEC announced today. The commission asked facts relating to heretofore unpublished details of insurance company activities. Replies were requested by April 1.

The questionnaire contains 108 tables to be filled out as well as a long list of questions for information on security transactions, agreements with issuers of securities covering future issues and data on the year by year character and valuation of all company assets. It was believed to be as comprehensive a demand for information as any state or federal agency ever has made upon corporations in this field.

The questionnaire concerns only one phase of insurance investigation sponsored by the monopoly investigating commitee. The committee will start public hearings on the insurance companies Monday.

CHICAGO TRANSIT SYSTEMS' TRAFIC BELOW 1938 LEVEL

January trafic on the Chicago Surface Lines was 2.44 per cent less than in the corresponding month of 1938, company officials reported yesterday. December trafic was 3.61 per cent less than a year earlier.

January business of the Chicago Rapid Transit company [the elevated] was down 3.35 per cent from a year ago compared with a decline of 6.37 per cent in December. Last Monday, the first day of the storm, 490,000 passengers were carried on the system. On Tuesday, Jan. 31, the number of passengers reached 585,000, the highest in several months.

The Chicago Motor Coach company reported January trafic was down 2.44 per cent from last year compared with a loss of 0.37 per cent in December.

NATION FIGHTS HOUSING PLAN OF CENSUS STAF

Protests 3½ Million Needless Spending.

BY AL CHASE.

Washington's newest plan to spend more money by erecting a $3,500,000 building to house census employés for three years has met a nation-wide protest, it was learned yesterday. Property owners, real estate men, and national and city organizations are demanding that the project be decentralized by using some of the 35,000,000 square feet of vacant office building space throughout the country.

Among the Chicago organizations which wired protests to Washington were the Chicago Building Managers' association, of which Graham Aldis is president, and the Chicago Real Estate board, headed by Paul C. Loeber.

National Boards Protest.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards and the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, both with headquarters in Chicago, also wired suggestions to Washington urging the abandonment of the $3,500,000 building project. The Building Owners' association asked forty-eight member associations throughout the country to send protests to Washington.

Congressman John G. Alexander of Minnesota, former president of the Minneapolis Association of Building Owners and Managers, in a house committee hearing at Washington recently pointed out that at present 18 per cent of the office building space of the country is vacant. This amounts, he said, to 35,651,623 square feet.

Suggestion of Congressman.

"The appropriation of $3,500,000 for this new building calls for a structure with an area of 417,000 square feet for use of the census bureau," Alexander said. "Why not go out into the states and rent this space? I know the building owners and managers throughout the country would be pleased to give their vacant space at reasonable rates in an effort to meet their running expenses, taxes, and fixed charges on their properties, which have been standing vacant for the last seven or eight years.

"Let us divide up this census business and send it back to the states where it belongs. You are going to have to take the census out in the states, anyway. Why build more when we have over thirty-five million square feet of building space vacant in this country today?"

The telegrams sent to senators and congressmen by the presidents of the Chicago Real Estate board and the Building Managers' Association of Chicago urged that Chicago be given a share of the census activities.

Warns of Overcrowding.

"Why further overcrowd Washington when it is possible to decentralize this work into different cities, thereby providing local purchasing power for offices, apartments, and merchandise in places where taxes are raised?" asked Aldis in his telegram to Washington.

Russell Tyson, senior partner of the realty firm of Aldis & Co., in a telegram to Senator Lewis [D., Ill.] said, "Deficiency bill carries three and a half millions for new building in Washington for census commission. This seems absurd when millions of square feet of office space are available for rent at low rates in any one of several principal cities. Please vote to eliminate this item of needless expense. The census work could be better done in Chicago outside of congested Washington and give employment locally, helping Chicago merchants and real estate."

Woolworth, Westinghouse Profits Are Lower for 1938

The F. W. Woolworth company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company reported lower 1938 earnings to shareholders yesterday.

Woolworth officials said sales in December were the highest in the company's history, indicating "an upward trend in 1939."

Woolworth's 1938 net profit was $28,584,944, equal to $2.95 a share. This compared with the 1937 profit of $33,176,509, or $3.40 a share.

A. W. Robertson reports January business better.

The company did not include in its 1938 profit $1,748,238 of unrealized dividends and undistributed earnings of its Germany subsidiary. Income of $1,748,238 from the German company was credited to the parent company's earnings in 1937. The practice of including the German company's profits was discontinued because of the restrictions against taking money out of the country.

Profit Cut in Half.

A. W. Robertson, president of Westinghouse, said the company's business did not improve in the latter part of 1938, but added "there was a definite improvement in January." Westinghouse's 1938 profit fell to about half the 1937 figure. Net income was $9,052,773, equal to $3.38 a share after preferred dividends. This compared with $20,126,408, or $7.53 on the combined preferred and common shares in 1937.

The company is one of the largest manufacturers of electrical equipment and heavy machinery.

The 1938 sales totaled $157,953,216, compared with $206,348,307 in 1937, a decrease of 23 per cent. Orders booked in 1938 were $149,662,776, or 35 per cent below 1937.

Roscoe Seybold, vice president and controler of the company, was elected a director.

National Steel Earns Less.

National Steel corporation issued a preliminary 1938 statement listing net profit of $6,661,651, equal to $3.03 a share. This compares with 1937 profit of $17,801,893, or $8.21 a share. Fourth quarter net income was $2,753,156, equal to $1.25 a share, against $2,508,925, or $1.19 a share in the corresponding 1937 period.

Continental Steel corporation said preliminary figures indicated a 1938 profit of $630,000, or $2.30 a share, compared with $814,533, or $3.20 a share, in 1937. December quarter operations resulted in a profit of about $228,000, against $21,041 in the corresponding period of 1937.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer company reported net earnings of $341,657 for the nine months ended Dec. 31. This compared with net earnings of $1,551,300 in the first nine months of the preceding year.

4 SENATORS URGE GREENBACK ISSUE ACT BE REPEALED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Four Republican senators joined today in asking repeal of statutory authority for the President to issue $3,000,000,000 "in greenbacks."

They warned in a resolution that "unsecured and irredeemable paper currency would endanger the entire economic and political structure of the country."

Senators Bridges and Tobey of New Hampshire, Danaher of Connecticut and Taft of Ohio, were the four who sponsored the resolution. They said the authority vested in the administration to issue the currency "would impose hardships on small savers and investors, holders of life insurance policies, wage earners, and those with fixed incomes."

Chicago City Railway Gets $388,457 Tax Abatement

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The bureau of internal revenue announced today that the Chicago City Railway Company of Chicago had received a $388,457 income tax abatement. It was found that there were overassessments in 1924, 1925, and 1926.

'QUIXOTIC' RAIL REORGANIZING PLANS ASSAILED

Inadequate, Senate Group Declares.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Present plans for reorganization of insolvent railroads were criticized as inadequate by the senate railroad finance committee today. The committee reported on plans for the reorganization of the Wabash and Missouri Pacific railroads.

Sen. B. K. Wheeler.

Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.], commenting on reorganization plans in general, said they are "not unlike the building of flimsy shanties in hurricane country." The committee compared sinking fund provisions in the plans with "the Quixotic plan of a hobo to earmark part of his income for the purchase of a Rolls-Royce."

The report submitted today was the first of a series on the investigation begun in the senate in 1936. In it the committee declared that the Wabash and Missouri Pacific plans indicate the need for sound provisions for the future financing of the reorganized railroads.

Stresses Future Needs.

One criticism made by Senator Wheeler in his accompanying statement was that the present plans fail to make sound provision for future financing through stocks and so are harbingers of renewed insolvency.

"On the surface," Wheeler said, "the plans may seem conservative and even drastic, but when you study them you find that they are going to lead to a renewed piling up of debt, a renewed overload of fixed charges and repeated bankruptcy in the next period of reduced earnings."

Railroad authorities have maintained that a greater part of the financial structures of the road should consist of stocks so as to reduce the amount of fixed charges that must be met during lean periods.

Wheeler said the Wabash and Mis-

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—The stock market lost some of its recent gains today in a trading lull. Declines ranged from fractions to 2 points. Sales fell to 581,920 shares.

Many traders attributed the recession to technical factors after the sharp rise since last Friday. The lower trend of American stocks on the London exchange was another influence, it was said. Professionals contributed the bulk of activity, brokers reported.

The market seemed to lack power to move substantially one way or the other. Even some constructive domestic news items failed to develop interest. The United States Steel corporation earnings report was judged much better than generally expected.

One reason for caution, some observers suggested, may have been the inclination to await developments in the foreign policy of the federal administration. The secrecy surrounding President Roosevelt's plan to aid the democracies against dictatorships was not taken too kindly in the financial district, they said.

Steels proved vulnerable. United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube each declined more than one point. Republic gave up ⅞. Large fractional losses appeared against active motor stocks, including General Motors and Chrysler.

Most aircraft issues dipped fractionally. Curtiss-Wright, North American Aviation, and Glenn Martin were most active in the group. Sperry and United Aircraft lost 1¼ and 1 point, respectively.

Utility issues showed some life at one time but top prices were pared before the close.

Carrier shares were depressed despite forecasts of better car loadings. Santa Fe slumped 1⅜ points. Electric equipment shares were heavy, General Electric losing 1½ points and Westinghouse 2½.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Bonds were mostly lower today, but a few groups made moderate gains. United States government loans and the general run of low yield corporate issues were taken at improved prices. Federal bond gains ranged up to 11-32ds point.

An offering of one bond of New York, Lake Erie and Western Coal [5½s of '42] brought a drop of 66⅛ points from the previous sale, made in 1937.

Foreign dollar bonds again reflected the seemingly more settled European situation. Italian government 7s pushed up half a point, and wider gains were recorded in loans of Japan and Poland.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were irregular yesterday in moderate trading. The Tribune's average closed at 10.82, compared with 10.86 on Tuesday. Of 103 issues traded, 38 advanced, 41 declined, and 24 were unchanged.

Volume leaders included: Middle West, unchanged at 7½; Chicago corporation unchanged at 1⅞; Commonwealth Edison unchanged at 27¾; Butler Brothers up ⅝ at 8¼; Bendix Aviation, down ⅞ at 25⅛, and Marshall Field, off ¼ at 12⅝.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday, dealers reported. Closing bids ranged from $1 lower to $2 higher. American National Bank and Trust company and Harris Trust company stock advanced $2. Shares of the First National bank declined $1 and those of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, 50 cents.

INSURANCE FIRM REPORTS RECENT TURN FOR BETTER

1938 Is 'Satisfactory' for Northwestern Mutual.

Despite adverse business conditions during much of the year, the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, Milwaukee, made satisfactory progress in 1938, M. J. Cleary, president, said yesterday in the company's eighty-first annual report. The company is one of the largest of its kind in the country.

M. J. Cleary.

"New business showed a satisfactory volume during the last year, the close of which marked a distinct turn for the better," Cleary said. "Although total sales for 1938 were below those of 1937, the amount of insurance in force at Dec. 31 showed an increase of more than 34 millions.

Mortality Rate Low.

"The trend of the year in all major factors of the business, except finding adequate outlets in which to invest funds, was reasonably satisfactory. Low mortality and low expenses enabled the company to retain its dividend scale, notwithstanding reduced interest yields on new investments."

Cleary said Northwestern Mutual sold 65,635 new life policies for a total of $233,907,794, an average of $3.564 per policy. In addition there were 1,561 life annuities for $6,139,555, and also revivals, increases, and dividend additions aggregating $12,339,789. Total insurance increased to $3,893,591,675, represented by 1,044,541 policies.

TRADE IN EGGS IS SMALLEST IN ABOUT 2 YEARS

Trading in egg futures was the smallest in nearly two years on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. October refrigerator eggs at 19¼ cents a dozen and February fresh eggs at 16¼ cents a dozen closed unchanged. Reports of storms in the northwest offset the depressing effect of lower cash prices.

May and November butter futures eased to new six year lows in quiet trading. November storage butter declined to 22⅛ cents, off ⅛ cent, and May butter to 21¼ cents, off ¼ cent. Cash prices were maintained by Federal Surplus Commodities corporation purchases of 198,000 pounds of butter.

BURLINGTON TOPS ILLINOIS RAILS IN TAX VALUATION

1938 Figure Is Raised to $45,895,000.

The 1938 property tax valuation of the Burlington railroad properties in Illinois is again the highest of any of the roads operating in the state. A report of the Illinois tax commission yesterday showed the Burlington's valuation is $45,895,000, compared with $43,587,296 for 1937, an increase of 5.29 per cent.

The tax commission fixes assessments for railroads for all of the local taxing bodies in the state.

Total Valuation 346 Million.

Simeon E. Leland, commission chairman, announced Monday that the total 1938 assessed valuation of all railroads in the state was $346,230,900, a decrease of 7 per cent from the $369,851,417 valuations for 1937.

Many changes were made in individual valuations as the tax commission, under authority of the revised 1937 railroad tax law, used new methods for fixing and allocating assessments to the various counties of the state.

Investors' Guide

Thursday, February 2, 1939.

[Copyright, 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

Investors' Guide: I bought some 7 per cent preferred stock of Armour & Co. in 1937 because I wanted a stock that would pay regular dividends. Now the stock I have has not paid any dividends since early last year, but I notice in the papers that some Armour 7 per cent preferred stock is still paying. What is the difference between these Armour stocks, besides the fact that one pays dividends and the other doesn't?—B. M.

Answer: You apparently bought the 7 per cent preferred of the parent company, Armour of Illinois, on which dividends have been skipped since January, 1938, because of unprofitable operations.

The 7 per cent preferred that is still paying is that of Armour & Co. of Delaware, a subsidiary of Armour of Illinois. The parent company has guaranteed the payment of dividends on the Armour of Delaware preferred, so this stock has a prior claim to stocks of the parent concern.

SWAPPING IS TAXED.

Investors' Guide: I have 100 shares of Packard stock which I don't want to hold. A friend of mine has 50 shares of Nash-Kelvinator stock that he doesn't like. On the basis of present market prices, we figure that an even trade would be about fair. I'm going to swap my Packard stock for his Nash shares. What we should like to know is whether there is any kind of transfer tax on this trade.—A. B. M.

Answer: Yes, there is a federal stamp tax on the "seller" in such a swap. You are "selling" Packard stock for Nash stock and your friend is doing vice versa. The stamp tax is 4 cents a share for stocks with a market value of less than $20. Your stamp tax bill is $4, and your friend's is half as much.

CAN'T BUY ASKI MARKS.

Investors' Guide: Our company is a small one, but we import a good many clocks from Germany. We pay for them by shipping cotton and building up a "cotton account" with the Reichsbank. Now I read the other day that South Americans who buy German goods are paying for them with aski marks which can be bought cheaply in South American countries. I understand these marks are not sold in the United States, but wondered if we could buy some from South American banks to pay for our clocks.—E. K.

Answer: No, you cannot buy them, because aski marks can be used only by residents of the country in which they are sold. Germans use aski marks to pay for goods they buy, but the marks may be used by Latin Americans only to buy Nazi goods.

Firm in Advance Fee Case Loses SEC Registration

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission announced today it had revoked the registrations of Bernard B. Gross and the Warren-Franklin corporation, both of Chicago, as over the counter brokers and dealers. Gross is head of the company. The commission held a hearing Jan. 17 on charges that the applications for registration contained misrepresentations. The SEC charged the firm was engaged in a business known as the "advance fee racket," taking fees for promises to help business men raise capital but failing to carry out the financing.

'QUIXOTIC' RAIL REORGANIZATION PLANS ASSAILED

Inadequate, Investigating Group Tells Senate.

souri plans would continue the practices that have led to insolvencies in the past.

"Consummation of the proposed plans would not only be a costly waste of reorganization expenses," the committee report said, "on a temporary makeshift, but would adversely affect all the shippers whom the Wabash and Missouri Pacific serve, all the workers they employ, and all the industries that supply them with materials."

Warn of Overoptimism.

The committee declared that among the objectionable features of the plans were too much dependence on income bonds, too great dependency on sinking funds for bond retirements, the use of open end mortgages, and overoptimism about future earnings.

Stating that some of the railroad organizers appear to be more concerned about getting the most for their own interests in the event of future government ownership than about guarding against future insolvencies, the committee said it appears one reason why the insurance companies are willing to accept income bonds is that such bonds may be accorded better treatment than preferred stock in the event of government ownership. It added that the future bankruptcies which do not seem to worry those favoring the plans may be the very agencies that may cause government ownership.

Pennsy's Stand Criticized.

The committee attacked the positions of the Pennsylvania railroad and the Alleghany corporation, owners of large parts of the Wabash and Missouri Pacific junior securities, respectively, in the reorganization plans.

"These interests," the committee said, "under whose control the Wabash and Missouri Pacific, respectively, went into receivership, are apparently concerned more with the retention of their own control than with the establishment of sound railroad capitalizations.

"If their investments in these railroads have proved unwise, they are unwilling nevertheless to submit to surgery that is required to bring about healthy railroad structures.

"The indicated remedy is to pare the corporate structure down to a size, not merely presently compatible with earnings, but small enough to allow a sufficient margin of safety to make future financing through the issuance of common stock an actual probability."

Gray Tells His Views.

Another phase of the study of railroads went forward as the house interstate commerce committee heard testimony by Carl Gray, vice chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad. Gray took sharp issue with a statement of an interstate commerce commission member that the government should force consolidation of some railroads.

Under question by Representative Mapes [R., Mich.], Gray said, "In my judgment that would result in the most endless litigation any one ever encountered in railroad legislation."

Gray told the committee that President Roosevelt's committee on transportation is drafting an omnibus bill to be presented in a few weeks. He said it would substitute for the bill by Chairman Clarence Lea [D., Cal.]. He did not explain how it differed from the Lea bill, which would recognize and strengthen the I. C. C.

Senator King [D, Utah] meanwhile offered legislation to strip the I. C. C. of rate making and other major powers.

BANK OF ENGLAND TO REVALUE GOLD AT MARKET PRICE

New Bill Also Will Slash Fiduciary Note Issue.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Revaluation of the Bank of England's gold at the current market price was provided for in a bill introduced in the house of commons today by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon.

The bill likewise provided for a decrease in the fiduciary note issue—the paper money secured not by gold but by government securities—to £300,000,000 from £400,000,000. The issue had been boosted to the latter figure when the bank transferred to the exchange equalization fund £200,000,000 in gold Jan. 6 in an effort to bolster the sagging pound.

The old figure for the value of gold was 84 shillings 10½ pence an ounce. The market price today was 148 shillings 7½ pence [$34.77].

The last statement of the Bank of England showed gold holdings at £127,086,000 [approximately $594,603,000] at the old valuation. At the new valuation the gold reserves are jumped to £222,540,820 [about $1,041,000,000 at today's market].

At the old rate after its devaluation the pound was carried at a nominal valuation of $8.2397, but today's closing rate of exchange in London was 4.67⅜ dollars to the pound.

Under the Simon bill, the gold will be revalued weekly at the prevailing market price.

The bank, it is understood, will retain the profit made by the transaction.

Doubt Any Market Effect.

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Decision by British financial authorities today to revalue the Bank of England's gold reserve was regarded by many New York bankers as unlikely immediately to affect the pound sterling in the world's exchange markets.

Some bankers thought the proposal presaged an attempt to prepare the capital market for further armament loans, which it has been announced will be necessary this year.

COTTON

Mill and foreign buying caused a small advance yesterday in American cotton markets. Closing trades were at gains of .01 to .06 cent a pound on the active deliveries. There was some buying of March against sales of the deferred deliveries.

The Liverpool cotton market was reported disturbed by rumors that some of the cotton pledged to the United States government for loans would be reclaimed.

Spot cotton closed .04 to .05 cent higher, with New York at 8.99 cents; New Orleans, 8.53 cents; Houston, 8.37 cents, and Galveston at 8.31 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Petunias Planted.

By Frank Ridgway

February 1, 1939.

MIDWINTER seeding of flowers is being continued by gardeners at the Du Page county farm. Petunia seeds have been planted indoors during the last few days. The plants will be nursed along until they safely can be set in the open garden or in boxes.

A comparatively new dwarf petunia of the double apple blossom type is being tried out at the farm for the first time this year. The head gardener saw this petunia growing on trial grounds in the Chicago area last summer. He believes it will be suitable for border planting. Seeds of this petunia were planted last week.

The orchid beauty is another petunia being tried out. It is of the double flowering kind with a light lilac colored flower. Pronounced veins run through the petals. Seeds of this one already have been started indoors.

Use Sterilized Soil.

The farm's chief gardener says that since petunia seeds are expensive and small it is best to give them a good start by sowing them in fine soil that has been sterilized. He uses a mixture of one-fourth well rotted leaf mold and three-fourths muck soil. A little sand is then stirred into the mixture.

After the soil has been thoroughly mixed it is poured into a flat, pressed down firmly, and watered. Then the seed is carefully sown on the surface. To avoid disturbing the tiny seeds the soil is watered by setting the flat in a shallow pan of water. In this way the water is taken up into the soil from the bottom and the newly sown seeds are not washed into small drifts on the surface of the seed bed, as is often the case where water is poured onto the soil.

In sterilizing soil the farm's gardeners use the "thermomo-spud" method, in which an ordinary Irish potato is put into the soil to indicate when it has been properly sterilized. This plan is much more simple than the method often used where live steam is forced through the soil.

How to Heat Soil.

A simple outdoor furnace is employed. This is made by digging a trench deep enough so that a hot fire can be kept going under a sheet of metal or a vat. Both soil and sand may be sterilized under this plan. In heating the soil spread it out on the hot metal or bottom of the vat and bury a medium sized potato in the center. The soil has been sufficiently heated when the potato is thoroughly baked. When the potato is tender enough to eat then the soil or sand has been sufficiently heated to kill weed seeds and harmful bacteria and fungi, according to the gardeners.

Sterilized soil is valuable in starting flower and vegetable seeds in flats indoors. It aids in preventing a disease among plants known as "damping off" which is caused by parasitic fungi.

A CORRECTION.
Recently we advertised a 1937 Dodge at $395 as equipped with a built-in trunk, radio, heater, etc.
This was incorrect because, although a car answering th's description was and still is available as advertised, our salesman attempted to sell as the advertised automobile, a 1937 Dodge which was not equipped with a radio.
We regret this error and pledge it will not recur.
